SENATOR HANNA MISSED IN OHIO

Republicans Find Fighting Harder Without Their Old Leader.

SECRET OF BOOM

"Uncle Mark" Was Always Loyal to Roosevelt and Never Inspired Opposition.

UNTOLD POLITICAL HISTORY

By L. W. STRAYER.
(Staff Correspondent.)

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

CLEVELAND, Sept. 30.—"It is not fair in these temperance people to criticise Gov. Herrick as they do," said a Republican in Cincinnati. "He has acted in good faith in this liquor legislation, and if Senator Hanna were alive he would have prevented this disturbance, for he could have convinced the Cincinnati saloon element of the truth."

In conversation with a worker at headquarters in Columbus, he said to me: "There is no denying the fact we are short of funds this year. Contributions have not been what they should be because the business interests feel Roosevelt has a sure thing and there is no danger. But if 'Uncle Mark' were alive he would raise a campaign fund for us. The business men always listened to him."

"Yes," remarked a prominent worker in the Cleveland organization today, "we have the guns all loaded and are ready to fire, but we can't find any enemy. That's why the fight is not more interesting. But do you known what Hanna would do if he were here now? He would fire a couple of rounds of blank cartridges just to scare the enemy out."

Where Hanna Is Missed.

I have quoted remarks I heard in both ends and in the middle of the state; remarks that in themselves are unimportant, but which when taken together are full of significance. They show how in all aprts of this great commonwealth the loss of the master mind and astute leader is felt. This is the first campaign in Ohio since the death of Senator Hanna. It is no reflection upon the ability and judgment of the Republican leaders who are in charge of this campaign to state there is not an hour of the day when some one of them does not wish he could go to Hanna with some knotty question that demands solution.

For eight years Mr. Hanna was the head and front for the Republican organization in Ohio, a relation which he also sustained to the national organization. He was a leader of men. In him the people had confidence; it was he who steered the Republican party of this state through the shoals and past the rocks of political disaster. When he sounded the call to arms every Republican buckled on his armor and went out to fight. Captains and lieutenants, picked for their ability and intelligence, took their places on the line of battle, but each and every man looked to the commanding general for orders. The plan of attack and the mode of defense were his.

Party in no Danger.

Upon others has now fallen the responsibility of deciding questions of policy and planning the campaigns. If any one has the idea the death of Senator Hanna marked the beginning of the disintegration of the Republican party in Ohio, let him be undeceived. There is not the slightest danger of such an eventuality. Republicans in Ohio are not machine made; they are Republicans from principle. If you have doubts on this point, ask Tom L. Johnson of Cleveland. For years he has been cajoling and promising and threatening the people of this state in an endeavor to win them away from Republicanism until the climax of his activity was reached in his race for governor last fall. What was the result? One hundred and thirteen thousand majority for Herrick.

You cannot convince Johnson Ohio Republicans are not Republicans from principle. He knows. He has just announced that this fall he will confine his attention exclusively to Cleveland. No more state campaigns for him. A prominent citizen of Cleveland told me today he believed Johnson, as soon as his term as mayor expires, will leave this city forever and make his home elsewhere. He has run his race in this community.

No, there is not the slightest danger of the downfall of the Republican party in Ohio because of the death of its ablest chieftain. The organization is going ahead in the same old way, working along the same old lines and marching toward an old-time victory. There is no faltering and it is possible that from the majority in the state this fall one would not know that Hanna was gone.

Organization in Good Shape.

But he is greatly missed. The state leaders who have followed him in the past are taking up their new responsibilities without shirking. They make mistakes and they expect to, but they endeavor to profit by every error. George B. Cox, the Republican leader of Cincinnati, did not always agree with Senator Hanna on party affairs, although during the last few years he and the senator were very close. I asked him about the condition of the state organization, and he said:

"It is in very good condition, but it is not as strong as it was when Hanna was living. He is missed by the Republican party in Ohio. He and I got along all right and were very good friends."

At state headquarters in Columbus I asked some of the party managers if they did not sometimes feel the need of Senator Hanna's sound judgment on questions that were hard to solve. The answer in every case was the same:

"Yes," they said, "we miss him. There is always some matter coming up that we would like to take to him for advice."

No one was a greater admirer of Senator Hanna's abilities than Congressman T. E. Burton of Cleveland. Burton was not known as a "Hanna man." He and the senator had no differences, but Burton always had such control over his district that he was never under the necessity of soliciting Senator Hanna's aid and

TO STRIKE WHILE THE IRON IS HOT

Mayor Will File Suit Today or Monday to Force Larkin to Issue Bonds.

ONE CASE IS TO SETTLE IT

After defeating him in the contest over the filtration payroll, which was decided yesterday by Judge Frazer, the administration does not propose to give Controller Larkin a chance to recover from this blow, but will follow up the advantage gained by a sharp, radical attack on him in the courts today or Monday. Mayor Hays stated yesterday the papers in the suit to compel the controller to issue the $5,000,000 filtration bonds were ready to be filed.

"My name will appear as plaintiff in the suit," said the mayor. "Not only will we ask for a mandamus to compel the controller to advertise the bonds for sale, as he has refused to do, but we will go a step further and ask the court to instruct him to sign the bonds. The controller has not yet refused to sign the bonds, but he is certain to do so if we give him a chance.

"It is his plan, if he loses the first suit and is forced to advertise the bonds for sale, to refuse to sign the bonds after they are sold, and thus cause more delay and another lawsuit. We are determined to prevent this if possible, and hope to settle the whole question by the one suit.

"I hope Mr. Rodgers will file the suit tomorrow, but he may wait until Monday morning, because the courts close at noon on Saturdays. We intend to put the bond sale through as soon as possible, to get the money and start work on the plant at once. Ordinances authorizing the letting of the contract will be introduced at the next meeting of councils, and we fear no trouble in passing them."

POSTMASTER GENERAL PAYNE MAY RECOVER

Hopeful Message from Bedsde Announced by Physicians. Still Very Sick.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—At 10 o'clock tonight Dr. McGruder, one of the attending physicians at the bedside of Postmaster General Payne, came from the latter's room and to a waiting group of anxious friends said: "I have just left Mr. Payne. He is sleeping well and resting quietly. If these favorable symptoms continue I feel that he will recover. He is, however, still a very sick man."

This was two hours after the regular bulletin had been issued, and in that time there had been a change in the patient's condition for the better, so marked as to attract the attention of the physicians and give them encouragement.

Dr. Osler of Johns Hopkins university, Baltimore, who attended Senator Hanna, was called to the city during the day and is at Mr. Payne's bedside tonight. There is a much more cheerful feeling around the Payne apartments at the Arlington hotel, and among his friends tonight than was shown during the day.

Many prominent men called at his apartments today to inquire as to the postmaster general's condition. The president came twice, once accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt, and expressed the greatest concern over the distinguished patient's illness.

TO DRUM EUROPE FOR STEEL TRADE

Thorough Canvass to Be Made for New Markets in Finished Products.

AFFILIATING WITH CANADIANS

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—W. C. Cronemeyer of the American Sheet Steel and Tin Plate Company has been ordered to make a tour of Europe in the interests of the United States Steel Corporation and will start upon his mission at once. It is understood he will act directly under the orders of the United Products Company, which handles the entire export trade of the corporation, and that he will make a thorough canvass of every important European city in the interest of new markets for the finished products of the tin plate mills and the other mills of the corporation.

Interests closely affiliated with the United States Steel Corporation are said to hold a controlling block in the Steel and Iron Company, organized with a nominal capital of $2,500,000, to take over and operate the Cramp Steel works at Collingswood, Canada.

In this connection it is said that the new company, which is called the Northern Steel and Iron Company, Limited, will ultimately be used as the Canadian subsidiary of the Steel Corporation, and that the new plant may be in operation much sooner than if the corporation undertook to build an entire new plant at any point in Canada.

INSANE INVALID'S ACT.

Attempts to Murder His Wife and Cuts His Own Throat.

SHARON, PA., Sept. 30.—(Special.)—While temporarily insane from continued ill health, Thomas Griffin this afternoon attempted to kill his wife with a flat iron and then slashed his own throat with a razor. After the children left the house Griffin walked into the kitchen where his wife was working and securing a hot flat iron from the stove, struck his wife on the head, felling her to the floor. She regained her feet and he hit her a second time before she managed to make her escape. Policeman Sweeney and several neighbors went to the Griffin home but found the doors locked. Breaking in they found Griffin lying unconscious under a table in a pool of blood. He was removed to the hospital and his chances of recovery are slight. Mrs. Griffin has two long scalp wounds and her hands are a mass of burns where the hot iron touched them.

Archduke Is Insane.

BERLIN, Sept. 30.—(Special Cable.)—A report comes here from Vienna that Archduke Otto, a brother of the heir presumptive, Archduke Francis Ferdinand, is on the verge of insanity and will probably die from a thickening of the membranes surrounding the brain, probably brought on by his dissipated life.

MRS. PHIPPS GOES TO METROPOLIS

Almost at Same Hour She Gets to New York Henry Phipps Also Arrives.

DENIES SHE TALKED WITH HIM

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Mrs. Genevieve Chandler Phipps came to New York from Pittsburgh today with the two little girls and registered at the Netherlands.

Almost at the same hour Henry Phipps, uncle of Lawrence Cowle Phipps, the husband of Mrs. Phipps, arrived from Europe on the Baltic and went to another hotel. In the afternoon Mrs. Phipps left the Netherlands and went down town in a hansom accompanied by her traveling companion and sent the children out for a walk.

It could not be ascertained just where Mrs. Phipps went, but at the office of her attorney, James M. Beck, it was said that he was holding an important conference then. At 5 o'clock Mr. Beck was seen but denied that he had held any conference with Mrs. Phipps or Henry Phipps.

"The case is closed," he said positively. "Mrs. Phipps has secured the custody of her children and has them with her now. The financial settlements have been made and the whole matter is concluded to the perfect satisfaction of all parties. There is no need for further conference."

By the young woman who is her traveling companion she sent word that she had come to New York on private business, not connected with her suit. She said through her companion that she had not held any business conference with the uncle of Mr. Phipps.

DEMOCRAT IS BARRED FROM STATE CAMPAIGN

All of Kentucky Indignant Because of the Action of the Lieutenant Governor.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

LOUISVILLE, KY., Sept. 30.—The Democrats of Kentucky have barred Lieut.-Gov. W. P. Thorne from participation in the state campaign, which will open October 3. For years, one of the most prominent Democrats in the state, Lieut.-Gov. Thorne Wednesday became the object of the warth of every good citizen in the state, regardless of politics, by granting a pardon to Clem Buchter, who on the night of August 9, 1901, in Louisville, shot and killed his beautiful daughter, Irene, while her arms were about his neck. His wife coming to the rescue of the girl was met with a bullet, which struck her in the breast.

After two trials Buchter was sent to the penitentiary for life. Wednesday during the absence of Gov. Beckham, Acting Gov. Thorne gave Buchter a pardon, claiming he was suffering from locomotor ataxia, was nearly blind and of unsound mind.

Prison Physician H. C. Tobin denounced these statements as being untrue, saying that Buchter was perfectly sane and well and his eyesight was good.

MRS. FAIRBANKS SPOKE.

WINDSOR, CONN., Sept. 30.—A patriotic pilgrimage was made to this place today by the Daughters of the American Revolution of the Connecticut chapters, the local chapter, Abagail Wolcott Ellsworth, entertaining. Among the guests was Mrs. C. W. Fairbanks of Indianapolis, president general of the National society, who delivered an address on "Continental Hall." The graves of Oliver Ellsworth, a former chief justice of the United States, and his wife, Abagail, also those of Roger Wolcott, governor of Connecticut in 1750, and his wife, were decorated. On the lawn of the Ellsworth homestead a charter oak was planted, and Mrs. Fairbanks held a reception.

OYAMA BEGINS HIS ADVANCE

Entire Japanese Army Is Moving Against Russian Lines.

BATTLE AT MUKDEN

London Hears That Kuropatkin Has Been Defeated in General Engagement.

ALEXIEFF TO BE RECALLED

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

LONDON, Oct. 1.—According to the Morning Post's Shanghai corresondent, it is reported there that the Japanese have been victorious in a general engagement at Mukden.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 1.—The war office at a late hour tonight gave out a telegram from Gen. Sakharoff, dated September 30, describing a successful onslaught upon a Japanese advance guard near Yen-Tai, September 28. The Japanese began the fight by attacking a position held by the Russians at Oulitajdze, 20 miles south of the Hun river. The Russians withdrew, then countermarched and occupied the enemy's position at Toumytsa, north of Yen-Tai, and drove the Japanese as far as Yen-Ttai station, losing only four men wounded, whereas the Japanese lost 20 killed or wounded.

Gen. Sakharoff further reports that a reconnaissance, September 29, showed that the Japanese force was concentrating in increasing numbers along the Yen-Tai branch of the railroad, and that there is also considerable concentration of the Japanese along the Tai-Tse river, near Benshu.

Advance Has Begun.

It is admitted the Japanese advance has already begun along the whole line, assuming its most active form in the east, whither Field Marshal Oyama continues to draft large forces. Operations are also progressing west of the railroad.

The likelihood of the appointment of Grand Duke Nicholas Nicholalevitch as commander-in-chief is increasing. The grand duke has informed the officers of the regiment of dragoons, of which he is the honorary colonel, of the probability of his going to the far east, adding he would take the regiment with him as his bodyguard.

The return of Viceroy Alexieff is practically certain. There is good reason to believe that he will succeed Foreign Minister Lamsdorff, who will be appointed a member of the council of the empire.

The dowager empress of Russia has embarked at Reval for Copenhagen. She has gone to meet the queen of England, and it is expected she will remain in Copenhagen a month. The meeting of the sisters may also be connected with affairs of state, as the dowager empress would not be likely to leave her Red Cross work, in which she is deeply interested, for a mere family visit.

Concentrating at Yen-Tai.

HARBIN, Sept. 30.—Russian scouts have ascertained that fresh Japanese forces are concentrating at the Yen-Tai mines, and gradually moving eastward. A strong Japanese force west of the Liao valley has occupied Siao-Bey-Ho, south of Sin-Min-Tin.

A company of Chinese bandits last night attempted to wreck the railroad near the station of Fantziatun, 150 miles south of Harbin. They killed a sentinel and caused slight damage. A detachment of guards was sent in pursuit of the bandits and the track was repaired by morning.

MUKDEN, Sept. 30.—A great change in the situation here has occurred. The Japanese now appear anxious to act on the defensive, and have fortified a position northwest of the Yen-Tai mines.

According to the best estimates obtainable, the Japanese army confronting Gen. Kuropatkin comprises a grand total of 190 battalions. Allowing 800 men to a battalion, there are 144,000 infantry. In addition there are 6,300 cavalry and 638 guns. The distribution of the Japanese forces is as follows:

One division at Bentsiaputze, two divisions at the Yen-Tai mines, four divisions on the railway, a little north of Liao-Yang; one division westward near Hiamcadense and one division at Sandepu.

Strength of Japanese.

Russians estimate the Japanese forces at following strength:

Gen. Kuroki, with the Guards, and the Second and Twelfth divisions—a total of 86 battalions of infantry, 9 squadrons of cavalry, 108 guns and a separate artillery corps of 108 guns; the Guards' reserve brigade, consisting of 8 battalions of infantry, 9 squadrons of cavalry and 24 guns; and the reserve brigade of 32 battalions of infantry and 36 guns; total of Kuroki's army, 76 battalions of infantry, 18 squadrons of cavalry and 276 guns.

Gen. Oku's army consists of the Third, Fourth and Sixth divisions, or 36 battalions of infantry, 9 squadrons of cavalry, 108 guns, one separate cavalry brigade of 8 squadrons, a separate artillery brigade of 108 guns and reserve brigades comprising 24 battalions of infantry, 9 squadrons of cavalry and 26 guns; total strength of Oku's army, 60 battalions of infantry, 26 squadrons of cavalry and 242 guns.

Gen. Nodzu commands the Fifth and Tenth divisions, consisting of 26 battalions of infantry and 6 squadrons of cavalry. Including reserves, Nodzu's army consists of 44 battalions of infantry, 9 squadrons of cavalry and 120 guns.

GEN. KUROKI'S HEADQUARTERS IN THE FIELD (UNDATED) VIA TIEN-TSIN, Sept. 30.—The most interesting military problem at present is how large a Russian army the railway can support in Manchuria. Merchants who are acquainted with the country believe that if Gen. Kuropatkin should retreat to Harbin he must then bring nearly every pound of food by means of the railway, especially as this year's crop in the Sungari valley has proved a failure.

The railway will be operated to Liao-Yang within a week, and through trains will be running to the front from Dalney and Niuchwang.

THERE IS NO APATHY HERE

Monster Meeting Marks Opening of the Republican Campaign.

VOTERS STAND PAT

WAS NO LACK OF ENTHUSIASM

There was nothing to indicate apathy or lack of interest on the part of the Republicans manifest in the opening of the campaign at Old City hall, last night. Every available inch of space was needed to care for the great throng. A larger gathering was never held in the historic building. There was no lack of enthusiasm and the hundreds of voters remained through three hours of oratory.

Congressman W. P. Hepburn of Iowa, Attorney General Hampton L. Carson, Adjt.-Gen. Thomas J. Stewart and James Francis Burke were the orators of the evening. There was not a dull moment during their addresses. In plain but eloquent language they told the story of Republican achievements and proved conclusively that the man of sanity will not cast his ballot for a change in the national administration. Summed up, the argument can be expressed in the two words uttered by the lamented Hanna: "Stand pat."

Will Work for 60,000.

Now that the campaign is open, Chairman Ford will fight with his usual vigor until the polls close on November 8. The local spellbinders are to be turned loose and Republican doctrine will be preached in every school house in the county. Overconfidence will be guarded against and the great army of Republican workers will labor to the end that a majority of at least 60,000 will be recorded.

The meeting was held under the auspices of the Republican clubs of the county, the work being supervised by a committee headed by Archibald Mackrell. A peep into the hall showed how faithfully the club men had labored. The building was not large enough to hold the crowd that clamored for admission. Hundreds of men were unable to get within hearing distance. Long before the opening hour all seats were occupied and with the coming of the speakers hundreds elbowed their way into the hall, filling every inch of standing room.

Applause for War Veterans.

The arrival of the 400 members of the War Veterans' association of Allegheny was the occasion of prolonged applause. The organization was headed by a band and the line of march was up the center aisle and on the stage. There the "Boys of '61" planted their banners and battle-torn flags and waited the opening of the campaign.

It was not the intention of the managers of the meeting to have a street parade. The Americus and Tariff clubs acted as an escort to the speakers and the members of the committee, who rode in carriages. The line of march was from the Duquesne hotel along Smithfield street, to Sixth avenue, to Grant street, to Fifth avenue to Old City hall. With bands playing, red fire burning and amid the cheers of the hundreds along the route, the procession made its way to the meeting.

It was not an audience made up entirely of men from the cities and towns of the county, but there was a good representation from the rural districts. There were also some faces that have not been seen for some time in the gatherings of the regulars.

Mayorality Aspirants Present.

One of the earliest arrivals was ex-Mayor Andrew Fulton, now the collector of delinquent taxes of Pittsburgh. He has a desire to be a candidate for mayor next time, and he considered that last night offered a good opportunity for him to make his initial reappearance in the company of stalwarts. He was busy shaking hands.

Seated down in the throng was Henry Hunneshagen, director of the department of charities in the city of Allegheny. He has a desire to succeed Mayor James G. Wyman, obtaining the executive chair through the regular route of the Republican primaries.

Seated on the stage was Recorder J. Denny O'Neil, who is daily wrestling with the question of how he can secure a Republican nomination.

There were no doubt many other Citizens there, screened from view by the great assemblage of men who have fought to maintain the supremacy of party regularity.

Three Happy Men.

Three happy, satisfied men were County Chairman Ford, City Chairman Leslie and Secretary Muehlbronner. They are now confident that the high-water majority mark they have fixed for this campaign is within easy reach, if the campaign so successfully launched is carried to completion with the usual untiring vigor they manifest.

On the stage were several men from other points in Western Pennsylvania. Two of the notables were Gen. John A. Wiley of Franklin and Gen. William H. Knontz of Somerset. They said that they had been well repaid for their long journeys to hear the issues of the campaign discussed.

H. G. Wasson, chairman of the committee on meetings and speakers, introduced Lee S. Smith as the presiding officer of the gathering. Mr. Smith said that the only danger in this campaign is overconfidence, but after looking into the faces of his auditors, he was satisfied that there is no ground for this fear. He expressed himself as being confident that the state of Allegheny would stick to its custom of rolling up an old-time majority.

The meeting was held in the Thirty-first congressional district, which will be represented in the next congress by James Francis Burke. Mr. Burke was accorded the privilege of making the opening address. As usual he was happy and eloquent and painted a striking picture of the conditions existing in Pittsburgh today, as compared with the misery during the last Cleveland administration.

Central-Adult

In the introduction of Congressman Hepburn, Chairman Smith referred to the distinguished gentleman from Iowa as one known by reputation to many. The genial general won his audience right on the start by correcting the chairman. He said:

"I lived here before Mr. Smith was born. My father and mother were married in the old arsenal and I received my early religious training in the 'Brimstone' corner church."

Another responsive chord was struck when he referred to the patriotic work done in old City Hall by the good women of Pittsburgh during the civil war. "Some of these women," said he, "owe it to themselves to be Republicans."

Mr. Burke had referred to moss growing on the old Moorhead mill during the last Cleveland administration. Mr. Hepburn said he was surprised to hear Mr. Burke complain about this.

Cultivation by Mossbacks.

"There is nothing more fitting," said he, "than to have moss grow under the rule of mossbacks."

The congressman devoted his address to showing the healthful growth of the country under protective tariff.

When the Colonial quartet had answered several merited encores, Attorney General Hampton L. Carson was introduced. He said to talk tariff in the home of Dalzell was a matter of supererogation. He is an eloquent speaker and his defense of the party in its Philippine policy and in the matter of the isthmian canal, won for this orator the unstinted applause of the audience.

Gen. Stewart had a never-failing fund of stories, and it is doubtful if he has an equal in the matter of telling them. With easy grace he can pass from the light to the serious vein. While his speech sparkled with wit, there was much of the solid to it. He told a story of a man, although a Democrat, who was godly. He was preparing to take his wife and little boy to the Democratic convention in St. Louis, and the night before they were to leave the father said to the son:

"You must say your prayers now and go to bed. Tomorrow we will start for St. Louis."

The boy's prayer was brief. It was:

"Oh, Lord, I am going along with 'pop' to St. Louis to the Democratic convention. Goodby, God."

When Gen. Stewart finished speaking a reception was held on the stage.

FRUITS OF THE VICTORY TO BE SHARED BY TOILERS

James F. Burke Quotes Democratic Leaders Against Their Own Candidate. Theodore Roosevelt's Record.

James Francis Burke, Republican nominee for congress from the Thirty-first district, awoke much enthusiasm by his address, which was in part as follows:

Backed by a noble record and led by a noble candidate, the Republican party is marching tonight to the most notable victory in her history, and in the blessed fruits of that victory every American toiler and thinker will share for four years more.

Inasmuch as the utterances of Judge Parker have supplanted, to a great extent, the original official utterances of the Democratic national convention, it becomes important that the five vital questions with which he concluded his adroitly-worded letter of acceptance be at least briefly answered at this time and in this presence.

The first of these questions is: "Shall economy of administration be demanded or shall extravagance be encouraged?"

That economy of administration which the Republican party has demanded and which always has in view the expenditures essential a sound policy of American development, is bound to be realized under an administration headed by a man who insists upon every government servant diligently applying himself to the performance of his duty, and honestly disbursing every dollar of public money entrusted to his keeping, rather than under the rule of the Democratic party which changed the rules of the house of representatives in order to take from Honest Sam Randall the power as head of the appropriation committee, to curtail or prevent the lavish appropriation of public moneys for almost every purpose prompted by the whim of irresponsible Democratic leaders, who found themselves temporarily entrenched in places where public plunder was possible. So flagrant was this act of the Democratic ring in the house that Mr. Randall declared, "As a result of your act you will enter upon a path of extravagance you cannot foresee the lengths or depths of, until we find the treasury of the country bankrupt."

Proved by Grover Cleveland.

And it remained for the Democratic party under Grover Cleveland to prove that Randall's declaration was absolutely true, when in a period of profound peace the treasury vaults were gutted and a Democratic administration found it necessary to mortgage the nation to the extent of $262,000,000 to keep the wheels of government going.

His second inquiry is: "Shall the wrongdoer be brought to bay by the people, or must justice wait upon the political oligarchy?"

The record of Theodore Roosevelt is the most eloquent possible answer to be made to that. In every one of the many positions of public trust in which he has been placed, from the beginning of his political career to this very hour, he has been the most relentless foe that dishonesty has known since the days of Lincoln. Regardless of party, he has driven the wrong-doer from every office within his control and placed the public service upon a higher plane of honesty than ever characterized a Democratic administration in this country. No, Mr. Parker, reelect Roosevelt and justice need wait upon no oligarchy.

Again he asks: "Shall our government stand for equal opportunity or for special privileges?"

In answer to that, I shall quote William Jennings Bryan, who, speaking of Judge Parker and his followers at Chicago on June 20, 1904, says: "Judge Parker is not a fit man to be nominated by any party that stands for fair dealings in politics. The scheme of Parker and his friends is to deceive the rank and file of the party. It is to be consummated by the betrayal of the party organization and of the country into the hands of those who are today menacing the liberties of the country."

Since Mr. Bryan evidently knows whereof he speaks, we may assure Judge Parker that we had rather keep Roosevelt and the Republican party the champion of equal rights in power, than suffer that which Bryan says would happen in the event of Parker's election.

A Question of Caprice.

The next question the judge asks, with a grave air, is: "Shall the government remain one of law, or become one of individual caprice?"

In this question, he answers himself by using the word "remain." Yes, your honor, it will remain just what it is, a government of law. And by that I mean that during the coming administration of Theodore Roosevelt he will see that no statute is stifled at home as the anti-trust law was by Judge Parker's friends, Grover Cleveland and Richard Olney, nor our obligations ignored or repudiated abroad, as the Democratic party declares it will do in the Philippines as soon as it is given the opportunity to pull down the American flag in the east and abandon those possessions which cost us blood and treasure in the upholding of the American rights on land and sea.

The only way in which it could become one of individual caprice would be to turn it over to a party whose national convention declarations have been repudiated and indorsed just as the individual caprice of its candidate has dictated, and in the exercise of which caprice he seems so exasperatingly uncertain that his declarations today are no indication of his doctrines of tomorrow. He is the only man in any political history before whose "individual caprice" a Democratic convention gagged and took its medicine.

In the ending agonies of this struggle for information, he asks: "Shall we cling to the rule of the people, or shall we embrace benefient despotism?"

We shall cling to the rule of the people, and we shall neither embrace the despotism of a Belmont syndicate at home nor favor despotism, sovereigns or subjects abroad, by destroying our laws which protect American labor in order that those of other lands might reduce our toilers to poverty or drive us from the position of power and profit which we now command in the markets of the world.

Keen Points of the Speeches Made at Old City Hall Meeting

Congressman W. P. Hepburn of Iowa:

The men of this city ought to be Republicans. Without Republican policies, what would your barren hills be worth?

The balance of trade in our favor in seven years has aggregated $3,600,000,000, one-quarter, nearly, of all the wealth in the United States when the Republican party took charge of this government.

Mr. Roosevelt's election I believe to be assured, but we want not only the executive. We have the senate, but we must also have the house of representatives.

Attorney General Hampton L. Carson:

It is not sensible for men who have happy homes and steady labor and living wages to throw them aside and vote to introduce hunger and want and idleness.

It is not business prudence to yearn for uncertainty, distrust, financial panic and change.

James Francis Burke, Esq.:

In the blessed fruits of victory every American toiler and thinker will share.

We shall cling to the rule of the people.

Adjutant General Thomas J. Stewart:

The Democrats have no issue in this campaign.

In Roosevelt a more courageous or honest man was never placed in the White House.

In the years the Republican party has been in power it has kept all its promises and has never taken a backward step.

FREE TRADE POVERTY VS. TARIFF PROSPERITY

Congressman Hepburn Compares the Condition of This Country Under Democratic and Republican Rule.

Congressman W. P. Hepburn of Iowa, the chief speaker of the evening, received an ovation. He said in part:

Your chairman has spoken of me as known to some of you by reputation. Why, bless your hearts, I lived here in Pittsburgh before he was born; my father and mother were married down here in this old arsenal, and I got my religious training at Brimstone corner.

I thought that my friend who preceded me spoke complainingly over the fact that moss should have grown down at Moorhead's iron establishment during a period of Democratic rule. Why, it's the most fitting thing imaginable that moss should grow under the rule of mossbacks. I want to suggest that the thing that we call the ballot is a pretty important thing. It is the only means that the American citizen has for self-protection. He is given a part in the administration of the government to protect himself and his rights.

The men of this city ought to be Republicans. Without Republican policies what would your barren hills be worth? What would your navigable rivers be worth but for the genius and capital that you have and are using under Republican authority to create the wealth and result in the manufactured products which are borne on their bosoms? This city in one particular has no rival in the world. You create here more traffic, more tons, that enter into the commerce of the United States than any other city in the world. What would the city of Pittsburgh be without a protective system? It seems to me that no man who is an observer can compare periods when the protective system was not in force with those in which it has been in force could fail to cast his fortunes with the Republican party.

Food for Serious Thought.

We have had two industrial periods in this country that challenge the attention of thoughtful men. The first 72 years of our history the Democratic theory with regard to the tariff question was in force. Not all the time. There were short periods when a purely protective system was effective, but only for short periods—four years after 1812, five years after 1828, three years after 1842. During all the other years the Democratic theory of free trade was in force. When I say free trade, I say it advisedly, for there is really no difference, when the principle of protection is absent, between the tariff for revenue only and free trade. During all that period the free trade era was uppermost. What was the result? During all the time save 15 years the balance of trade was against us. During the 15 years the balance in our favor was $151,000,000. During the other part of the 57 years the balance against us was $1,271,000,000. That meant that we were compelled to send of our gold and silver and portable wealth that vast amount to pay for the labor of other countries because of buying necessaries abroad that we should have manufactured at home.

At the end of that 72 years we inaugurated the protective policy of the Republicans. That Morrell tariff law under which our great mills prospered. We changed the Morrell tariff many times, all in the direction of improvement, and in 1897 enacted the present tariff law. I do not say that this does not need some changes, but these changes should be made by the friends of the system rather than by its enemies.

Change in Seven Years.

Yet under that somewhat imperfect law the balance of trade in our favor in seven years has aggregated $3,666,000,000, one-quarter, nearly, of all the wealth in the United States when the Republican party took charge of this government. That means that the people of other lands have been sending here for the wealth that we created in excess of the merchandise that we have needed from them.

Mr. Bryan said the other day in excuse for the non-appearance of a monetary plank in the Democratic platform that the production of gold had been so enormous in the last few years that there was not the same necessity for silver coinage that there was eight years ago. There has been no enormous production of gold in the United States—$80,000,000 last year—but 80,000,000 of population.

During the period from 1847 to 1860 there was dug from the lands of California more than $700,000,000 of gold. We had $190,000,000 of gold in 1847; but in 1860 there was but $200,000,000 of gold within the limits of the United States, $650,000,000 of gold under the Democratic tariff—the Walker tariff—had been exported for the purpose of paying the labor of other countries, and if it had not been for the Republican party's change of all this, compelling a flow of gold to the United States under the protective system, Mr. Bryan could not have had the excuse of an abundance of gold that he offers for this great hiatus in the Democratic platform. Two hundred million dollars in 1860—$1,360,000,000 in the United States today!

Important to the Workingman.

Mr. Hepburn then showed in detail the great wealth to the country and the great benefits to all classes, especially the laboring men, that have resulted from the protective tariff system, put into effect by the Republicans. He enlarged upon the necessity of this system for the workingmen, and then directed his attention to the importance of everyone casting a ballot at the election, which will result in the perpetuation of this system.

Mr. Hepburn urged upon all the importance of grand meetings like this, processions and the spectacular part of the campaign, being followed by the getting to the polls of every voter on election day. In conclusion, Mr. Hepburn said:

Mr. Roosevelt's election I believe to be assured, but we want not only the executive. We have the senate, but we must also have the house of representatives. It takes the three to legislate. We want a Republican majority in the house. You have here a ticket that ought to challenge your allegiance. Your four candidates for congress are every one of them personal acquaintances of mine—all of them men whom you should be proud to send to represent you in the house of representatives. They are men well qualified to legislate for the nation and men fitted to meet any emergency.

See to it, gentlemen, that these, your candidates for congress, do not go to Washington with a mere majority, but give them a Pittsburgh majority—an Allegheny county majority—one of those splendid majorities that will show to the nation that these four men have 60,000 majority back of them—almost a unanimous vote.

NOT BUSINESS PRUDENCE TO YEARN FOR TROUBLE

Attorney General Carson Advises Workingmen Not to Substitute Idleness and Want for Work at Living Wages.

Hampton L. Carson, attorney general of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania, was warmly received when introduced to the audience. He said in part:

This is the first opportunity I have had of addressing the citizens of Pittsburgh during a national campaign. I appreciate it. I come from the city of Philadelphia, which is, as you know, a manufacturing center. This morning, as I rode along the boulevard which overlooks the countless mills of Homestead, I saw many of the conditions which exist at my own home. I felt convinced that what would affect Philadelphia for weal or for woe would affect Pittsburgh in like manner; what would affect both of these great cities would affect the interests of the state, and so great is the industrial importance of Pennsylvania that whatever would affect her industry would affect her agriculture, and that whatever would affect both her industries and her agriculture would affect the country at large. The community of interests is so close, notwithstanding their diversity, that the problem of sustaining and developing them overleaps the narrow bounds of the state and becomes national in its breadth and significance. Hence you and I, though living hundreds of miles apart, are interested in the same questions, and will rise or sink in fortune according to their solution.

We are all vitally interested in the issues of this campaign, it matters not where we dwell or what we do for a livelihood. We are all fellow passengers upon the same voyage, bound for the same port, and whether we be in the steerage or on the upper deck, we must suffer alike the consequences of shipwreck or of famine.

Must Avoid a Catastrophe.

What we wish to avoid is the evil of catastrophe. If we have a captain and a crew, experienced, capable, courageous and attentive, it would be worse than folly to toss them into the cockpit, and put in their places a captain who had never been to sea and a crew which would be chiefly interested in the spoils of the larder.

There are three ways of looking at public questions: First, from the standpoint of common sense; second, from the standpoint of business prudence, and third, from the standpoint of sentiment.

As for the first, it is not sensible for men who have happy homes and steady labor and living wages to throw them aside, and vote to introduce hunger and want and idleness into the community.

As to the second, it is not business prudence to yearn for uncertainty, distrust, financial panic and change.

As to the third, it is not patriotic to denounce our rulers as the foes and assassins of liberty and to cry out that our flag must be hauled down.

No, my fellow-citizens; I have confidence—supreme confidence—in the common sense, the business prudence and the patriotism of our people, and never will they go astray so long as they support the policy and principles of the Republican party.

The Three Leading Issues.

There appear to be three leading issues—the tariff, the conduct and character of President Roosevelt, and the treatment of the Philippines.

As to the tariff, it is superfluous to discuss it in the home of John Dalzell. Practical men will leave discussion to theorists and doctrinaires and judge of systems by their results. The best book in the world two thousand years ago said, "You cannot gather grapes from thorns nor figs from thistles." When you find that from free trade you cannot gather prosperity, while from the tariff you have always enjoyed golden returns, you can well afford to turn to Democratic doctors and say, "Your nostrum may be interesting from the standpoint of a political chemist, but we would rather not swallow the dose—at least, not now."

As to the presonal character of the president, it is pitiful to read the criticisms. If he were a weak man he would be ridiculed unsparingly; as he is a strong man, a pure man, and an upright man, his enemies accuse the possession of these qualities were dangerous to the state. What strange inconsistency on the part of these dyspeptic critics. As to his interference in the coal strike, let the words of Judge George Gray, formerly United States senator, and one of the peace commissioners to the west with Spain, and the most eminent living Democrat today, be an all-sufficient answer.

President Roosevelt has been denounced for the treaty with Panama. Well, when George Washington signed the Jay treaty with England in 1795 the Aurora, of September 14, 1795, a public newspaper, used the following language:

When Washington Was Denounced.

"The president has violated the Constitution. He has made a treaty with a nation that is the abhorrence of our people. He has treated our demonstrations with pointed contempt. Louis XVI., in the meridian of his splendor and power, never dared to heap such insults upon his subjects. The answer to the respectful remonstrances of Boston Philadelphia and New York sound like the words of an omnipotent director of a seraglio. He has thundered contempt upon the people with as much confidence as if he sat upon the throne of Indostan."

That has a familiar sound, has it not? That sounds very much like the cry of anti-imperialism in Boston today.

As to New York, I quote from the New York Journal of October 28, 1795—you see they had a New York Journal even in the days of Washington. It said: "How can the people feel respect for a ruler who tramples on the laws and Constitution of the land? What will posterity say of the man who has done this thing? Will it not say that the mask of political hypocrisy has been worn by Caesar, by Cromwell and by Washington alike?"

As to Philadelphia, the extract which I first read from the Aurora was published there, and it is a circumstance of which I am personally proud that my grandfather's brother—then a lad of 19 years of age—cowhided the editor within an inch of his life for having dared to malign the father of his country.

Democrats Surrendered Territory.

Attorney General Carson then took up the issues of imperialism and discussed from a historical point of view the entire matter of our territorial expansion. He showed how every acquisition of territory, whether of Louisiana, Florida, Texas, the purchases from Mexico of California, Nevada, Utah and adjacent regions, Alaska, and, finally, of the Philippines, had all been declaimed against as unwise and wicked—the language and the arguments employed in all instances being very much alike. He pointed out how the only surrender of territory had taken place under Democratic rule, and had cost us British Columbia and an unbroken coast line from California to the Aleutian islands.

The address concluded with an earnest appeal for the election of the entire Republican ticket.

WILLIAM M'KINLEY ENDED THE ERA OF SOUP HOUSES

Adjutant General T. J. Stewart Tells of the Beneficent Results of Government by a Republican Administration.

Adjt.-Gen. Thomas J. Stewart is always a welcome speaker, and last night's audience showed that it was pleased to see him, when he stepped forward to make his address. He said in part:

It is a great privilege to attend a Republican gathering in the great state of Allegheny. There is no place in all the land where the principles and policies of Republicanism is so exemplified, and there is probably no place on the entire globe where there is so much enterprise, wealth and American grit in evidence or where there is a greater reward for toil than in Allegheny county.

The issues of another campaign are to be taken up and the country is to decide whether to continue in power the present party with Roosevelt as its representative or to turn the government over to the Democrats. The campaign in 1896 marked the close of four years of Democratic rule, and as a consequence it was a patriotic rally to the standard of McKinley. With the incoming of that administration, we seen the speedy disappearance of the soup houses and the employment of the idle at a compensating wage. There is no brighter spot in American history than which marked McKinley's leadership as he safely guided the country through the rumors of war and the actual war with Spain.

The Democrats have no platform in this campaign. They seek to make the principal issue the lives and acts of the candidates. On the private life of both men there is not a stain. In Roosevelt a more courageous or honest man was never placed in the White House. He knows his duty and does it. He has kept the solemn pledge he made to the people of this country when he stood by the death bed of the lamented McKinley and assumed the reins of government.

In the years the Republican party has been in power it has kept all its promises and has never taken a backward step. There has never been a forward step which has proved unwise.

The greatest honor which can be accorded to man is to be known as an American citizen. We live in the greatest country in the world. The home of 80,000,000 of people, all speaking the same language, all having the same destiny. We have become great because of the wise policies enacted by the Republican party. It has ever been the party of advancement. It has done more to uplift the human race than all of the other parties. Life is growing broader and the demands of a great government are constantly more exacting. We need a man like Roosevelt at the helm. He is a man of action; a man who does things. He keeps abreast of the times.

HANNA MISSED IN OHIO

support. In conversation regarding the senator, Mr. Burton today said:

Leadership Rarely Equaled.

"Senator Hanna was a great and forceful leader. He gained an acknowledged supremacy among the Republicans of Ohio rarely if ever equaled in this or any other state. One feature which added strength to his leadership was the fact that the people came to think that he desired party success and triumph of the principles he advocated rather than to be a mere boss. It is to be noticed that the people of Ohio will not submit to the dictation of a boss with the same subservience apparent in some other states. Senator Hanna could not have gained the prominence in the councils of the Republican party of Ohio that he possessed without the confidence of the people. This confidence he enjoyed in an unusual degree, particularly during the last year or two of his life.

'In this connection it is a pleasure to sweep away, through the columns of The Gazette, a cloud of suspicion that hung over the fair name of Senator Hanna during the closing days of his busy and eventful life. I refer to the suspicion he was designing to secure the presidential nomination for himself, while osing as the loyal friend and supporter of President Roosevelt. This suspicion was not shared in any degree by the senator's friends. They knew him too well. They knew that with him duplicity was an impossibility. Bluntness and frankness were the cardinal principles of his very nature. But there were people, those whose ideas of Hanna had been gained from the horrible cartons in which the opposition press had pictured him, who suspected that he was playing fast and loose with the president. There may have been a time when President Roosevelt, himself, to some degree, doubted the sincerity of Hanna, but if that is so, it is certain that before death claimed the Ohio senator these two men had come to a perfect understanding and a mutual feeling of trust."

Boom Embarrassed Hanna.

Despite the fact Senator Hanna was known to be pledged to the support of Roosevelt to succeed himself, there arose during the latter part of 1903 a decided boom for Hanna. It emanated from two sources — Senator Hanna's personal friends who sincerely believed he had earned this recognition, and those Republicans, disappointed office seekers and disgruntled partisans, who were open in their opposition to Roosevelt. Every mention of Hanna in the newspapers as a presidential possibility brought him hundreds of letters proffering support. The situation was decidedly embarrassing. In his characteristically plain and unequivocal language he stated he was not to be considered a candidate for the presidency. He repledged his support to President Roosevelt. Things went on in this way until one day in February the Cincinnation Commercial Tribune published a long editorial urging the Republicans of the country to "pause and consider" whether Roosevelt was the best candidate they could select. The paper strongly intimated it did not consider him such and expressed the belief to nominate Roosevelt would be to invite disaster to the party.

What did it mean? The editorial was reprinted and spread broadcast over the country and commented upon freely by the press and public. Here was a newspaper, one of the stalwart Republican organs of the state, known to be very friendly to Senator Hanna, the editor being a close personal friend, urging against the nomination of Roosevelt. This editorial was followed by others, stronger in tone but of the same purport.

Scheme Was Suspected.

True there was no mention of Senator Hanna as a candidate. Taft and Foraker and Fairbanks were held up as possibilities preferable to Roosevelt and the very omission of Hanna from the list at a time when his name was on many tongues made it appear that the articles were written in his interest. It was little wonder thousands of persons among those who knew nothing of the real Hanna suspected a scheme to substitute him for Roosevelt as the presidential nominee, but a few weeks after the publication of the editorials referred to, Senator Hanna was stricken with typhoid fever which resulted in his death.

While in Cincinnati a few days ago I had a talk with E. O. Eshelby, editor of the Commercial Tribune, and urged him, in interest of truth and that Senator Hanna's name might be cleared from suspicion in the minds of many people, to tell me the exact circumstances regarding the publication of those editorials. At first he was reluctant to discuss the matter for publication, but later he consented to do so. He said:

"Senator Hanna is now dead and perhaps it is better that the whole truth should be made known. It has never been published before. Senator Hanna did not know anything about those editorials until he read them in print. He had not an inkling in advance that they were to be published. He was never consulted about them before or after they appeared. Nor were they inspired by any man. I alone was responsible for them.

"In 1902 I called upon him at his office in Cleveland and urged him to become a candidate for president. At that time he told me he had promised President Roosevelt he would do nothing to obtain the nomination and he proposed to keep his word. He said Mr. Roosevelt was entitled to the support of all Republicans and should have it. He would not for a moment consider any proposition looking to himself as a candidate.

True to His Pledge.

"That was the only conversation I ever had with Senator Hanna on that subject. I had been able to do him some service during the senatorial fight in 1897, and we became close personal friends. But despite this fact, I never broached the subject of the presidency to him after that conversation in 1902. Then he he was pledged to do nothing to beat Roosevelt and he remained true to that pledge. Last winter after talking with a number of business men from New York and other states, I became convinced that there was a sentiment abroad which made it dangerous to nominate Roosevelt. Once convinced of this, without the suggestion of any one else, I published the editorials expressing doubt as to the wisdom of his nomination. The hundreds of letters that I received showed that I was not mistaken as to that sentiment at that time.

"Soon after the publication referred to, I stopped in Washington on my way east, but I was never able to get an interview with Senator Hanna. He was very shy of me and would not receive me lest some one should see us and conclude that we were conniving together. I went to his office in the Arlington hotel and was waiting there with about a dozen other men in the room, when Senator Hanna walked in. Standing in the middle of the room he looked at me for a moment and then pounding his cane on the floor exclaimed: "Well, you've played hell on your watch, haven't you?"

"He sat down at his desk and I walked over to speak to him. 'Senator,' I said, 'I'm glad to see you looking so well. I just dropped in for a moment and want to catch the 4 o'clock train for New York.'

"The senator dived into his pocket for his watch and noting the time, said: 'Well you haven't much time to spare; good-by, Ed.'

"I understood what he meant and bidding him goodby, went out. Even with a dozen men in the room, all of whom could hear every word we uttered, he did not want to talk with me. He wished to even avoid the appearance of conniving with me. That was the last time I saw Senator Hanna. He died soon after. Never had he or I, or anyone for us, exchanged a word or a line of correspondence regarding the anti-Roosevelt editorials. He had no part in the matter whatever.

Carried False Report to Roosevelt.

"It was reported that they had been inspired by Perry Heath and another report ahd it that Senator Fairbanks was responsible for them. Neither is correct. As I have told you, I alone was responsible. Somebody told President Roosevelt that Senator Hanna and I had met at the Arlington hotel and mapped out the whole plan of campaign in advance. This was false. Yes, I am now a supporter of Roosevelt and I believe that he will be elected. I will be surprised if he does not have as large if not larger electoral vote than McKinley had. The very sentiment that I found opposed to him among the business interests early in the year has now swung over to his side. It was real when I discovered it and published it and it was opposed to Roosevelt. Now it has changed to his side and it is apparent on every hand. A few days ago I called at the White House and assurred the president of my belief that he would be elected. No, I did not mention the editorials we published in February."

The above statement of Mr. Eshelby is entitled to full credence. Mr. Eshelby is a gentleman whose standing in the business world is such as to give his statements weight. His explanation of the circumstances is sufficient to dispel any doubt as to the sincerity of Senator Hanna that any person may have retained. Hanna was a fighter, relentless and powerful, but he fought fair. No underhand methods were his. Ohio is a state where great politicians are bred and reared, and doubtless somewhere among the rising generation, yet undiscovered, is a man who will prove his leadership even as Hanna did.

CHINESE OFFICERS LED THE LOOTERS

Discarded Their Uniforms and Helped Japanese to Plunder Niuchwang.

CONSUL MILLER MAKES REPORT

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—An account of the events in the treaty port of Niuchwang, following the abandonment of that place by the Russians, is contained in a report to the state department from the American consul general, H. B. Miller, under date of August 15.

Mr. Miller says the Japanese then were in complete control of the town and port, and were conducting the administration on the same lines they found when they took it over. Edward Gilchrist, an American, had been appointed by Sir Robert Hart to succeed the Russian commissioner of customs. The mines had been cleared from the mouth of the river, aids to navigation had been replaced, and all interference to commerce removed. Military operations in the interior and along the river will probably restrict trade until spring. Crops and villages have been devastated by the war, and the robber bands are active.

The crops in the Liao valley at the time the report was sent bade fair to be first-class. The crops in the Sungari valley are poor. It is there that the wheat is grown with which the large flour mills of Harbin are supplied. These mills were idle, having used up all of last year's crop, and this year's crop was so poor that they cannot possibly secure grain enough to operate more than half time. Therefore the Russian army must depend for its supplies upon a single line of single track railway, while heretofore it has been able to gather vast amounts of provisions in forage in the country.

The report says that the change from Russian to Japanese administration in Niuchwang occurred without much disorder although looting was severe. The Chinese police discarded their uniforms and became the leaders of the looters. The consular body was obliged to administer the city for two days. The harmonious relations of the American consulate with both parties were illustrated by the fact that on the day of the arrival of the first Japanese, Mr. Miller gave a dinner to the retiring Russian administrator, the Russian commissioner of customs and the manager of the Russo-Chinese bank. He did everything possible to make the transfer peaceful and received the thanks of both parties. Three days after the advent of the Japanese, Mr. Miller entertained all of the Japanese officers and foreign officials at dinner.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The Allegheny Preparatory school reopens September 21, 1904. The Headmaster will be at the school office after September 8, between 9 a. m. and 1 p. m., to meet and classify pupils, to talk with intending patrons and to show those who may wish to see them the building and equipment. The school provides instruction for boys and girls from the first year of school life till they are ready for any American college or university. The work is done by 15 expert teachers.

A well equipped gymnasium and a large playground, under the exclusive control of the school, offer ample opportunity for sports and games. These are individual "corrective work," under trained directors, give the physical development of both boys and girls its due emphasis. Oral expression, singing, reading aloud, public speaking and debates have their proper place in the curriculum.

Owing to its non-commercial character, the entire income of the school can be applied in making the school better. The building has just been redecorated throughout.

For our new circular and any further information, address the Headmaster, Wilmot R. Jones, 909 Lincoln Avenue, Allegheny, Pa.

NEWSIES WEPT AT BOY'S BIER

Funeral Services Held in Newsboys' Home Over Remains of Paul Getty.

SAD DEATH OF AMBITIOUS LAD

Warm hearts throbbed under ragged coats and tears dimmed the eyes of the youthful gathering congregated in the library of the Newsboys' home yesterday afternoon as they lifted up their voices, amid sobs, to chant hymns to the memory of their erstwhile companion who lay on his bier in the adjoining room.

It was a service over the remains of Paul Getty, the 13-year-old newsboy, who was struck and instantly killed by a passenger train on the Fort Wayne tracks at Rochester, Pa., Wednesday evening. Under direction of the officers of the home, the teachers of the Sunday school and Supt. Charles B. Horton, a plain but very impressive service of addresses and song was rendered. Clasping their hymn books and reading from them sat the barefooted with the neatly attired, while here and there a colored boy showed the same sincerity and devotion as his neighbors.

Paul Getty had been an inmate of the home for two years, after having been reared in the St. Paul orphanage asylum in Idlewood. He was a bright, winsome little fellow, with a host of friends among his customers at the Panhandle station on Fourth avenue, where daily for two years he had sold his papers.

On Tuesday last a youthful visitor at the home had brought the information that positions were open at a fair recompense at one of the glass works in Rochester. Young Getty had long sought an opportunity to learn a trade, and applied for a position in Rochester on Wednesday. The same evening, as he was returning from work, he was struck down and killed.

Paul's mother had died in his infancy, but his father was found and notified of the lad's death and started for Rochester. However, he did not appear for the remains, and yesterday they were located in Freedom by the officers of the home.

By their own subscription the newsboys raised sufficient to give the boy a burial and the remains were brought on. Notwithstanding the fact that the boy is survived by his father and two uncles, the sole relative at the bier yesterday was his 12-year-old sister, Anna, employed as a domestic in Allegheny, who was an inconsolable mourner.

Young Paul was an unusually bright boy and a favorite at the home. Several months ago he won a prize offered by Prof. Frederick Webster of the Carnegie Institute for the best essay on "A Day in the Country," after having enjoyed an outing with a score of other newsboys. He was an especially apt pupil in the manual training department of the home and had won many prizes for his work. There is at present exhibited at The Gazette booth in the exposition a hammock woven by him.

Following the services at the home, the cortege wended its way to the church of the Epiphany, where the Rev. Father Boyle delivered a sermon. Interment took place in Calvary cemetery.

GOV. CURTIN'S RESPONSIBILITY

Dramatic Events in Pennsylvania Politics Preceding the Civil War.

In the great crisis preceding the civil war, political events in Pennsylvania assumed a momentous importance to the whole nation, because Pennsylvania occupied the most important position of any of the northern states.

The responsibility of defining Pennsylvania's attitude toward secession fell upon Gov. Curtin on the occasion of his inaugural address. How gravely he felt the responsibility and how carefully he had informed himself as to the feeling of both north and south is told for the first time by Col. A. K. McClure in an intensely interesting article which will appear next Sunday in the editorial section of The Sunday Gazette. Col. McClure is the best qualified of all living men to write the history of those times. He played a prominent part in the epoch-making events of which he writes and was himself the author of the vital paragraph in Gov. Curtin's inaugural address.

Col. McClure describes with great dramatic power, absolute faithfulness and intimate personal knowledge Pennsylvania's part in the impressive drama which had its climax in the civil war.

FIVE YEARS A FUGITIVE.

"Jersey Red," Wanted for Shooting William Lawlor in 1899, Is Arrested.

"Jersey Red," a negro who has been wanted in this county since 1899 for shooting and killing William Lawlor at Millers Grove, was yesterday arrested at Buckhannon, W. Va. The man was identified by Walter Wade, who witnessed the shooting, and County Detective Robinson was notified. Policeman John W. Reed will be sent to bring the negro here for trial.

Lawlor was an engineer and was sitting in front of a little hotel at Millers Grove when the negro passed. "Jersey Red" made an insulting remark to Mrs. Lawlor. Her husband started for the negro, who drew a revolver and shot him down.

With him came First Vice President and Superintendent of Agencies Rosenfeld. Business sessions were held at the Hotel Schenley yesterday morning and afternoon and will be continued today. Last night Manager Woods was host to the entire party at a picnic dinner at his home in Quaker Valley, near Sewickley. About 200 guests were present.

LAW'S CRUSADE BEGINS AT LAST

Alderman Wadsworth the First of Allegheny's Public Men to Be Accused of Graft.

CONSTABLE DID NOT FIND HIM

The first prosecution in the Allegheny graft charges was begun yesterday and Alderman Walter Wadsworth is the first man to be accused. Two informations were made against him yesterday for extortion and malfeasance in office.

Some surprise was expressed that the first steps were directed against an Allegheny alderman instead of North Side officials, who are accused of grafting, but their turn, it was said yesterday, will come. Informations will probably be filed today against Allegheny officials, and in expectation of the prosecutions there was much suppressed excitement in Allegheny city hall yesterday, as no one there knows where the lightning will strike.

The informations were made by County Detective Robert G. Robinson before Alderman Stephen J. Toole. One charges that Wadsworth, "being a justice of the peace of Allegheny, did on or about the ——day of June, wilfully and fraudulently receive and take a reward and fee for executing his office, not allowable by law." The other information says that Wadsworth wilfully and corruptly aided and abetted Lib Stoner in opening, keeping and maintaining a disorderly house at 212 Robinson street.

Searched for the Alderman.

The warrant for Wadsworth's arrest was given to Constable Thomas A. Joyce, who went to Allegheny accompanied by Detective Robinson. They called at the alderman's office and at his flat at 522 Madison street, but could not find him. Last night Constable Joyce made another search, but was informed that the alderman had been out of town more than a week. At his house it was said last night that Wadsworth went to Reading about 10 days ago and would not be back until Monday. It was reported, however, in Allegheny that he was ill in the house of a friend in Pittsburgh and that he would give bail today for his appearance at a hearing before Alderman Toole.

Late last night Detective Robinson said that no other informations had yet been prepared.

The charge against Wadsworth and other informations which may be filed will come before the grand jury in October. The present grand jury was temporarily dismissed yesterday by Judge Evans. The judge told the jury that the present business before the court was disposed of, but that adjournment would last only until October 24, when the jurymen would convene again.

Saving Money for the County.

District Attorney Robert E. Stewart and John C. Haymaker and John Marron, who are assisting him in the graft prosecutions, decided that no public purpose would be subserved by hurrying the informations and holding the grand jury under pay to consider them. The cases will take the regular course. Informations will be filed, a hearing will be held, and if the alderman who has the cases decides that there is probable cause he will bind the accused over to the grand jury, which was temporarily dismissed yesday.

Messrs. Marron and Haymaker were closeted in the district attorney's office all yesterday afternoon with women, who were admitted one at a time. The women are assured that the court will protect them, and they need fear no police persecution for giving graft secrets away.

The county will not be called on to pay for the services of Marron and Haymaker. Five prominent Allegheny citizens have raised more than $2,500 to carry the graft charges to a conclusion.

KENNELLY IS NAMED ASSISTANT TO WALLACE

Robinson Gets Inspectorship, McCabe Made Night Captain and Welsh Named at Lieutenant.

Director Moore yesterday appointed Inspector Edward Kennelly as assistant superintendent of police and Capt. R. H. Robinson as inspector of the First district. Lieut. Thomas McCabe has been appointed as night captain of the First district and Patrolman Jerry Welsh was made lieutenant. These appointments take effect today. Joseph Weber, who has been acting sergeant at the Central station, will be appointed to that position permanently.

There are several other positions to be filled. Special Officer John Callan is slated for a position as lieutenant. It is generally understood among the policemen that Capt. James McEvoy is to be relegated to the ranks as a patrolman, and it is said that he will be sent to another district. McEvoy stands in favor with Director Moore, but he is not liked by Supt. Wallace and Assist. Supt. Kennelly.

Lieut. Charles Grimes will be removed to another district, as it is not believed he is active enough to look after the duties required in the First district. He will be sent to the residence district of the city.

Few Idle Men at Braddock.

There are but few workmen in the Braddock district now unemployed, and especially is this the case among the employes of the Carnegie Steel Company. Blast furnace "G" of the Edgar Thomson plant, which has been off for repairs during the past three months, was blown in at noon. There is now but one other stack out of blast. It is expected this will be blown in in about two weeks. Each stack employs 150 workmen.

PYROTECHNIC DISPLAY IN A CROWDED STREET

The crowd which thronged Fifth avenue, McKeesport, soon after the noon hour yesterday had not congregated there to see a pyrotechnic display, but they saw one just the same. Fireworks sputtered over the streets and skyrockets hissed and roared their way heavenward. A team of horses ran away, a wagon took fire, the fire department was called out and a man was injured. R. W. Gordon decided to remove a quantity of fireworks from his storeroom. After they had been placed in a wagon some of the skyrockets ignited. A Roman candle boomed and a couple of cannon crackers went off and scared the horses. The wagon took fire and the frightened horses dashed down street, leaving a fiery path behind. George Little, the driver, was slightly injured.

Lieut. Guthrie Elected Captain.

Company G, Eighteenth regiment, National Guard of Pennsylvania, held an election at the armory, Craft avenue and Forbes street, last evening, for the position of captain, a vacancy having existed since the rejection of Capt. William B. Copeland at the last encampment. Twenty-eight members were present. Second Lieutenant B. Guthrie was unanimously elected captain and S. M. DuBarry, formerly second lieutenant of Company E, was elected to succeed Lieut. Guthrie.

FIRST ORGAN RECITALS.

Opening of the Tenth Season at the Pittsburgh Carnegie Music Hall.

The opening recitals of the tenth season of free organ recitals at Carnegie Music hall, Schenley park, will be given this evening at 8 o'clock and tomorrow afternoon at 4. Edwin H. Lemare, organist and director of music, has returned from his vacation in England, and will be at his usual post. No steps have been taken as yet to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Lemare's resignation, which, however, does not take effect until the middle of January. Mr. Lemare has prepared fine programs for both recitals, that for this evening being as follows:

March Nuptiale ..... Widor
Idyll in E flat ..... Lemare
Pastorale Sonata ..... Rheinberger
1. Pastorale. 2. Intermezzo. 3. Wagner.
Prize Song, "Die Meistersinger" ..... Wagner
Spring Song ..... Hollins
Improvisation.
"Academic Festival" Overture ..... Brahms

Will Burn Church Mortgage.

At a congregational meeting last night of the Fifth Avenue Baptist church of McKeesport, of which the Rev. J. C. Davis is pastor, arrangements were made for a celebration on Sunday, October 23, [illegible] with the burning of a mortgage and notes, aggregating $7,500. The church was organized five years ago, and the mortgage burning will be in the nature of an anniversary celebration.

Negroes Suspected of Theft.

Detectives Leff and Lally yesterday arrested Alfred Turner and Fred Lloyd, colored, on suspicion that they broke into the home of Jacob Gindis, 1600 Webster avenue, Wednesday night. The thieves secured $60, a $50 gold watch and a silver watch from a second-story room in which Mrs. Gindis was sleeping. The watches were recovered in a pawn shop. Turner lives at 1817 Wylie avenue and Lloyd says he has no home.

Autumn Clothes for Boys.

We are bold enough to say we have the best boys' clothes in the Greater City. You can put us to the test in any way that you deem proper, to find out whether this statement is true. Of course it will be understood that we are talking of quality for quality and prices around town.

We contend that, for the prices we charge, our clothes are tailored better, more attention is given to the little details conducive to long wear, that the parts that get the hardest licks are specially reinforced—in fact, altogether the best clothes that the sums quoted can buy.

Let your boy come in today—you come along with him—and let us show you through as fine an assortment of boys' clothing—from inexpensive to finest—as was ever displayed in Pittsburg.

Boys' Russian Sailor Suits—2½ years and up to 10—$5.00 and up to $10.00.

Boys' Shoes for Autumn and Winter.

Some especially excellent goods for boys who are hard on their shoes. The boy that doesn't know how to kick out a pair of shoes would never make a football player. Our best endeavors are directed toward building shoes that will give the average boy some little trouble in knocking them out in a hurry—and this is true of the everyday shoe as well as the dress shoe.

Boys' Box Calf Shoes with an extra heavy sole, and our price is but $2.00.

Extra good Shoes for boys, sizes from 1 to 5½—stout welt soles, $2.50.

College Pennants and Banners.

In the East Basement we have every sort of flag from the small buttonhole size to the largest size. But we can go much farther in that we can furnish you the Pennants of any of the leading colleges. Or we will take your order for a special flag or pennant or banner of any kind.

NOTE: To clubs and organizations of all kinds we will allow a liberal discount on all orders for flags or pennants.

What About Your Eyes?

Some people affect glasses when they don't need them. Others need them, but foolishly put the matter off. This is mostly true of young people. No one should allow, for a moment, their eyes to become strained.

We have an optical department in which anyone can learn a great deal about the functions of the eye. We'll not attempt to sell you a pair of glasses unless you need them. But if you do stand in need of glasses, either as a curative proposition or to correct a physical defect, we are well prepared to fit you out. We make free examinations. Look over this list of 12-year gold-filled spectacles and eyeglasses, and if it interests you we will be glad to have you call at the department, rear main aisle, West Store.

$4 Eyeglasses for $2.00 a pair.
$5.00 Spectacles for $3.00 a pair.
$1.50 Eyeglass Chains, 75c each.
Pure Silk Eyeglass Cords, 3c each.
Filled Hooks, 25c grade, for 10c each.

Optical Things We Do—

We fit frames and we straighten frames.
We grind glasses.
We fill optical prescriptions.
We do all sorts of optical repair work.

It may interest all to know that this department is in charge of a graduated optician of many years' experience.

Girls' and Children's Hats.

The beautiful Autumn hats for girls and children now on display in our Millinery Department have been most carefully selected. They were culled from a great number as expressing the best styles for young people.

We have neat and suitable School Hats for girls for as little as 75c—pretty round hats in staple colors. The selection among the finer hats and novelties is a wide one—$1.00, $1.25, $2.00 and up to $3.50 and $5.00.

For girls from 5 to 12 years—we have made a special study of millinery. Girls of this age like hats as much like their mothers' and elder sisters' as possible, while on the other hand the parents like the hats to be youthful. We have endeavored to strike the happy medium and leave it to you to say how far we have been successful.

You will find assortments for girls of these ages very large. The "Bebe" types are prominent among them, also beaver hats trimmed in pretty ways with ostrich feathers and imported ribbons. Then there are plain Felts designed with quills and ribbons, with birds and wings. $5.00, $6.00, $7.50, $10.00 and up to $12.50.

Candy Saturday.

Always specially prepared with choice candies for Saturday.

Toothsome Mixed Candy, pound box, 25c.
Marshmallows, 13c box—2 boxes 25c.
Chocolate Chips, 35c pound.
Crystals, assorted fruit flavors, 18c a pound.

Promotions and changes made in the police bureau should have the effect of increasing the efficiency of that organization. The public will naturally look for this result, but will not fail to notice if it is not attained. The experience of the last few years has made the people of this city somewhat skeptical concerning the motives of their administrative officers. They view every change with critical eyes, if not with suspicion. The recent rumors affecting the tenure of office of the director of the department of public safety have not tended to increase public confidence, so the reorganized police bureau will be scrutinized with much interest, while the best will be ardently hoped for.

Assistant Controller Morrow's action in refusing to countersign any more warrants cannot be regarded as a surprise. It is based on the assumption that the city treasury contains no available funds. Controller Larkin predicted this condition of affairs long ago, the only uncertainty being as to the exact time when the funds would be exhausted. It is somewhat of a shock to learn that the appropriations have sufficed for only one-half of the year. It was pointed out by The Gazette last winter that the appropriations were being bungled and manipulated. To this has been added reckless expenditure of the funds appropriated, regardless of consequences. It is not a pleasant prospect that the city's affairs must be administered for six months by a devious system of credits, but it is the penalty for incompetence and worse in official position. Pittsburgh is learning a lesson in the bitter school of experience that may be valuable, if rightly applied.

The vigor with which the dairy and food division of the state department of agriculture has been prosecuting sellers of adulterated articles is having important results. There is a general improvement in the milk and food supplies offered for sale and retail dealers, often the innocent media for foisting dishonest goods upon the public, are awakening to the necessity of protecting themselves. The retail grocers, for example, have organized a protective association. This association has employed chemists to analyze standard articles of commerce and is arranging to establish a testing laboratory, which may be located at Altoona. The primary object is to save the members from the purchase of adulterated articles, and the secondary purpose is to defend members who may be wrongfully accused of selling adulterations. Doubtless the movement will spread to other retailers.

President Roosevelt's espousal of irrigation is one of his strong cards in the west, and he has just sent a letter to the North Dakota state irrigation congress expressing his sympathy for the cause. He says that he thinks the use of the rivers in the great plains and Rocky mountains for irrigation is more important to the future of this country than the improvement of these same rivers lower down as an aid to navigation. The south will hardly take umbrage at this discrimination, and if it does he has no electoral votes to lose in that section. The president has shown that his interest in irrigation is not mere words, for he has been identified with the national irrigation measures. It is no small element in his popularity throughout the west that he is regarded as having a better appreciation of the interests of that section than any other occupant the White House has ever had.

The decision of the county court in the filtration bureau mandamus case, while it overrules the position taken by Controller Larkin, is to the advantage of the policy he has announced of opposing idle accumulations of funds voted for the construction of a filtration plant. The filtration bureau is preparing plans and specifications upon which contracts can be let and the money be applied to the use for which it was intended. The longer the completion of these estimates is delayed the longer will the filtration fund be idle in the city depositories. Controller Larkin's objections to passing the payroll of the bureau were based upon the belief that the requirements of the new charter had not been complied with. The court holds that his objections are not well founded and that the present form of appropriation is all that is required. Any other decision would have made a good deal of trouble, as all expenditures of bond money, whether in the water department or the park bureau, have been made in the same form as that to which the controller objected in the case of the filtration bureau, but it was a question with the controller whether the provisions of the new charter did not require a change of system. His action in forcing the matter into court has not occasioned any actual delay as the engineering staff of the bureau have gone on with the work. In fact, the bureau has been working overtime and giving three nights a week to the work as well as the regular daytime, so as to get the plans in such shape that contracts may be let at an early date.

The Local Opening of the Campaign.

The opening of the campaign in Pittsburgh last night did not display any of the apathy which has been noted elsewhere. There was a fine parade and red fire blazed the way to the meeting place in Old City hall. The Republicans of Allegheny county are alert and enthusiastic in their support of President Roosevelt's administration and the continuance of the Republican party policy, of whose value to the industries of the nation the growth and prosperity of the Pittsburgh district are a signal illustration. No change is wanted here. Let well enough alone is a satisfactory maxim for the Pittsburgh district and Allegheny county will roll up a big majority on that issue.

Let well enough alone was the keynote of the able and eloquent speeches delivered by Attorney General Carson, Congressman Hepburn, Adjutant General Stewart and Mr. Burke. Mr. Carson enforced this principle from the standpoint of common sense, business prudence and sentiment. Every consideration opposes the overthrow of present conditions, and the introduction of uncertainty, distrust and change. An interesting feature of his address was a discussion of national expansion from a historical point of view, showing how stale was the cry of imperialism raised against every acquisition of national territory.

Mr. Burke in his address utilized some facts recently brought to notice by The Gazette as to the record of the Democratic party in changing the rules of the house of representatives so as to facilitate extravagance in public expenditure and produce the bankruptcy which involved Cleveland's last administration. Mr. Burke reviewed the utterances of Judge Parker, turning against him his own professions of concern in the public welfare. When Judge Parker said that the great issue was whether the government shall remain one of law, that by implication suggests the impolicy of change, for to remain as it is the government should stay as it is. Even the Democratic candidate furnishes an argument for leaving well enough alone. Judge Parker's fear that the government may become one of "individual caprice" calls to notice the fact that he required his own party convention to submit to his "individual caprice," and that only his individual opinion is offered for the security of the monetary standard. Better let well enough alone.

Congressman Hepburn in his address made skillful use of the story of Pittsburgh's industrial development to point the moral of tariff policy. Here we have an object lesson as regards the way protection promotes industrial growth and provides American agriculture with a great and growing home market for its products. All the speeches were apt and forcible, and started the campaign in this section with an impetus which will culminate upon election day. There is no apathy in the state of Allegheny.

Allegheny Graft Prosecution.

Allegheny is in line for a much needed cleaning up and Maj. Robert E. Stewart, the district attorney, has put the machinery in motion. The beginning was made yesterday; the end will not be reached for many days. It would be difficult to predict, at this time, how far the graft investigation may reach. It will not stop with one case; it may not stop with a score of them, for the graft system in Allegheny is deeply rooted and more widely branched than an old elm tree.

For years Allegheny has been the notorious resort of criminals who found asylum there to rest from their labors in other fields. Despite all efforts of the good people of the North Side, there has been a "wide openness" offensive to their sense of decency. In the face of respectable protest several classes of lawbreakers have enjoyed immunity from prosecution as surprising as it has been disgusting. At the root of it all has been graft—corruption in high and low places.

District Attorney Stewart faces no easy task when he undertakes to investigate this system of graft and prosecute the grafters. That he is fully aware of this fact has been made apparent by the course he has pursued in taking it up. First, he has sought evidence that could be depended on; second, he has enlisted the civic pride and property interests of the suffering city; third, he has engaged strong legal talent for the actual work of prosecution. There can hardly be any doubt about the result. No one familiar with Allegheny questions the existence of the graft system and no one can fail to realize that when the unravelling of the skein begins there will be surprising entanglements.

Linear License Tax Failure.

In the matter of the linear license tax ordinance the expected has happened. It is not sustained by the court. If the city is to obtain compensation for the extremely valuable privileges enjoyed by the public service corporations it must resort to other methods. When the linear ordinance was pending before councils The Gazette urged repeatedly that it should be submitted to City Solicitor William B. Rodgers for opinion upon its legality, or preferably that the city solicitor be requested to prepare an ordinance that would be likely to stand the test in court. That advice was rejected. The object of the linear license tax promoters was to get what it might yield in the way of political capital for the campaign. They did not want an ordinance that would stand.

When the last batch of street railway ordinances was passed the suggestion that they should contain a clause providing for compensation to the city was rejected on the plea that they were subject to the linear license tax. The value of that provision is now apparent. The only set of street railway bills that offered absolute compensation were promptly pigeon-holed by the same politicians who inflicted the bogus license tax scheme upon the city. They prefer to squeeze the public utility corporations for campaign or private contributions rather than compel them to pay to the city for the valuable grants they enjoy. The Gazette urged throughout that no public franchise should be granted without provision for compensation, and the force of the argument cannot now be questioned.

There is yet one method by which these corporations can be reached and made to pay a just return upon their highly capitalized gifts from the public. That way is for the state to enact a law similar to that enacted for New York, taxing the companies upon the valuation of their property. The New York courts have upheld that law. They have ruled, as have the United States courts, that franchises are actual property. The Pennsylvania courts could hardly take any other view, so it is up to the state legislature to frame and pass the law. There is no necessity to thresh over again the justice of the proposition that corporations should pay the public for property transferred to them by the public. The corporations refuse to pay unless compelled to do so, and municipal councils refuse to compel payment to the public. There is no other way but to have a state law imposing an equitable tax on the property.

The Business Situation.

The spirit of optimism which has pervaded the stock market for so many weeks past is beginning to manifest itself in commercial circles. It was a great addition to the general stock of confidence when the U. S. Steel Corporation made arangements for meeting the expected demand for iron and steel products. At the present time it is estimated that 80 per cent of the pig iron furnace capacity of the corporation is active, and the tonnage output is equal to 85 per cent of the capacity of all the furnaces last year. This is a decided improvement on the 50 per cent of furnace capacity that was in operation earlier in the year. This increased output calls for additional coal, coke, limestone and ore, and the mining and transportation of these products has imparted a degree of activity to the industry that is very encouraging. The revival has at the same time had a stimulating effect upon railroad traffic, and Western Pennsylvania enters the last quarter of 1904 under more cheerful conditions than at any previous time this year.

The great bulk of the cereal crops of the year has now been harvested. The weather during the past two weeks has been extremely favorable for maturing the late corn, and there is now no reason for lowering the minimum estimate of 2,000,000,000 bushels for the total crop. The actual yield may be larger than that, and the total farm value is likely to be the highest on record, owing to the relatively high price. Cotton is being rapidly brought to market, and the offerings of cotton bills against exports have been so large during the past week as to depress the rate for sterling exchange to a point where it would be possible to import gold in case of need. This is an assurance against stringency in the money market, and it looks very much as though the country would escape the annual disturbance in monetary circles this year.

The present situation, therefore, is encouraging. In the east there is a normal condition of financial affairs. In the west and south the crops have been or are being garnered in good condition, and the demand is sufficient to maintain prices at a profitable level. The gap between the financial and agricultural interests is being bridged. The first span is the improvement in the iron trade. The second is the larger movement of merchandise, which is reflected in increased railroad earnings. The next will reach the mercantile trade, and will make rapid progress as the buying power of the public increases. There are always some laggards, some over-cautious people, who must have an absolutely clear outlook. These may wait until after the election before casting aside their fears of setback; but unless all signs fail the movement now started is the beginning of a genuine restoration of confidence and a normal volume of trade.

The stock market is always discounting the future, and this week there was a revival of activity and a resumption of the upward movement. The average of prices is now the highest for more than a year. In the view of conservative men, current values have discounted the impovement already experienced and made a large draft upon the future. Should a reaction occur in Wall street it would be the natural consequence of the continuous rise of the past three months, and would not indicate any reactionary tendency in general trade.

Everybody is shouting for Smith up in the Twenty-seventh congressional district. W. O. Smith is the Republican member of congress and candidate for re-election and now the Democrats have named A. C. Smith, also of Jefferson county. The Smiths are good men, but W. O. is preferred stock—preferred by a large majority.

Acting Controller Morrow refuses to countersign any warrants. Reason: No available funds. Poor Mayor Hays, tired of his job, no salary and demands heavier than ever.

Candidate Parker has fallen silent again. He finds it impossible to explain his reticence, but still more difficult to explain his views on public questions.

St. Petersburg reports the Baltic fleet at target practice still within the Baltic sea. It is safer to practice there than in far eastern waters.

A seedless apple is announced from Colorado. An obvious attempt to bear the market for coring machines.

Five hundred murders in Mississippi this year! Lynchings are not included in the count, either.

Melancholy days? Well, hardly. These melon days are gladdest of the year.

Linear license tax returns will not replenish the empty city treasury.

Maj. Stewart has begun reaching out for the Allegheny grafters.

Would Be Criticised Anyway.

Presumably, we may expect the anti-administration papers to indulge in a few sneers at President Roosevelt because he met the interparliamentry union half way and promised to call another peace conference. Had he not done it, they would have found fault with him and talked about the "big stick." Now that he has done it, more than one will insist that it was for specious and political motives, and that he is stealing the livery of peace to serve his personal ambitions withal.—Cleveland Leader.

Dems Who Say Things.

Mr. H. Gassaway Davis' effort to enter Candidate Fairbanks' class as a letter-writer will be as interesting to the public as Judge Parker's attempt to equal the president's brilliant production. Apparently the only real Democrat who can say things is Tom Watson and he repudiates the others.—Philadelphia Press.

Herrick Has a Record.

Unfortunately, it is being discovered that Judge Herrick has a record—unfortunately for the judge.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Talked of in Gotham

By FRANK A. PARKER.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Tomorrow 2,834 men in New York state will doff the prison stripes, but the air they breathe will still be filtered between steel bars. The characteristic garb of the prison will no longer be worn by the first timers, and in its stead will be clothing of dark gray. The new uniform is given a military cut, and the prisoners who have only been convicted of one crime will also have the distinction of wearing standing collars and will have the all-around neat appearance of ship's apprentices or "rookies" as Kipling calls the army recruits.

This change is one of a number made by State Superintendent of Prisons Collins during the last five years for the purpose of distinguishing first term men from old offenders and in other ways improving their condition. In line with this movement have been the abolition of the lock step and the cropped head. He believes the wisdom of these changes has been demonstrated by the fact that since they went into effect punishments in all prisons have decreased more than 40 per cent. In discussing the change to stripeless suits today Superintendent Collins said:

"Experience has shown me there is often a wide difference between men in for a first offense and old offenders. The former are entitled to some alleviation of the disgrace of imprisonment and hereafter they will not hear it said of them after they leave prison that 'they have worn stripes.' To a former convict this means more than the general public can appreciate. Everything that separates them from the older and more hardened class of criminals increases their self-respect and desire to lead a better life at the expiration of their terms."

Feels Sure of Republican Success.

Having completed his business in connection with real estate holdings in this city, William Waldorf Astor sailed today for Liverpool. He occupied a suite of three rooms on the White Star steamship Celtic. Mr. Astor was inclined to evade interviews when he made his appearance on deck prior to sailing, but finally he said that while his trip had been made for business purposes, he had enjoyed his stay on this side. He repeated that in his opinion Roosevelt will defeat Parker. Speaking of real estate, he declared he had no intention of decreasing his holdings.

"The erection of so many tall buildings," he said, "is a barometer which indicates real estate has greatly increased in value. It is certainly not a time when one would decrease his holdings."

Our Tabbies Are All Right.

America can now boast of cats of as high degree and beautiful appearance as Europe, according to Mrs. William Hoffstra, president of the Atlantic Cat club, who has returned from Europe. Mrs. Hoffstra and Mrs. Charles G. Bennett were returning from a stay of more than two months abroad. "I really expected," said Mrs. Hoffstra, "to bring home fine cats for breeding purposes, but after looking about I concluded that we had just as good ones in America."

The Beginning and the End.

Those who attended the funeral of William H. Hadley, who committed suicide last Tuesday, witnessed a strange ceremony when the dead man's month-old daughter was christened over her father's open coffin. This was in accordance with the dying man's request. The ceremony took place at St. Andrew's church at Fiftieth street and Fourth avenue, Brooklyn, and was performed by the rector, Dr. W. H. Hadley. The baby is the youngest of three children. After the ceremony the funeral services were held.

Coaling at Sea Proves Failure.

Coaling at sea has not yet been successfully accomplished. Unofficial reports from the Illinois, which is just back from an eight days' test of a coaling device, are to the effect that the latest device is also a failure. The Illinois is anchored off Tompkinsville today. Rear Admiral Royal B. Bradford, commanding the ship, refused to discuss the outcome of the trial. From others on the ship, however, it was learned that less than 300 tons of fuel had been transferred to the bunkers during the eight days of coaling. One member of the engineer's department said the vessel could not get it aboard as fast as it was burned.

No More Fresh Air This Season.

The New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor closed at Sea Breeze today after a season of 19 weeks. The total number of people who were entertained was 54,300, of which 35,780 were given to "stay guests," as follows: 1015 women, 847 babies and 1,716 boys and girls over three years of age. Of these only 119 were over working age. The Irish-Americans led in nationality, the Germans being second, 618 as "stay guests" and about 2,500 on day excursions. The season for day excursions ended September 5, 31 parties being given, averaging 584 each, at a per capita cost for transportation of 11.8 cents.

Daniel J. Sully is not yet out of the bankruptcy court, but he is in the cotton market again, predicting a short crop and high prices and performing all the antics of an exchange "bull movement." Mr. Price, who was a cotton "bull" before Brown and Sully, and whose experiences were not entirely unlike the latter's has been a bear ever since, and is warning the public to be careful and find out more about the present crop of cotton before plunging heavily.—Philadelphia Record.

Ample for the Purpose.

The Quiet Observer

By ERASMUS WILSON.

How would you like to be awakened these fine mornings by the booming of cannon, bugle blasts and rattling drums?

It might be all right for some mornings, but hardly for such fine mornings for sleeping as we have been having down here at Pomeroy during the week.

However, it wasn't half as bad as it might have been, nor nearly as bad as it was in war times, for then you had to hustle out and get into line. Here you could turn over and go to sleep again without fear of being shot up or captured.

The occasion of this war-like noise and confusion was the Meigs County Soldiers' reunion, an event which always draws a big crowd, and one that demands war-like demonstrations. Being a three days' affair, and the biggest thing of the year, it resembles a regular campaign, more or less.

That this has been a big affair is shown by the fact that there were about 500 old soldiers registered, while other good and worthy citizens beat them more than five to one.

* * * * *

But it was a great meeting. It must have been to continue three days and each succeeding day bigger and better than the preceding, closing on Friday afternoon with a perfect jam, and with hilarity to beat the band.

An immense circus tent furnished protection from the sun, which was about as hot as harvest, and broke the dry winds which swept in from droughty and almost parched highlands. They say they haven't had a good rain down here since June, and they are not a bad sort of people, either, so that the long dry spell cannot be reasonably regarded as an evidence of heaven's displeasure with them.

But the Ohio soldier and his West Virginia neighbor are not easily discouraged. They have seen hotter and dryer spells than this, lived through them and are still on earth, fat, hearty and saucy.

The great success of this reunion shows that the country contingent is not only strong, but inclined to respond promptly when called to assemble on the color line. This may be in a measure due to the fact that farmers are at leisure just now, having finished their fall seeding and are in no hurry about husking corn.

These, however, are merely side issues and cut no considerable figure with the farmer veteran who looks forward anxiously for the coming of reunion day.

* * * * *

A soldiers' reunion down in this neck of the woods would hardly be counted a success without Gen. Grosvenor being present, and he could not be on the line without making a speech. He doesn't have to attend for political reasons, but does so because his heart is there, which is clear enough after you have heard one of his hearty, wholesome speeches. He can make a good speech on almost any sort of an occasion, but he is never, or hardly ever, heard to better advantage than on occasions such as this.

But he wasn't the only toad in the puddle, although he may have been the biggest, for there was Maj. Jewett of Athens, a physical heavyweight and a dandy platform speaker, and a jolly good fellow.

Nor was he alone in this fight, but was backed by Judge Sayre, also of Athens, and good backing, too, although he wasn't out of short pants when the war came on. About all he could do was to whoop and shout over victories, join in parades and to wish he was big enough to enlist. Judge Sayre is a typical representative of that large class known as true friends of the soldier.

Athens county surely was long on big guns during the war, but not longer than was Meigs county on good soldiers.

* * * * *

And what would a reunion be without baked beans and flitch? Why, it wouldn't be a soldiers' reunion at all.

You may think this bean business all a joke or pure fudge, but it isn't anything of the sort. Beans, hard tack and black coffee saved the Union; at least they furnished the nerve and muscle that won the battles. Plain and commonplace as are these viands they were the choice food of the soldier, and the particular articles of which he never seemed to tire, and he likes them yet.

The Hon. John H. Lochary, who was head master of ceremonies, kept the ball rolling from start to finish. He is that sort of a fellow, whether it is a soldiers' meeting, state legislature or court room. On this occasion he had his hands about full, for it turned out to be a bigger affair than had been dreamed of, but he rose equal to the emergency.

There were speakers from Columbus, Pittsburgh and over the river, to say nothing of home talent, of which there was an abundance, and good, too. The handy man was the Rev. Mr. Eldridge of Harrisonville. Being ready and willing and apt he was ever ready to jump in and help out of a pinch, and the crowd never failed to give him hearty and vociferous greeting whenever he appeared on the platform. Such men are not only a convenience in any community, but a positive blessing.

* * * * *

All this is not intended to be a report of the proceedings of this notable meeting, but to show that the old soldier, who is yet a million strong, is greatly in evidence on proper occasion, and is backed up by the stanchest and loyalist of our citizens.

Sometimes the old veteran gets a notion into his grizzled head that he is being neglected and more or less badly treated. But when he comes to write down his grievances in black and white he discovers that his list is much shorter than he thought it would be, particularly if he takes the trouble to compare his state and condition with that of others who are not veterans.

The wise soldier never forgets that he is only human, therefore subject to the ills, disappointments and sorrows common to mankind. Nor should he expect to be greatly favored and petted even if he die take his life in his hand, for that was nothing more than his duty.

These reunions are most profitable to the veteran because they tend to rejuvenate him and to lengthen and brighten his days, while they encourage patriotism and set the younger folks thinking over what the Union and our splendid government costs in addition to the vast treasure expended on account of the war.

It was good to be there, and better still to be a part of the splendid demonstration.

Pomeroy, O.

Immunity for Diplomats.

Apparently, Police Justice Phelps has committed a sacrilegious act, and of course he must pay the penalty unless Hugh Gurney and Arthur Raikes, and so on, intercede successfully in his behalf. It occurs to us, however, that Hugh Gurney, although his legal rights seem undeniable, might easily have called good breeding to his aid and avoided even the appearance of trespass upon a generous and lavish hospitality. The host is always at the mercy of those he entertains, but the wise host takes no chances of a second insult. And the moral of all this is too obvious to call for definition.—Washington Post.

Official Dignity Again.

Having nominated the man who thus degraded the judiciary and dragged the ermine in the mire of corrupt politics, the Democrats profess deep concern for official dignity and propriety, and are shocked at the spectacle of a governor taking an interest in politics and not being hypocrite enough to do it in secret. They demand the election of their unjudicial judge on the strength of slashing charges of corruption brought against the present governor in their platform, charges which their own newspaper supporters declare to be extravagant and unfounded.—New York Tribune.

Philadelphia Optimism.

Philadelphians view with great regret the increasing use of bituminous coal on a large scale in this city. The clearness and purity of the atmosphere, for which this city was famed, have become a tradition of the past. It is not possible, even if it were desirable, to check the use of soft coal. It is clearly for the interests of the city to permit its use and not couple that use with difficult conditions. The smoke ordinance only calls for careful firing, and with cheerful optimism we hope it may do some good.—Philadelphia Press.

The Diplomatist's Exemption.

It is unfortunate that a judge upon the bench of even an inferior court should be ignorant of the important statutes affecting ambassadors, their domestics and their domestic servants; and the commonwealth of Massachusetts will unquestionably see to it that her erring servant is punished properly. At the same time it is fair to observe that a diplomatist should not avail himself of his right of exemption from arrest to violate the reasonable police regulations of the nation to which he is accredited.—New York Sun.

The Gurney Incident

Philadelphia Ledger: It has been suggested that the outcome of this farcical comedy will be an intimation by Secretary Hay to the British ambassador that his third secretary has outlived his usefulness and overstayed his welcome in the United States. That seems scarcely necessary. The British government keeps close and jealous watch over the conduct of its diplomatic representatives, and it does not regard with favor such of them as humiliate it. Third Secretary Gurney has done that by his blunder of making a personal affront by a country justice an international affair. His diplomatic career has been brief, but it has been pursued sufficiently long, we think, to convince his government that he has mistaken his vocation. It will be strange, indeed, if Third Secretary Gurney should not be soon officially informed that there is no room for cads and fools of his kind in the British diplomatic service.

Buffalo Express: After apologizing to that young British diplomat who was fined for running his automobile too fast on a Massachusetts highway, the United States may ask King Edward to call him home. The immunity of diplomats from arrest is based on the assumption that they will obey the laws of the country to which they are accredited or that their own government will punish them if they do not.

\+ \+ \+ \+

Boston Transcript: The principle which the attache raised is not novel. Our government has several times been compelled to intervene to rescue diplomats from the penalties for acts which if committed by an American citizen would be promptly and even severely punishable. President Jefferson went so far as to use the federal power to compel the cessation by state authorities of the prosecution of a consul who was charged with committing a crime. The diplomatic immunity has frequently been abused, and there have been instances of memoers of the diplomatic corps, in the past, who left the United States owing bills which their creditors were utterly unable to collect. Their departures have been usually accelerated by representations from Washington to their governments. The proper course for the local authorities at Lee would have been to call the British ambassador's attention to the reckless way in which his attache speeded his automobile through the town streets, and then if no redress was obtained, to have communicated with Washington through the proper channels.

\+ \+ \+ \+

Washington Star: The Gurney incident is likely to prove a blessing, after all. From all present indications Mr. Gurney is booked for a jolt from home that will serve as a far more effective punishment for scorching than the fine which Judge Phelps applied. Furthermore, the refusal of the attache to plead and the subsequent action of the court in fining him for contempt, with all the incidental publicity, will be soon found to have advertised widely to the whole world that the immunity clause is a live wire and that foreigners on diplomatic service in this country are really more rigidly bound to obey the laws and regulations than the citizens of this country. A diplomatic official cannot with impunity step over the line. He may not suffer ordinary punishment, but he loses his prestige and perhaps is threatened with the loss of his position.

\+ \+ \+ \+

Chicago News: But the British at home say well that this Briton who goes abroad and breaks a law and then builds up an international incident out of his lawbreaking made a painful exhibition of himself. They point out that he ought to have kept quiet and paid his fine like a gentleman. The commonwealth of Massachusetts has apologized to Gurney. Now it remains to be seen what will happen next. As a gentleman and a moralist who pays his fines when he breaks the law and is caught at it, Premier Balfour ought to have very decided opinions as to the conduct of the third secretary of the British embassy at Washington.

\+ \+ \+ \+

New York Evening Post: The excitement over the course of Special Justice Phelps of Pittsfield is peculiarly ill-timed. In fining Hugh Gurney, third secretary of the British embassy, he has been following a method now highly praised. Justice Phelps is a man of action; he thinks swiftly; he does things and finds the law for them afterwards. He saw that the third secretary had violated the ordinance against speeding, and he clapped on the penalty instanter. If this kind of procedure is admirable in the chief magistrate of the nation, it ought to be equally admirable in a police magistrate.

\+ \+ \+ \+

Buffalo Express: America is taking the "diplomatic incident" in Massachusetts much more seriously than England. The opinion of London appears to be that that third secretary took himself much too seriously.

\+ \+ \+ \+

Cincinnati Commercial Tribune: The privilege of an ambassador and his suite being recognized by international law, and it being right and proper that their persons should be inviolable, there remains the remedy of a request by the state department for a change of air and of scene for the scorching diplomat. There is no way in which the government of the United States can make the embassies amenable to the law, but there is no provision of diplomacy nor of international law requiring the United States to refrain from asserting that another would be preferable to the violator of the laws of the land, federal, state and municipal. Mr. Gurney may be an issue, but he will not be a martyr.

\+ \+ \+ \+

Cincinnati Enquirer: The wonder to people of common sense will be as to how the congress of the United States, or the executive department, can make any regulation in defiance of the laws of the states or the ordinances of the municipalities. From the case as presented it appears that it would have been "all the same" had Mr. Gurney killed a man or robbed a grocery store.

\+ \+ \+ \+

Chicago Inter-Ocean: The young sprig of diplomacy who violated the Massachusetts automobile speed law, defied the courts and claimed exemption from punishment by virtue of diplomatic privilege, is likely to be given a permanent leave of absence from Washington by the British government. Of course, no civilized government cares to be represented abroad, even in the smallest capacity, by insolence and bad manners, and the egotism that indulges in lawbreaking under the shield of diplomatic privilege. Nor does any government care to have international questions raised over personal trifles. These were the offenses of young Mr. Gurney, and if they put an end to his diplomatic career it will be because they prove him unfit for diplomatic confidence.

MANY CANDIDATES FOR HOAR'S PLACE

Politicians Predict the Appointment and Election of Murray Crane.

MOODY ALSO A PROBABILITY

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU.
Room 10, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 30.

Politicians here predict that the successor of Senator George F. Hoar, who died this morning, will be former Gov. Murray Crane, who for many years has been in control of the Republican organization in Massachusetts. It is understood that Gov. Bates will appoint a successor to Senator Hoar to serve until the legislature meets in January.

If he appoints Mr. Crane it will be taken as indication that Mr. Crane is willing to run for the senatorship, and the contest is likely to be less vigorous, as there will be little disposition on the part of other aspirants to oppose the former governor.

Attorney General Moody is said to be the most probable successor of Senator Hoar with Mr. Crane eliminated. Senator Hoar, in his life time, expressed preference for this rising young Massachusetts statesman as his successor, and Mr. Moody has been regarded by many as practically the political heir of the distinguished senator.

Other candidates for the senatorship are Representative Gillette of the Springfield district, Representative McCall of the Winchester district and possibly Gov. Bates himself. Those who are well posted in Massachusetts politics say none of these could successfuly contest with Mr. Moody.

Among Massachusetts people in Washington it is taken for granted that Mr. Crane could have the senatorship if he desired it. He refused a place in Mr. Roosevelt's cabinet, for business reasons, and it is not known whether he is really averse to a Washington career. His paper making concern, which is a family affair, and not a corporation, has extensive contracts with the government, and he has preferred to keep his connection with the paper business to accepting office, which would necessitate severing connection with the business or giving up the government contracts.

The senatorial situation will enter into the coming elections, as the legislature to be elected this fall will choose Senator Hoar's successor.

The president pro tempore of the senate has designated the following senators as the committee on the part of the senate to attend the funeral of Senator Hoar: Lodge, Platt (Conn.), Hale, Depew, McComas, Spooner, Foraker, Beveridge, Elkins, Bryden, Stewart, Cockrill, Bacon, Blackburn, Gorman and Morgan.

The house committee, as named by Speaker Cannon, is as follows: The entire Massachusetts delegation and Messrs. Capron, Littlefield, Dwight, Morrell, Powell, Alexander, Longworth, Sulzer, Currier and Hill.

The funeral will be held at the Church of the Unity, Worcester, Mass., on Monday at 2:30 p. m.

WORCESTER, MASS., Sept. 30.—Rockwood Hoar, son of the late Senator Hoar, today received the following message from President Roosevelt:

Gen. Rockwood Hoar—Accept my most profound sympathy. The loss is not yours only, but of all those who believe in the lofty standard of purity, integrity and fearlessness in public life.

Robberies are nightly occurrences in Dunbar and the citizens are stirred to a high pitch. The two highwaymen were seen beating Beck Thursday night and were arrested. It now develops all three are members of a gang of robbers and Beck's two partners waylaid him because they were jealous of his deeds. A posse chased Beck this morning and he was captured after a fusillade of shots.

ONE'S OWN SOUL NOT EVERYTHING

Archbishop of Canterbury Defines Christian Duty to St. Andrew Brotherhood.

GENERAL COUNCIL ELECTED

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 30.—The feature of today's proceedings of the annual convention of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew was the presence of the archbishop of Canterbury, the Most Rev. Dr. Randall Thomas Davidson. He addressed the members at the Academy of Music.

Dr. Davidson was met at the station by Bishop Whitaker of the diocese of Pennsylvania, Bishop Coadjutor Mackay-Smith and Theodore E. Voorhees, first vice president of the Philadelphia & Reading. At Independence hall he was welcomed by Mayor Weaver. He was entertained at luncheon by Bishop Mackay-Smith.

Dr. Davidson was introduced at the Brotherhood meeting by James L. Houghteling of Chicago, chairman of the convention. The welcome was delivered by Bishop Whitaker, and a brief address was made by Bishop Tuttle of Missouri, head of the Episcopal church in America.

In the course of his address the archbishop of Canterbury said:

"Your kindness has emphasized to me the sense of absolute oneness of the English and American branches of the church and the almost oneness of our kindred nations. I am glad that the misunderstanding of a hundred odd years ago is driven happily, blessedly and, please God, permanently away from our hearts and our minds. But, speaking now as churchmen, and not as men of nearly-related countries, God's care of our church in past years and past centuries is a memory and a knowledge as dear to you as it is dear to us.

"I do not think I realized what a great force there is in your country until this afternoon when I faced the thousands of boys who comprise the junior department of your brotherhood. If all these youths be inculcated with the principles for which your brotherhood stands, what must it mean to America and next, to England, and to all the civilized world, 20 or 30 years hence? A half century ago the common answer to the question as to what was the first duty of a Christian would invariably have been, the saving of his own soul. Now, in the under range of view which virtually all men possess, it is generally recognized that no man should think too much of himself; that each is not only responsible for the saving of his own soul alone, but for helping the common life with which he daily has to do."

The archbishop was entertained at a banquet at the Bellevue-Stratford, and left later in the evening for New York.

At its business session today the Brotherhood elected a general council of 41 members, including H. D. W. English and George R. Randall, Pittsburgh; John E. Baird, Philadelphia, and F. M. Kirby, Wilkesbarre.

A JAPANESE DRUG STORE

The Japs Use Pe-ru-na.

Pe-ru-na is Used the World Over.

STREET SCENE IN TOKYO, JAPAN.

JAPANESE SOLDIERS LEAVING FOR THE FRONT.

The Japs Use Pe-ru-na. This fact is testified to by recent travelers in Japan, who have observed Peruna displayed in Japanese drug stores, in show windows and by means of placards.

The Japs Use Pe-ru-na. This might or might not account for their strenuous, active habits. We are not prepared to say. The Japs are notably a healthy people. They are courageous, supple and capable of great endurance. Their climate is not very productive of catarrh and catarrhal diseases, yet they are in some degree afflicted with this world's scourge.

The Japs Use Pe-ru-na. They have been quick to adopt all American customs. They have adopted our manner of government, our fashions as to dress, our mode of warfare, our public school system, and they have even adopted our custom of taking Peruna for catarrhal diseases.

The Japs Use Pe-ru-na. The Japs are the Yankees of the Orient. They move quickly. They are positive. Peruna exactly fits in this sort of life. Busy people have no time to bother with catarrh. Colds are irksome and hold them back. They want to get rid of them quickly. Nothing acts so promptly as Peruna. Peruna prevents catarrh by nipping it in the bud.

The Japs Use Pe-ru-na. Quick action—this is characteristic of Peruna and characteristic of the Japs. It is very natural, indeed, and inevitable that the Japs should use Peruna. They are up to the times. They adopt all good things. They do not have to be told twice.

War Artists Use Pe-ru-na. Mr. H. B. Manly, Assistant War Artist to London "Black and White" and "Collier's Weekly" during the uprising in China, writes: "When a man travels in extreme hot or cold climates he realizes how valuable a friend he has if he carries a bottle of Peruna. I know of no article in my traveling outfit which I have learned to praise higher."

War Correspondents Use Pe-ru-na. Mr. F. B. Richards, 609 E street, N. W., Washington, D. C., War Correspondent, writes: "Six years ago I was ordered to Cuba as staff correspondent of the New York Sun. I was in charge of a Sun dispatch boat through the Spanish-American war. The effect of the tropical climate and the nervous strain showed plainly on my return to the States. A brother newspaper man, who had served in the war, induced me to give a faithful trial to Peruna. I did so. Today I am able to work as hard as at any time in my life."

Civil War Veterans Use Pe-ru-na. Corporal John Finn, veteran soldier of the Civil War, Grand Army man and commander of John A. Rawlins Post No. 1, Dep't of the Potomac, Grand Army of the Republic, writes: "Peruna was recommended to me by many of my associates. I have found it a most agreeable and effective tonic, pleasant and soothing. I have suffered from rheumatism and catarrhal afflictions, and have found Peruna most beneficial.

Thousands Use Pe-ru-na. We have in our files thousands of testimonials like the above. We can give our readers only a slight glimpse of the vast array of interesting indorsements Dr. Hartman is constantly receiving from grateful people who have used his remedy, Peruna.

AUTHOR OF LAW THINKS IT LEGAL

Former Councilman Stevenson Confident Supreme Court Will Reverse County Decision.

SHARPLY ATTACKS BIGELOW

"I believe there is a good chance of Judge Frazer's decision in the linear tax case being overturned, if it is taken to the supreme court," said Former Councilman W. H. Stevenson, the author of the linear tax bill, which was yesterday declared by the judge to be illegal.

"The court declares the linear tax excessive. The first tax proposed was 5 per cent of the gross receipts, which would have been double the assessment under the linear tax measure. The gross receipts of the Pittsburgh Railways Company last year amounted to $8,600,000. If it had been assessed 5 per cent of its gross receipts, as originally proposed, the tax would have been $430,000, whereas it was $210,000 under the linear law. The court declares a portion of the company's property, which is included in its capital stock, cannot be taxed by the city.

"We are not taking the property of the company, but asking the company to pay a license for occupying the streets of the city at so much a linear foot of track. Other cities in the United States collect a tax on corporations, in most cases of 5 per cent on the gross receipts, and why cannot Pittsburgh collect taxes from them?"

When the linear tax decision was mentioned to Director Bigelow he smiled and said:

"I knew when councils passed that ordinance it was not legal. I got all the information upon which the assessments were based and the companies gave it to me freely, stating they were willing to do so because nothing would ever come of it. Yes, I helped Mr. Stevenson and his friends pass the ordinance, but when I did so, I knew it was not legal and would not hold in the courts."

When Mr. Stevenson was told of Mr. Bigelow's remarks, he said:

"I don't think the decision in the tax case is anything for Mr. Bigelow to gloat over, or for any citizen who has the interest of the city at heart to gloat over. If the corporations paid their share of the taxes the city government would not be in such a hole as it is today.

"Who is responsible for the condition of the treasury today? The finance committee of councils, of which I was chairman, framed the appropriation bills this year and kept the expenditures down to the minimum and we fixed the tax levy at 13 mills. When the appropriation bill was reported to councils Bigelow and Max Leslie formed a coalition, raised the appropriations, cut down the tax levy to 12½ mills and fictitiously estimated the revenues, thus creating a deficit at the beginning that has just shown up."

City Treasurer Frauenheim stated that he would take an appeal to the supreme court. Director Bigelow was asked if an appeal would be taken, and he replied: "See Mr. Rodgers."

WM. WOODS ESTATE IS DIVIDED AMONG SONS

Wm. A. Jackson Convicted of Second Degree Murder and J. H. Jahn of Larceny by Bailee.

Judge Collier handed down an opinion in the equity suit of D. P. Black against H. H. Woods and G. A. Woods, allowing each of the children of William Woods, deceased, a one-third interest in the $40,000 purchase money for a portion of the site of the Nixon theater. The proceedings were begun to obtain a clear title and construe the will of William Woods. The court decides the decedent's surviving children were those who survived him at his death and not those who survived the death of the life tenant when the trust lapsed. Frank M. and William A. Woods are allowed one-third share of their father's estate, Allen B. Woods deceased, while two-thirds goes to B. H. Woods, son. Attorneys J. L. Ritchey, D. S. McCann and Henry Oliver Evans represent D. P. Black and the sons of Allen B. Woods, while W. B. Rodgers represented B. H. Woods.

In the suits of Attorneys J. S. Ferguson and W. A. Sips to recover $1,000 each as counsel fees in addition to retaining fees of $250 for conducting equity suits brought by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, on behalf of the borough of Aspinwall, it is alleged the borough received $65,000 compensation as a settlement, after the equity suit was instituted, to permit the railroad to enter on and cross streets and alleys. This settlement was made shortly before the company obtained an injunction against the borough.

Judge Buffington sustains the claims of E. C. Schmertz in a cross suit filed in the suit of Leon Appert against the Brownsville Plate Glass Company and Edmund C. Schmertz, now deceased. The suit was to sustain a patent Appert had secured on the manufacture of wire glass. The cross bill shows the difference in the workings of the inventions.

William A. Jackson was convicted of murder in the second degree for the killing of his sweetheart, Frances E. Davis.

J. Henry Jahn was convicted of larceny by bailee of about $900 from Mrs. Evaline N. Schopfer. The jury was out about 10 minutes.

Before Judge McClung in juvenile court a youthful gang of pilferers were arraigned for breaking into the trunk of Mrs. Mary A. Mayer, of Swissvale, Allegheny, and stealing $50. The story told was that during the absence of Mrs. Mayer her son John invited in the rest of the boys and told of the money. Then they split up. William Ellsbeck, who broke open the trunk, was sent to Morganza, and Lawrence Daily and John Mayer to the Philadelphia protectory. John Black and Cornelius Daily were not disposed of.

Victor Robinson was sent to Morganza on a charge of felonious assault and battery, made by his mother, Martha Robinson. The boy, it was testified, got after his smaller brother with a pair of scissors, and when the mother interefered he attacked her with a fusillade of cobblestones.

Harry W. Rosenthal and Samuel Mendelsohn, tailors, of McKeesport, were granted an appeal from the decision of Magistrate E. C. Negley. The magistrate fined the men each $5 and costs on charges of being suspicious persons.

The grand jury which was dismissed yesterday by Judge Evans until October 24 returned two true bills for murder, one against Daniel E. McCarthy of 714 South avenue, Allegheny, for the death of his wife, Nellie. Mrs. McCarthy died at the Allegheny General hospital on June 26 from shock, the result of a kicking she received four days before, said to have been inflicted by her husband.

Mike Vanchzura is charged with the death of Peter Sadosk, a miner of Moon Run, who was shot and instantly killed on August 8 last.

True bills were returned as follows: Felonious assault and battery, Philip Reiss; entering a building with intent to commit a felony, David Llewellyn; Earl Ford; embezzlement, G. J. Lightenheld; fraudulently making a written instrument, Daniel Hall; libel, H. C. Patterson, Henry T. Broadus, C. R. France, George Taylor; larceny, Stancy Waterich, Stacia Weshenawsky, W. C. Martz (2), John L. Martz (2); larceny by bailee, Lucille West; assault and battery, John K. Scott, jr., Mary Bishop, Harry Snyder; misdemeanor, John Rosen, Nicholas Simon, Robert Cerosky, Mary E. Acker, William J. Caldwell, Marsh Roalman, J. B. Imhoff, F. J. Kinney, William Kennedy, Michael Polyah, Fred Entze, W. A. Weller, Elizabeth Morgan.

George P. Liebel, a retail grocer, of Allegheny, filed a petition in bankruptcy. He gives his liabilities as $1,826 88 and his assets as $1,672 16.

The following executions were issued: Wolfgang Rank vs Theresa Greele et al, $920 25; John Henry O'Donnell, use, vs George A. Snyder, $2,215 80; Commonwealth Real Estate and Trust Company vs J. J. Speck, $2,754 07; E. Bluthardt vs George D. Stinson, $1,254 22; same vs same, $1,291 50; E. Hienemann vs same, $1,077 50; same vs same, $1,179 13; H. Obernauer & Co. vs same $128 12.

NATIONAL FOOD LAW IS NEEDED, SAYS CRITCHFIELD

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 30.—At today's session of the pure food congress the paper by C. H. Critchfield, secretary of agriculture of Pennsylvania, was read by A. H. Woodward, attorney for the pure food department of Pennsylvania. Mr. Critchfield said in his paper that the need of the hour is uniformity of state legislation, supplemented by an adequate national law in control of the interstate commerce in adulterated foods.

LINEAR LICENSE TAX IS ILLEGAL

Judge Frazer Grants the Injunction Restraining the City from Collecting.

LARKIN MUST PAY EMPLOYES

The city of Pittsburgh is restrained from collecting the linear license tax, imposed upon public service corporations, as provided for in an ordinance passed by city councils, in an opinion by Judge Frazer, in which the injunction asked for by the Pittsburgh Railways Company is granted. The opinion is lengthy and goes first into the details of the ordinance passed October 20, 1903, and that passed February 27, 1904, under the act of assembly of March 7, 1901. The ordinances were based on paragraphs 4 and 22 of section 3 of the act.

The court says the first paragraph gives power to levy a license tax upon street railways for general revenue purposes. The court also quotes another paragraph of the same act which provides that tax for general revenue purposes is not to exceed 10 mills on the dollar in any year.

The court says a license is a price paid for a privilege, and a tax is an enforced proportional contribution. While license fees are not imposed to provide revenue, they may be enacted for such purpose if proper authority exists. If imposed for revenue they must be uniform, and if for regulation, must be reasonable.

On the question of reasonableness of the fee the court says it does not depend upon the length of track or volume of business. The elements to be considered are the expense of issuing the license, and the expense to the city in regulating, inspecting and affording police surveillance of the lines. It being the duty of the city to protect its citizens by seeing that quasi-public corporations are properly maintained, license fees are usually intended to meet that expense.

Linear Tax Is Unreasonable.

After quoting the amount of the license fee assessed, $219,265 25, the court states that it is more than enough to employ 200 good men. If this charge is a license fee, the court says, it is obviously excessive, clearly unreasonable and therefore invalid.

The court then says that if the charge is not a license fee, it must be a tax. The right of the city to levy taxes is then set forth. Under the act of 1901, the court says, the real estate of a corporation is not liable to a tax, and the question is how can it authorize a tax on personal property or on the railway track, which property is not liable for taxation where the property is included in the capital stock, which pays a state tax. The act, if it authorizes a tax at all, authorizes it either upon the company or its business, and does not empower an assessment upon a portion only of the property.

As the ordinance imposes the charge upon the tracks the assessment is not authorized by any law, and is therefore illegal and void.

The other corporations which came under the heading of the ordinance joined with the Pittsburgh Railways Company in this suit, but do not appear parties plaintiff, with the exception of the Western Union Telegraph Company, which paid its tax of $1,016 20 under protest, and with the understanding that it would be returned if the ordinance failed to receive the approval of the courts.

Mandamus Against Larkin.

Judge Robert S. Frazer also decided yesterday that City Controller Larkin must pay the salaries of the persons employed in the bureau of filtration, and issued a peremptory mandamus to that effect. The proceedings were brought by Morris Knowles to compel the controller to approve the July payroll for his salary as chief engineer of the bureau.

In the court's opinion, after a full consideration of the city laws relating to appropriations, Judge Frazer says that the act of 1901, as to annual appropriations to be made by general ordinance in February, has no application to the expenditure of money raised by loans for a particular purpose.

There seems to be no reason why money dedicated to a particular purpose should be appropriated over and over again by annual ordinances. If the ordinance of 1900 is not enough of authority that of March 28, 1904, creating the bureau of filtration and directing the employment of engineers and others is sufficient.

The claim the latter ordinance is invalid because it contains two subjects—creating the bureau, directing the employment of engineers and others, and providing for their payment—is dismissed by the court as untenable.

The costs are placed upon the controller.

DENY REPORTED LAY OFF.

Rumor of Discharge of 1,000 Pennsylvania Railroad Employes Not Credited.

A special telegram to The Gazette from Wellsville, O., last night stated over 1,000 men had left the service of the Pennsylvania lines west because of an order recently issued to the effect that no employe over 35 years of age was to be retained in the service after October 1.

First Vice President James McCrea of the Pennsylvania lines west stated last night he had no knowledge of such order and did not believe the report to be true. Several years ago, when the company established a pension provision an order was issued that thereafter no one would be engaged who had attained the age of 35 years. The order was not to affect employes then in service.

WOMAN SUFFRAGISTS REGRET HOAR'S DEATH

WARREN, O., Sept. 30.—The officers of the National American Woman's Suffrage association assembled in a business meeting at headquarters in this city today, adopted the following resolution:

"That in the death of United States Senator Hoar of Massachusetts, the Woman's Suffrage cause has lost one of its most scholarly and most eloquent champions and that his fearless advocacy of this reform throughout his long life entitles him to the undying gratitude of women."

THE DEATH ROLL

The Rev. John Galbraith.

The Rev. John Galbraith, aged 86, a former moderator of the synod of the Reformed Presbyterian church and for many years a Covenanter minister in Butler county, Pa., died yesterday at his home in Butler county. The Rev. Mr. Galbraith was born in Edenmore, County Donegal, Ireland. He was the youngest of 10 children of James and Margaret McClure Galbraith. In 1843 he received a call to the Union church in Butler county, having resided in Adams township, that county, since. In 1870 the congregation was divided and Mr. Galbraith continued to minister to the North Union church, near Renfrew, until 1889, when he retired owing to infirmities. He is survived by four children: John M. of Suffolk, Va.; R. F. of Mars, Pa.; Mrs. Jennie G. Hill of Valencia, Pa., and Mrs. Mary R. Willison of Allegheny. Miss Margaret E. Galbraith, deceased, for 25 years a teacher in the Third ward school, Allegheny, was a daughter, and the Rev. Samuel R. Galbraith, a son, died while serving in the Syria mission field in 1872. He is buried at Beirut.

Sister Bonaventura.

Sister Bonaventura, aged 63, for 37 years a member of the Order of the Sisters of Mercy and one of the best known nuns in this city, died yesterday morning at Mercy hospital, in which institution she had served for years ministering to the sick. Her death was caused by a stroke of paralysis, which she suffered for the second time on Wednesday. In the world she was known as Mary McGorlick. She joined the Mercy order in this city in 1867, and during her religious life had been connected with the Mercy convent in Webster avenue, St. Paul's Catholic Orphan asylum and the hospital. Aside from her extensive acquaintance among people who had been treated at the hospital, she was probably best known in the homes of the poor in this vicinity. She is survived by one sister, who lives in this city. Requiem mass will be offered over the remains in the chapel at Mercy hospital at 8 o'clock this morning. The remains will be taken to the mother house at Beatty, Westmoreland county, for interment today.

A. C. McPherson.

A. C. McPherson, aged 40, a former contractor and oil driller of Venango county and of the Scio field, died yesterday morning at 8 o'clock at his home in Murrayesville, Pa., of typhoid fever. He was a member of the First Presbyterian church of Murrayesville, of Cyrus chapter, No. 154, R. A. M., of Uhrichsville, O., and of Orange lodge No. 406, F. and A. M., of Leesville, O. He is survived by his widow and three children; also by his mother, a sister, Annie, and six brothers, John H. and Byron of Venango and Elliott, and Edward, Samuel, William and Blucher, all of Muncie, Ind. Funeral services will be held over the remains at Murrayesville at 10 a. m. Monday.

Mrs. John Hanlon.

Mrs. Sarah Hanlon, aged 71, for 30 years a resident of Demmler, McKeesport, died yesterday morning at her home in Demmler of the infirmities of old age. She was born in Queen county, Ireland, and came to this country with her husband, John Hanlon, 30 years ago. She was a member of St. Peter's Catholic church, McKeesport, for many years, but since the organization of the St. Pius congregation at Demmler had been attending there. Besides her husband, four sons and a daughter survive.

SHOW HAND OF A NATIVE FOR EVERY BALL CARTRIDGE

It Is Demanded of Armed Employes of Kongo Rubber Company, Says Returned Missionary.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 30.—The Rev. E. E. Faris, a missionary to the Kongo Free State, has just returned from a seven years' stay in the town of Bolengi, and was in the midst of the investigation made by the British consul, Roger Casement, into alleged brutal treatment of natives. Mr. Faris said while he and Consul Casement were visiting they found a native boy who had been pawned for $10 by his father to pay back taxes to the company controlling the land. In another village they discovered a boy of 13 whose right hand had been chopped off. The lad said a native soldier had done it, but being taken to the government station he said a wild boar had bitten it off. He had been bribed to tell the improbable story.

An Italian employe of a rubber company stopped with Mr. Faris one night, and in the most off-hand manner told that each soldier had so many ball cartridges for which he had to account.

"If he shot one," said the Italian, "he had to bring back the right hand of a native to show for it. When a soldier gets a chance at an antelope, he will shoot it and then chop off the right hand of a native to cover up his action."

This Italian claimed 6,000 natives had been murdered in six months.

CURTAIN FALLS ON HARRY WILLIAMS

Owner and Manager of Academy of Music and Duquesne Theater Is Dead.

ACTIVE THEATRICAL CAREER

William Harry Walker, better known as Harry W. Williams, the veteran theatrical manager and owner of the Academy of Music and lessee of the Duquesne theater, died at 11 o'clock yesterday morning at his home, 1408 Chartiers street, Allegheny, after a long illness, caused by paralysis. Mr. Walker's illness was brought on by exposure during a fire on a ship on which he was returning from Alaska about a year ago. After reaching home his health failed, and last December he suffered a stroke of paralysis. Early this year he suffered a second stroke.

Mr. Walker was born in Baltimore in 1841. His early playmates included Edwin Booth and Lawrence Barrett. While still a very small boy, he joined with Booth and Barrett and gave amateur performances. These were held in the back yard or anywhere else that could be found convenient. At the age of 15 he joined a stock company at Norfolk, Va., under the stage name of Harry Williams, playing comedy parts.

Soon after he went into variety. One of the first cities he visited was Pittsburgh. Here he played at Ben Trimble's Varieties in Penn avenue.

On August 9, 1866, he came to Pittsburgh as stage manager for the Academy of Music, under the management of Fred Ames. Mr. Walker was next engaged as the manager of Trimble's Varieties, Penn avenue and Barkers alley, remaining there until the following January. Early in that month, 1867, Mr. Walker was engaged by Fred Ames as stage manager for the Old Drury, also known as the Pittsburgh theater, which stood in Fifth avenue, near Wood street.. Before the expiration of the Ames lease Mr. Walker took charge, and the first show under his management was pantomime, with Mr. Walker as Pantaloon. Mr. Walker was the last manager of this famous theater, although then not 30 years old. In 1867 the theater was sold.

Mr. Walker's lease expired in 1869, and he went back to Trimble's as manager, but resigned and went east, spending the time in Boston, New York and Philadelphia. Among Mr. Walker's engagements while in the east was stage manager of the then famous National theater of Philadelphia. Returning to Pittsburgh, Mr. Walker leased Trimble's Varieties and managed it until November, 1877. On a Friday night in that month the theater was burned out. Saturday night, less than 24 hours later, he opened the Academy of Music, having leased the theater and made all the detail arrangements with a promptness and business-like energy that considerably dazed the other managers of that day.

He had since retained the Academy, and under his management it was regarded as the greatest money-maker of its kind in the country. Mr. Walker had sent out several traveling companies, the best known of which was Harry Williams' Own company, an organization that successfully toured the country for 20 years. Three years ago he became manager of the Duquesne theater and conducted it as an independent enterprise, playing vaudeville and those companies which are outside the theatrical syndicate.

A widow, two daughters, Miss Florence, at home, Mrs. Dr. C. E. Codman of Philadelphia; two sons, William and Harry; one brother, George of Philadelphia, survive. Mr. Walker married Miss Lucy Clifton of Clifton sisters, 43 years ago.

Among the more prominent lodges in which Mr. Walker was a member are the Knights of the Mystic Shrine, of which he was potentate for eight years in Syria Temple; thirty-second degree Masons, Beneficient and Protective Order of Elks, Order of Odd Fellows, Royal Arcanum, Improved Order of Heptasophs. He was also a stockholder and director in three banks and an active member of the chamber of commerce.

Funeral services will be held over the remains of Mr. Walker at 2 p. m. tomorrow at his late home, Allegheny Commandery, No. 35, Knights Templar, of which he was a member, will have charge of the services. The remains will be placed in a vault at Uniondale cemetery temporarily.

Over 100 telegrams were received from prominent actors and managers yesterday, and among the number was one from Joseph Jefferson. Handsome floral pieces were received from the employes of the Academy, the Imperial Burlesquers and the Cracker Jack company playing this week at the house. Members of the Stage Hands' union in this city held a meeting and adopted resolutions on Mr. Walker's death last evening.

JOHN HAY WOULD REMAIN.

The Secretary of State Will Stay in the Cabinet in the Event of Roosevelt's Election.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—That Secretary of State John Hay is to remain at the head of the state department in case President Roosevelt is elected in November has been settled, according to President Benjamin Ide Wheeler of the University of California, who was in Chicago today on his way back to California from the east. President Wheeler, at the Auditorium annex, said:

The best news I had while in the east I had from President Roosevelt, to the effect that John Hay has now definitely consented to remain at the head of the state department in case of President Roosevelt's election. This will be heard with satisfaction by all American citizens who appreciate how important are the international questions likely to arise within the next two or three years. There has been apprehension at various times lest Mr. Hay, yielding to his natural liking for a quiet life of scholarly leisure, might withdraw from office. I was therefore very much gratified to learn that the matter was settled.

OAKLAND BOYS ACCUSED OF LOOTING BUILDING

Special Officers Herman Wessel and W. D. Marsh of the Oakland police station arrested Edward and Harry Hivley and Frank Jones of Niagara street and Jamse Crowley of Caroline street yesterday. The boys are accused of entering the home of John McWilliams at No. 10 Carolin street, looting several trunks and ransacking the house of clothing and furnishings, all of which were found hidden in the cellars of their homes.

CROWDS GREATER THAN BUILDING

Tremendous Demand for Seats at Philadelphia Campaign Opening.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Press Building,
PHILADELPHIA, PA., Sept. 30.

Everything is in readiness for tomorrow night's big Republican rally at the Academy of Music under the auspices of the Manufacturers' club.

The crush for tickets during the last week will not be anything compared with the jam at the doors of the Academy. Admission will be by ticket only until 7:20 o'clock. By that hour, however, it is likely that the spacious building will be crowded to the doors. Those who arrive late may as well leave their ticket at home. After 7:20 o'clock everybody, with and without tickets, will have to take chances on finding even standing room.

The first big feature will be the dinner and reception to Senator Knox, Charles Emory Smith and Chairman Cortelyou at the Manufacturers' club. After that will come the mass meeting at the Academy at which Senator Knox and Mr. Smith will speak.

From Harrisburg, Lewistown, Altoona, Pittsburgh and, in fact, from every part of the state, there came inuiries by telegraph yesterday for tickets to the Academy, but to all the one reply was sent: "Everything taken."

RYAN'S QUICK WIT MAY EARN HIM PROMOTION

Young Navy Yard Helper Is Thanked for Smashing Bottle of Wine Over the Connecticut.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Frank Ryan, the young navy yard helper who broke the bottle of champagne that Miss Alice Welles failed to break on the bow of the Connecticut, was called into the office of Naval Constructor William J. Baxter at the navy yard today, and thanked for his presence of mind. He was told a report of his action would be sent to Washington today, and that he might be promoted.

"You had the pleasure and honor of christening the ship, and I not only wish to thank you for it, but to present you with a part of the bottle, which you smashed, as a memento of the occasion," the naval constructor told Ryan.

Ryan is 18 years old and for two years has been a helper at the navy yard.

RHODES' MEASURE KILLED.

Allegheny Common Council Rejects Ordinance Establishing Grade Crossing.

Allegheny common council last night killed the ordinance granting to Joshua Rhodes and William H. Latshaw the privilege of building a railroad switch from their works across Pennsylvania avenue to the tracks of the Fort Wayne railroad. The vote was 12 yeas and 13 nays.

A petition was received asking councils to compel the West Penn Railroad Company to build an approach to the Ferris island bridge. The railroad company agreed to build the approach when it acquired certain rights on the island.

CITY TREASURY IS EMPTY AT LAST

The Assistant Controller Takes Prompt Action and Suspends Payment of Warrants.

BOND ISSUE ONLY SOLUTION

The city of Pittsburgh has gone broke. With salaries and bills for five months yet to be paid before the fiscal year of 1904 draws to a close, there is not a dollar of cash in the city treasury except that mortgaged by contracts. Acting in the absence of his chief, Assistant Controller Morrow yesterday suspended payment of all bills and salaries and notified Mayor Hays' office force not to issue any more warrants. This includes the warrants for the September payroll, which falls due today.

The controller claims neither the administration nor councils have authority to borrow money from the banks to supply the deficiency, and that the only way out of the difficulty is for councils to issue temporary loan bonds, similar to the $300,000 of bonds issued last year to help the health bureau out of a hole when it ran short of funds. Even this method might not be effective, as it is doubtful that the sinking fund commission would tide the administration over as it did the health bureau. It is estimated that the deficit will be nearer $1,000,000 than $500,000.

Money Reserved for Contracts.

Mr. Morrow announced yesterday his action was only temporary, pending the return of Controller Larkin, who is supposed to be inspecting filters in Philadelphia. He said Larkin might release the money held to meet contracts and use it to pay this month's salaries. Should this be done it would only postpone the crisis for a month or so longer.

There is said to be enough money set aside by the controller for contracts to meet the September payroll, but not enough to pay the salaries for October. Director Bigelow declares the setting aside of funds for the payment of contracts and refusing to pay salaries with it is without legal authority.

"The man who gives his time and labor to the city is as much entitled to his pay as a contractor," said the director. "The controller has no right to mortgage money for contracts any more than to mortgage it for salaries."

The director declared he was ready to take care of his department and would see that his employes got their pay without waiting until next April, after the spring installment of taxes are collected.

The administration will take no steps to solve the difficulty until Controller Larkin returns. He is expected back Sunday and the matter will doubtless be held in abeyance until Monday. It will be for the controller to first decide whether the money being held in the city treasury for contracts, amounting to probably $300,000, will be used to pay salaries. If this is done it will postpone the famine until November. If the controller takes the position that this money must be taken for contracts it will then be for the administration to decide what steps shall be taken.

It is the common belief that Assistant Controller Morrow is acting in accordance with the wishes of the controller and that the latter will continue the ruling Morrow has made.

The news that the controller's office had suspended the payment of warrants caused a sensation among the army of city employes yesterday. They do not relish the prospect of living on credit for five or six months. There are probably 3,000 persons on the city payroll, which amounts monthly to about $225,000. There is $5,200,000 in the city treasury, but with the exception of a few hundred thousand dollars reserved for the payment of contracts it is all bond money and cannot be touched for current expenses.

First Trouble Since 1901.

The last time the city government ran out of funds was in the latter part of 1901. Then the deficit did not appear until December or January. The administration borrowed the money from the city depositories, paying them 4 per cent on the loan, although the city was depositing money in the same banks and getting but 2 per cent interest on it.

In 1902, when it appeared the government did not have money to pay all its debts promptly, the administration again proposed to borrow from the banks, but Controller Larkin, who had just entered office that year, put a stop to the practice. The administratin managed to get along by holding up all bills for four months and using the balance in the treasury to pay salaries. Last year the deficit amounted to less than $200,000 and no trouble in paying salaries or bills was experienced.

This year, at the outset, when the appropriations were made up, Larkin declared there would be a shortage when the year was about two-thirds through, but the deficit came sooner than expected, owing to the falling off in revenues. The depression in business had its effct in tax collections which fell below last year's and, besides, councils reduced the tax levy from 15 to 12½ mills.

COMMISSIONERS FAVOR CHANGES

State Convention Will Ask Legislature for Many New Laws for Them.

WANT SIX-YEAR TERM ACT

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

SCRANTON, PA., Sept. 30.—The state convention of county commissioners ended its work here with a declaration in favor of biennial elections, general and spring elections combined in one, and terms of office ranging four and six years. By this scheme they think $1,000,000 can be saved each year in the state.

The executive committee objected to the amount of work that was referred to it, Solicitor Hopkins of Fayette county declaring that the effect would be the swamping of the committee without accomplishing results.

Solicitor Jenkins of Montgomery county advocated the changing of the law so townships instead of counties should pay damages in road openings. It was also decided that the state should pay the bills for the conventions of the commissioners, and a measure with that end in view will go before the coming legislature. The convention also declared itself upon salaries of district attorneys, saying they should be paid by salaries and not fees.

Bills adopted for presentation to the next legislature provide for cities and boroughs reimbursing the county for expenses incurred for prisoners committed for non-payment of costs and fines for violations of city and borough ordinances, for the registration of sales of real estate with the commissioners before being recorded, for payment of school children registration by school districts instead of by the county.

PROVIDE FOR MISSIONARY.

Reformed Church Society Pledges $600 Annually for a New Emissary.

Six hundred dollars annually for a period of five years was pledged yesterday during the session of the Missionary society of the Reformed church of the Pittsburgh district in Grace church. The appropriation is for the support of an additional missionary in China.

The Rev. A. Haranyi, pastor of the new Reformed Hungarian church at Homestead, reported that while his church was ready for dedication it was yet without furniture or windows, and that there was no available money for these necessities. The ladies of Grace church started a subscription to aid the church by raising $25. Devotional services were conducted by Mrs. D. H. Leader and a paper was read by Mrs. W. R. Harris.

At the evening session an address on the needs of additional missionaries in China was made by Arthur V. Castleman and a paper was read by Miss Bertha Muffley of Pine Run. The session closed with prayer by the Rev. Dr. John H. Prugh.

1,800,000 People

Have Asked Us to Buy Them a 50c Bottle of Liquozone.

We offer to buy the first bottle of Liquozone, and give it free to each sick one who asks it. And we have spent over one million dollars to announce and fulfill this offer. Our object has been to let Liquozone itself show what it can do. A test is better than testimonials, better than augrment. In one year 1,800,00 people have accepted this offer. They have told others what Liquozone does, and the others told others. The result is that millions now use it. It is more widely employed than any medicine ever was—more widely prescribed by the better physicians. And your own neighbors—wherever you are—can tell you of people whom Liquozone has cured.

Not Medicine.

Liquozone is not made by compounded drugs, nor is there alcohol in it. Its virtues are derived solely from gas—largely oxygen gas—by a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time. This process has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research.

The result is a liquid that does what oxygen does. It is a nerve food and blood food—the most helpful thing in the world to you. Its effects are exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying. Yet it is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. The reason is that like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetable matter.

There lies the great value of Liquozone. It is the only way known to kill germs in the body without killing the tissues, too. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease. It is this fact that gives Liquozone its worth to humanity. And that worth is so great that, after testing the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, we paid $100,000 for the American rights.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone attacks the germs, wherever they are. And when the germs which cause a disease are destroyed, the disease must end, and forever. This is inevitable.

EXCITEMENT AT GRAFT HEARING

Manufacturer Gives Evidence Against Councilmen, Who Call Each Other Liars.

MEMBERS PUT ON THE RACK

"You're a liar and a sneaking one, you ingrate!" shouted one councilman to another last night at the graft hearing before a committee of the Homestead borough council.

This remark was applied by Councilman J. J. Cavanaugh to Councilman J. J. Baird, whom Cavanaugh accused of accepting bribes. Baird was asked by the committee if the charge was true, and he replied:

"No; it's a lie." This brought Cavanaugh to his feet with the above epithet, the committee interfered to stop personal violence.

The graft charges were sustained by the testimony of August Snyder, of the pump manufacturing firm of Wilson & Snyder, who said that Councilmen William Martin and Deibler had offered to secure him a contract for a new pump for the borough if Snyder would pay them a certain sum of money. Martin declared he had never seen Snyder.

Councilman Cavanaugh was the first witness. He was asked to name the persons who had received bribes. He said that Councilman J. K. Lowry had told him about bribes received by councilmen and had also implicated himself. Cavanaugh said he was talking with Councilmen J. J. Baird and H. G. Clark in a saloon in Homestead and Baird had incriminated himself. Cavanaugh said Lowry had told him he had received $65 from Erbeck Bros. for giving them a contract to dig a trench.

Lowry and Martin both entered general denials.

Cavanaugh had also charged that the contract awarded to the Dixon Crematory Company of Cleveland, O., for a garbage furnace had been fraudulently obtained. He said Lowry had told him that Lowry and Martin had sat in the Hotel Victoria, Homestead, and with bogus letter heads purporting to come from a firm in Cincinnati and a firm in Philadelphia, had entered bids which they knew were higher than the Dixon company's bid. It is claimed that the companies represented in the bidding besides the Dixon company are not and have never been in existence. It is charged $2,500 was secured in this deal. The hearings are continued.

TWO INJURED IN BOILER EXPLOSION AT RANKIN

Wrecked Power Plant and Caused Panic Among 1,400 Workmen at Carrie Furnaces.

With a crash that shook houses and aroused people within a radius of four miles, one of the big steam boilers at the Carrie furnaces of the Carnegie Steel Company at Rankin blew up at 10:45 o'clock last night. The explosion almost wrecked the big boiler house connected with the plant and caused a panic among the 1,400 men employed at the furnaces. Two workmen were hurt as follows:

MICHAEL MASON, aged 35, of Rankin, employed as a water tender; cut about the head, shoulders and body by flying bricks and timbers.

THOMAS TONER, aged 30, of Rankin, employed as a laborer; hurt about the head and body by being struck by bricks and timbers.

When the boiler let go it was thought for a time that many men were injured, and Drs. E. H. McGeary, Charles Clifford and W. S. Stewart of Braddock were summoned. After Mason and Toner had their injuries dressed they were taken to their homes. They will probably recover.

The explosion tore out one wall and lifted the roof off the big brick boiler house in which 60 steam boilers are located. The explosion also tore down all the electric wires by which the departments of the plant are supplied with light. In the darkness the workmen were unable to tell where the accident occurred and all sought places of safety until it was ascertained where the explosion took place. After the explosion officials estimated that the damage was about $10,000.

TAYLOR WAS EXONERATED.

Fatal Shooting in a Bank Was Accidental. Dynamite Kills One Man and Injures Another.

The inquest into the death of John M. Lynch, who was killed by William Taylor in the Pittsburgh Bank for Savings, September 24, yesterday resulted in a verdict of accidental shooting. The men were clerks in the bank and Taylor was experimenting with a revolver which he thought was unloaded. Lynch exonerated Taylor from all blame before he died.

John Noble, aged 50, of Griffith street, was killed at the Eliza furnace of Jones & Laughlin yesterday afternoon by an explosion of dynamite. James McHugh, a laborer, who was working with Noble, was seriously injured and was taken to the Mercy hospital. The men had been engaged for years at the furnace in blowing up slag and cinder. Noble and McHugh were getting ready to charge a blast when a dozen sticks of dynamite exploded.

Charles Steiss, aged 42, a civil engineer, died at his boarding house, 846 Lincoln avenue, Allegheny, yesterday from heart disease. He had started a letter to his wife in Baltimore. It read: "My Dear Wife—I am well and comfortable—." He was identified by his uncle, Frederick Gwinner, of 425 California avenue, Allegheny.

NEW TEMPLE DEDICATED.

Canton Masons Open New Headquarters With Great Ceremony.

CANTON, O., Sept. 30.—(Special.)—Two hundred and fifty musicians, the membership of 80 military bands, passed as one organization, marched at the head of a parade of 500 Masons and Knights Templar today. The occasion was the dedication of the new six-story Masonic temple.

The ceremonies were in charge of the grand lodge of Ohio. The Masons in a body visited the tomb of the late President McKinley, and placed a floral emblem of the order upon his casket with ritualistic ceremonies.

ACCUSED BANKER TOOK UP HIS FATHER'S DEBTS

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 30.—(Special.)—Henry Lear, accused of defrauding the Doylestown National bank of $60,000 while president of that institution, at his trial today testified that his frequent overdrafts from the bank were known to the directors, and were honestly made. He said he felt it his duty to assume the indebtedness of his deceased father which amounted to about $25,000, although he was in no way liable. It was this desire to save the honor of his father's credit that was the origin of his financial dealings with the bank.

MEMBER OF CABINET COMING TO PITTSBURGH

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Representative R. K. Porter and Dr. W. J. Holland of Pittsburgh called on the president today and extended him an invitation to attend the annual dinner of the Pittsburgh chamber of commerce on November 4. The president expressed regret that he would be unable to be present, but promised his callers that he would use his influence to have a member of the cabinet attend as a representative of the administration.

Trouble Dates from Johnstown Flood.

Occupying a cot in the matron's department of Central station last night was Mrs. Diana Miller, who will today be sent to the City home at Marshalsea. Once in prosperous circumstances, Mrs. Miller today finds herself dependent on the charity of others, and dates her troubles to the Johnstown flood, where she lost her husband and three children and all of her property. She has two sons living in New Jersey, but she does not know their address.

ASTOR ASSERTS HIS RIGHT TO SEARCH FOR NEW LIGHT

Self-Expatriated American Explains Why He Attended Services—Has No Objections to Captain Spencer-Clay for Son-in-Law.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—After admitting to reporters that he is taking a decided interest in Christian Science, and declaring that he has no objection to Capt. H. Spender Clay as a son-in-law, William Waldorf Astor, the self-expatriated American, sailed today on the Celtic for his home in London.

Standing in the bow of the big ship, wearing a Russian blouse with Buster Brown effect; a shapeless slouch hat, heavy, square-cut russet shoes and a ring of pigeon blood ruby, the millionaire turned a friendly smile on his interviewers when they asked him if it were true he had attended a Christian Science church when here.

"True? Yes, it's true; but of what interest it is to the American public I really can't see," he exclaimed. He continued:

"Has a gentleman not a right to seek a new light? I have been greatly annoyed by the furore which has followed my slightest movements in this country."

After dodging several questions about his daughter Pauline's coming marriage, Mr. Astor said: "I will not say when this marriage is to take place, but I want to correct a statement that has appeared in the American newspapers: I have never said I would oppose this match."

HAD WIFE MURDERED FOR THREE DOLLARS

Bradford County Man's Awful Charge Against His Mother and Brother.

WILKESBARRE, PA., Sept. 30.—Sufficient evidence has been obtained in the murder of Mrs. Bigler Johnson and her niece, at Macedonia, Bradford county, to convince the authorities that they were killed as the result of a conspiracy.

Bigler Johnson, his mother, Mrs. Sophia Merritt; two brothers, Charles and Alonzo, and two sisters, Nancy and Mrs. Lorenzo Heemen; and a brother-in-law, Lorenzo Heemen, have been in separate cells in the Towanda jail for several days and the detectives claim to have a confession from Johnson.

The substances of the alleged confession is that Bigler Johnson was in love with another woman and wanted his wife out of the way, because of this, and because he was compelled to pay her $6 a month. He talked it over with his mother and brother Charles, who agreed to commit the murder for $3 each. It was arranged that Bigler Johnson should be in Towanda at the fixed time, the evening of September 18, so he could prove an alibi. He went to Towanda and returned home several hours after the murder had been done and the house fired.

The place where the murder was committed is a lonely spot in the farming country and the house was some distance from the nearest neighbor. It was discovered on fire on the evening of September 18 and was destroyed.

The improbability of Mrs. Johnson and her niece being burned to death so early in the evening caused comment. Bloodstains on the doorsteps, empty kerosene cans, a bloody ax, blood spots on the grass in the yard and other things, then aroused suspicion of murder. The arrests on the charge of arson followed and now the police claim to have revealed the whole story of the crime.

OBJECT TO LOUD WORSHIP.

Coraopolis Colored Churches Vary on Mode of Prayer—Answer Was "Deterioration."

The New Hope colored Baptist church of Coraopolis has been appealed to by its neighbor, the Mt. Olivet colored Baptist church, a square away, to "worship the Almighty like other people" and to stop "screaming and hallooing." The New Hope church was organized by a faction of the Mt. Olivet church a year ago. The latter congregation sent the following petition to the New Hope church yesterday:

We take this method—it being difficult for you to take heed to our personal interview—to ask you in worshiping the Almighty God in your house of worship that you will not do so in such an alarming and desultory way. We have appealed to some of you about this, also written to your pastor, and the reply was only deterioration. No church in this town acts this way and we beg of you for the sake of peace to serve your God like other people, or we will take other steps. We appeal to you for the last time, as we cannot stand such screaming and hallooing. We take this method of asking you, as heretofore you have ignored our appeals. If you as a whole are not guilty, please get rid of the ignoramus. Oblige the committee of the offended persons.

Rowell claimed to be a district organizer. Local members cashed his checks, drawn on Vermont and Philadelphia banks, for amounts aggregating $50. Meadville members lost about the same amount and had warrants issued for him today.

RABBI AND PRIEST JOIN IN BAPTIST DEDICATION

Father Daly Extends Thanks for Catholicity of Christian Charity Shown.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Sept. 30.—A rabbi and Roman Catholic priest joined with clergymen of several denominations of the Protestant church in this city to dedicate the First Baptist church. The Rev. Michael Daly, pastor of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church, and the Rev. Dr. David Levy, rabbi of Temple Mishken Israel, occupied seats at the dedication on either side of the Rev. Frederick Lent, pastor of the church.

Father Daly thanked the pastor for the invitation to him, saying that he "appreciated the catholicity of the Christian charity shown, and that people of all religions are working for the general aim of establishing the kingdom of God in the hearts of men." Father Daly is building a church a few blocks distant.

Dr. Levy said that there is a basis of truth common to all religions teaching men the fear of God.

NO SEAT ON TRAIN FOR JUDGE PARKER

Candidate Was Obliged to Stand in Car on His Return Home from New York.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

ESOPUS, N. Y., Sept. 30.—Judge Parker arrived here tonight, having already made plans for returning to New York next week. When the nominee went to board the train in New York he was at first denied admission to the parlor car, being told that all seats there were engaged. The ordinary coaches were filled to their capacity and a dozen persons stood in the aisles, unable to obtain seats.

The railroad officials refused to put on an extra car, but they finally managed to obtain seats in the parlor car for Judge Parker and his companion.

During a wind storm today two men were hurt while trying to save from destruction a Parker and Davis banner which is stretched across the road near the railway station. George Pullman and Supervisor Long climbed up a tree to unfasten the ropes. A stronger gust of wind swept the canvas 20 feet into the air. It then collapsed, sending Mr. Long into a pond, while Pullman fell from the tree, breaking his leg. Mr. Hall attended to the injured man and hauled the banner down.

DARING THIEVES STOLE WHITE HOUSE WOOD

Burglars Interfere With Charity Organization's Work on Souvenirs of Historic Value.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(Special.)—Thieves with a penchant for historical antiquities broke into the Adirondack novelty works last night and today Mrs. Charlotte Smith is disconsolate over the loss of her pet novelties.

Mrs. Smith says she bought with her own money $10,000 worth of wood from the interior of the White House when it was repaired in 1902, and was having the historic wood made into souvenirs. She hired a special workman and had special tools made for the work.

Ten canes made from the floor of the cabinet room where President Lincoln stood while addressing his officers directly after his inauguration, were taken.

GRANTS CHANGE OF VENUE IN THE IROQUOIS CASE

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—Judge Kersten decided today to grant a change of venue in the Iroquois theater case. Treasurer Thomas J. Noonan and stage carpenter James E. Cummings will be allowed to have their trial on the charge of manslaughter removed to another county, where the prejudice alleged to exist in Chicago and Cook county will be lacking. Will J. Davis, president of the Iroquois Theater Company, did not petition with the others.

FIREMEN MOWED DOWN BY FUMES

Nearly One Hundred and Fifty Men Are Overcome While Fighting Flames.

WORKED TWENTY-TWO HOURS

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—After 20 hours' fighting of a fire that proved to be one of the worst the New York department has had to contend with, Charles Croker tonight at 8 o'clock called all the men and apparatus away from the ruins of a block of meat packing and refrigerating plants in West Fourteenth street, leaving but one engine and a fire boat to water down the smouldering heaps.

The fire started at 10 o'clock last night in a building occupied by the Cudahy Packing Company and T. A. Wheeler Company, and Conron & Company, dealers in poultry. Besides this building it practically destroyed the hotel of D. F. Cunningham and two four-story houses occupied by T. A. Wheeler & Company and G. H. Richmond & Company. The loss is about $200,000.

During the fire nearly all of the 150 men who were engaged in fighting it were either overcome by the fumes of ammonia, of which there were a number of tanks in the refrigerating plants, or by the smothering clouds of smoke that arose from tons of coal in the Cudahy cellars. When the ammonia tanks exploded firemen were mowed down as though by reapers. Ambulance calls were sent in and ambulance surgeons worked heroically in restoring the men. Numbers of them were so badly affected that they were taken to their homes or to hospitals, while others, after they were resuscitated, went back to their work only again to be overcome. The fumes showed mercy to neither officer nor ordinary fireman, and from Chief Croker down through his corps of assistants, captains and lieutenants, all of them suffered.

Time and time again throughout the day the fire appeared to be under control only to break out afresh.

RUSSIA REORGANIZES HER NAVAL SYSTEM

Vice Admiral Doubasoff Is to Be Made Minister of Marine, Succeeding Avelan.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 1.—The reorganization of the navy begins with the announcement on the highest authority that Vice Admiral Doubasoff, the present head of the technical bureau of the admiralty, will be appointed minister of marine. Vice Admiral Avelan, whom he will succeed, will be given the honorary post of chief of the Red Cross society, succeeding Admiral Kremer, who died recently.

Vice Admiral Rojestvensky will return to St. Petersburg to assume active charge of the naval staff. The Pacific squadron will be entrusted to Rear Admiral Chouknin, the present chief of the Black sea fleet. Admiral Birileff will be transferred from the Baltic to the Black sea, while Veselago, hitherto Admiral Birileff's assistant, will take charge of the Baltic port's fleet.

Vice Admiral Doubasoff enjoys the highest esteem of officers of the Russian navy. He became famous through his exploits during the Turkish war.

Rear Admiral Chouknin has seen much work and service in the far east. He was port admiral at Vladivostok from 1892 to 1901, while Admiral Skrydloff commanded the Pacific station. Since that time he has held the post of director of the naval college.

WANT NO FLUMMERY.

Cuban Senators Object to Clothing Representatives in Uniforms.

HAVANA, Sept. 30.—The senate today debated a proposed declaration against the decree of President Palma directing the secretary of state to select dress uniforms for Cuban diplomatic and consular officers.

The tenor of the debate favored the plain attire worn by American diplomatic officers abroad. Speakers asserted that precedent of the United States in this respect was one that all American republics should follow. No vote was taken.

REJECT CHURCH UNION.

Representatives of Cumberland Presbyterian Denomination Vote Against Plan of Consolidation.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 30.—At a conference of representatives of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, held here today, it was decided to reject the plan for the consolidation of the Cumberland Presbyterian and Presbyterian churches, agreed upon by conference committees at a meeting early in the year at St. Louis.

Delegates were present representing 100,000 members of the Cumberland church from all parts of the country.

Sixth Boodler Sentenced.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 30.—John H. Schnettler, former member of the house of delegates, who pleaded guilty three months ago to charges of bribery, was today sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary. Schnettler is the sixth member of the house of 1899-1901 to be sent to the penitentiary in connection with this deal.

PITIFUL STORY OF ONE SORELY TEMPTED WOMAN

Arrested for Shoplifting, Too Much Ashamed to Call Friends, They Think Her Dead.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

WILKESBARRE, PA., Sept. 30.—The mystery of the disappearance of Mrs. Katharine Smith of Swoyersville, near here, has been solved. For 13 days she has been missing, and her husband believed that she had been murdered. Today he found her in jail, charged with shoplifting, so ashamed that she did not have the courage to let him know of her predicament.

She left home to spend two days with friends at Glen Lyon. When she did not return her husband went there. He was surprised to learn she had left. The roads between the street car tracks and her home were searched day and night ever since.

Smith learned a woman answering the description of his wife had been arrested in this city for shoplifting. He came to this city and was taken to the woman's cell. There he found his wife. She wept on his shoulder and stammered her confession. She had been shopping, she said, and had been tempted by a pretty piece of goods she saw.

The husband at once engaged an attorney, entered bail and had her released. He forgave her and took her home.

A Quart Baby.

Now and again there is an item in the newspapers concerning the birth of a puny baby so small that a quart cup holds it comfortably. If the article told all the facts it would probably tell also of a mother who in weakness and misery had looked forward to the baby's advent with shrinking and fear.

To have fine, healthy children the mother must be healthy, and it is the common testimony of mothers that the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription not only promotes the mother's health but also gives her strength to give her child.

"Favorite Prescription" accomplishes these results by tranquilizing the nerves, promoting a healthy appetite, and giving refreshing sleep. It increases physical vigor and gives great muscular elasticity, so that the baby's advent is practically painless. It is the best of tonics for nursing mothers.

"I gladly recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes Mrs. J. W. C. Stephens, of Miia, Northumberland County, Va. "Before my third little boy was born I took six bottles. He is the finest child and has been from birth, and I suffered very much less than I ever did before. I unhesitatingly advise expectant mothers to use the 'Favorite Prescription.'"

The dealer who offers a substitute for "Favorite Prescription" does so to gain the little more profit paid on the sale of less meritorious medicines.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, containing 1008 pages, is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for the cloth-bound volume, or only 21 stamps for the book in paper covers. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

LAWYERS DISCUSS DIVORCE QUESTION

How Far Should Courts Recognize Decress Obtained in Foreign Lands?

CONGRESS COMPLETES WORK

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 30.—The first convention of the Universal Congress of Lawyers and Jurists closed today. The opinion was expressed generally by the distinguished delegates from every nation represented, that the congress marked an epoch in the relations existing between the lawyers of the world which would be far-reaching in finally establishing a complete understanding between nations, leading to the eventual extinction of war.

A resolution was unanimously adopted that this congress request the American Bar association to take such steps as are necessary to organize a permanent association of lawyers representing the different countries of the world, which shall meet at intervals to discuss legal questions of public interest. The congress also adopted a resolution expressing the profound grief over the death of one of its most distinguished members, United States Senator George F. Hoar.

The Hon. Sir William R. Kennedy, an eminent English jurist, in discussing the question of what recognition should be given by the courts of one country to divorces granted in other countries, drew these conclusions:

"First, that a court should be held bound to recognize as valid a foreign decree of nullity of marriage only where the court which pronounced the decree was a court of the territory wherein the marriage was celebrated.

"Secondly, a court which is not the court of the country of the matrimonial domicil, at the time when divorce proceedings are instituted should not be recognized as a court competent to pronounce a decree of divorce, except in favor of a wife, who has been deserted or whose husband has so conducted himself that she is justified in living apart from him."

The Hon. Walbe ce Nesbitt, justice of the supreme court of the Dominion of Canada, said he had come to the conclusion that a great number of judgments of divorce were not valid outside of the jurisdiction of the court granting them. The following statement made by Signor Pavia, advocate of Rome, was referred as a resolution to the committee on nations:

"That in all nations where strangers can enjoy civil rights, let there be recognized foreign judgments on divorce."

In his discussion, Signor Pavia said, in part:

"A project of law, giving Italian courts the power to grant divorce is now before the Italian parliament, but, owing to the political condition of the country and to the strong opposition made by the Roman church, it has not been approved."

Associate Justice Douglas of the supreme court of North Carolina said that although divorce may at times be a necessary evil, it should never receive moral encouragement or pecuniary support.

Resolutions reported favorably by the committee on nations, and concurred in by the congress, favored the harmonizing of the patent laws of the different nations; invited the governments to consider the propriety of regulating the renewal or extension of patents of like conditions in each country, and recommended the mutual exchange of statutes and high court decisions by the nations.

WEST NEWTON, Sept. 30.—(Special.)—The locals downed the Charlerois today 4 to 3. West Newton tried a new pitcher, Letty Miller, who gave six hits and struck out 15 men. FOOTBALL SEASON OPENS TODAY IN PITTSBURGH

W. U. P. Plays Grove City and Shadyside W. & J. Academy—Other Games Scheduled.

Pittsburgh College.

Yale.

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Sept. 30.—(Special.)—Michael C. Murphy cut short today's practice of the football squad because of the heat. Corbin was the star of the practice today, carrying the ball with dash and line-breaking ability that makes evident the wisdom of shifting him back of the line. He will start in tomorrow's game, but will probably retire after the first half. Short as the practice was three men were injured, Stillman, an end, with a dislocation of the knee; Ortmayer, end, with a bad scalp wound, and Mills, fullback, with a dislocation of the shoulder. Yale will meet Trinity with the following named eleven: Gates or Hare, left end; Bloomer, left tackle; Kinney, left guard; Roraback, center; Tripp, right guard; Hogan, right tackle; Stevens, right end; Rockwell, quarterback; Roome, left halfback; Quill, right halfback, Shevlin, fullback.

Princeton.

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 30.—(Special.)—In view of tomorrow's game with Georgetown, the Tigers indulged in an unusually short scrimmage this afternoon. The practice was fast, telling the same old story of a smashing attack and poor defense. Among the features of the scrubs' play was one that nearly resulted in a run down the clear field. The two teams were at a deadlock during a mass play, when suddenly little Rheinstein, who had been on left guard, bounced out of the tangle like a rubber ball. He had a clear field before him, but his fat legs were not equal to the task. He was overtaken by a long-legged end, and the particularly unscientific tackling which ended the chase caused much laughter in the stand. The varsity managed to jam the ball over the line for one touchdown.

Harvard.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., Sept. 30.—(Special.)—Harvard plays its first game of the season in football with the Williams college eleven tomorrow, and in preparation for the game the men were given light work on Soldiers' field this afternoon. The varsity again had changes in its makeup today, Ted Mellor going in at his old position at left tackle, being in the scrimmage for the first time, Wilder, who has not been in scrimmages before, going in at left guard, and Blagden taking Montgomery's place at right end, as the latter was given an easy day. Starr, the little freshman quarterback from Groton, was given a trial for a few minutes on the second eleven, but he was not in long enough to get a good line on his play. The greater part of the practice was devoted to exchanging punts, and in this Means and Kernan of the second eleven had the better of Mills and Nichols of the varsity in spite of the fact that the latter pair had the advantage of the wind.

W. & J.

THORN HAS PREPARED STATE OFFICIAL BALLOT

HARRISBURG, PA., Sept. 30.—(Special.)—Chief Clerk Thorn of the state department has prepared the form of official ballot that will be used at the November election. It is the usual ballot, with the names of the presidential electors first under the party head, the state and county ticket being at the bottom of the ballot in condensed form. It enables the voter to vote by marking a cross in the square or for each candidate separately.

B. & O.'s Great Work in Ohio Rapidly Nears the Point of Completion

Every effort is being made to complete the new line of the Baltimore & Ohio in Ohio by Christmas. This big task has been under way for almost three years and when completed will make that railroad in some ways the best line between Pittsburgh and Chicago. With the additional line from Willow Grove to North Sewickley finished a few years hence, there will be no doubt as to the superiority of the Baltimore & Ohio's route in every essential respect.

The grading and masonry on the new work from Haselton, just east of Youngstown, to to Cuyahoga Falls, near Akron, are practically finished and about 15 miles of the track is ballasted and ready for use. All of the rail has been delivered for the rest of the track. There was required about 14,000 tons of new 85-pound rail to lay the new track. The distance is 52 miles, and as all is to be double-tracked right from the beginning, 104 miles of new track was required.

There are now working on the task some 20 work trains with ballast, rails and ties. The orders which have gone to the contractors is to rush the whole task. The prospects indicate a big business next year and the management wishes to have the fine new road in use at the earliest moment possible.

The plan contemplated is to abandon the present track west of Ravenna, to Cuyahoga Falls. There is but little business to be had in that stretch along the old route. East of Ravenna, however, there is an important territory which the abandonment of the old line would deprive of service and for that reasons it will be maintained and 4 local passenger and freight service given.

One of the interesting possibilities of the new road is that it will be used in part jointly by the Pennsylvania. For Pittsburgh-Cleveland service the Pennsylvania has secured the right to use the line from Niles to Ravenna, where it meets the present Cleveland & Pittsburgh division of the Pennsylvania. The only reason why this plan would not be carried out is that the Pennsylvania would need to operate its Cleveland trains over the Pittsburgh, Youngstown & Ashtabula division part of the way and the business there has already assumed proportions which make doubtful the advisability of crowding the tracks with more trains. As the service would be fast passenger, the difficulty will be the greater. As a route from Pittsburgh to Cleveland it would be excellent and would enable the Pennsylvania to meet if not outdo the very best that the Lake Erie-Erie route can accomplish.

Cochran Is Well Known Here.

The announcement of the selection of Alexander G. Cochran to the vice presidency of the Missouri Pacific system is especially well received here on account of the fact that he is a native Alleghenian and was prominent in this community before he cast his fortune in the west. He practiced at the Allegheny county bar until about 16 years ago, when he was called to St. Louis to enter the legal department of the Missouri Pacific. He was a son-in-law of the late James Andrews, who was associated with James B. Eads in the great Mississippi river bridge and improvement feats.

Railroad Men Visit Interior Canada.

General Passenger Agent Charles W. Bassett of the Baltimore & Ohio, Vice President E. H. Utley of the Bessemer & Lake Erie, and A. B. Starr, general superintendent of freight transportation of the Pennsylvania lines west, returned yesterday from a vacation trip over the Algoma Central railroad above the "Soo." After the limit of the railroad had been reached they continued their trip in canoes, and went far into the depths of interior Canada. Mr. Bassett speaks highly of the natural wealth of the region and is also impressed with its future as a pleasure resort for Americans.

Will Need 14,000 Tons of Rails.

The Pittsburgh grand division of the Baltimore & Ohio will require this year close upon 12,000 tons of new rails for relaying purposes, according to estimates that have just been made. This figure includes the Pittsburgh, Connellsville and New Castle divisions. All of this rail will be the standard 85-pound section and is intended purely for replacement, whatever new work is being done being considered apart from this. The old rails which are to be removed will be used for branches where traffic is not heavy, for sidings, etc.

Railroad Notes.

A meeting of the directors of the Wabash-Pittsburgh Terminal Railroad Company was held yesterday in New York.

The secretaries of the Y. M. C. A.'s on the Pennsylvania lines east of Pittsburgh and Erie met in conference at Philadelphia yesterday.

Judge Grosscup of Chicago has granted an injunction against 19 ticket brokers forbidding them to traffic in railroad tickets or the unused portions thereof, "which by the terms thereof are not transferable."

WANTS AMERICUS CLUB TO MAKE THREE TRIPS

Chairman Cortelyou Asks Local Organization to Visit New York, Chicago and Northern West Virginia.

The Americus club of Pittsburgh received yesterday from Chairman George B. Cortelyou of the Republican national committee an invitation to take three trips in the interest of the candidates. One trip is to New York, one to Chicago and one, to last three days, through Northern West Virginia. This trip is to embrace Parkersburg, Fairmont and Morgantown.

Secretary George W. McCandless of the campaign committee of the club said last evening that the invitations would be referred to the campaign committee at once. James H. Willock, president of the Second National bank, is chairman of the committee. It is expected that an answer will be sent by the club to Chairman Cortelyou early in the coming week announcing whether the club can do all that Mr. Cortelyou wishes. It is considered probable that the Chicago and New York trips will be made, but a trip of three days is a pretty serious proposition and will have to be carefully considered.

The reputation which the Pittsburgh political organization has won is attested by this invitation. In all the states which they have been asked to visit the fight is a hard one, comparatively, and the national committee is eager to have everything in the campaign done in the best style.

The club's first march this campaign was made last evening in the parade preceding the opening of the local campaign. The familiar white pug hats and red, white and blue parasols which have figured in many former campaigns started applause all along the line.

BALANCE IN TREASURY IS THIRTEEN MILLIONS

More Than One-Third of School Districts Have Been Paid Their State Appropriation.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

HARRISBURG, Sept. 30.—With more than one-third of the school districts paid their share of the state appropriation of $5,500,000 for the current fiscal year, there was a balance of $13,446,102 29 in the general fund of the state treasury at the close of today's business. The state treasurer has added four new depositories to the list of banks and trust companies holding state funds, bringing the total up to the unprecedented number of 149.

The new depositories and the amounts held by each are: American Trust Company, Philadelphia, $15,000; First National bank, Galeton, $5,000; Fox Chase bank, Philadelphia, $5,000; West End Trust Company, Philadelphia, $25,000.

Mr. Mathues may be able to pay all the districts without making a call on the state depositories for a portion of their share of the state funds.

TEACHERS' CAUSE DRAWS BIG CROWD

Carnegie Music Hall Mass Meeting of Educators Is Large and Enthusiastic.

MANY ADDRESSES ARE MADE

An attendance that filled entirely the orchestra floor and first balcony of Carnegie Music hall with an overflow in the second balcony showed the popularity which the movement for an increase of teachers' salaries in the Pittsburgh schools has won. The public mass meeting called to discuss the matter was addressed by several educators and other citizens of prominence and was enthusiastic throughout. A motion put by Francis E. Carroll, asking for a 50 per cent increase, was carried unanimously.

Dr. A. E. Winship of the Massachusetts board of education, who was the first speaker, made one of the most striking addresses of the evening. Among other things, he said:

"To pay the Pittsburgh teachers in a manner commensurate with their services the additional taxation would mean to the man with $1,000 one cigar less a year; to the man with $15,000 the cost of tickets to a theater for one night, and to the man with $100,000 it would mean the cost of six tickets to a theater."

Dr. Winship claimed that the cost of education should not be considered an expense, but an investment, and argued that the results are evident in increased property and other values which in the end produce a greater taxable basis than that required to meet the additional cost. Without salaries high enough to remunerate, good teachers he claimed it is impossible to secure the best results.

Miss Clarissa A. Moffitt of the Homewood schools called the meeting to order and introduced Dr. D. Davis as chairman. After Dr. Winship's address, Supt. Samuel Hamilton of the county schools made an address. He was followed by the Rev. Dr. J. Leonard Levy, rabbi of the Eighth Street synagogue. Dr. Levy told a story of a man who, after beating his wife, took her in his arms and said: "Mary, I love you." To this she replied: "I know you do, John, but you have a mean way of showing it." This, he said, is the situation of the city of Pittsburgh and its teachers.

Other addresses were made by William H. Benham, Esq.; A. L. Schultz, Dr. W. D. O'Brien, Francis E. Carroll and T. J. Gillespie. The meeting closed with prayer by Rabbi Levy.

DEATH WATCH GRIEVED.

Giljigose Tried to Down the Sorrow Caused by Prinki's Tragic Fate.

There were tears in the eyes of V. E. Giljose, when he was brought face to face with Justice Pastre of McKeesport yesterday. It could be seen at a glance that his heart was freighted with a great trouble.

"Tell the court about it," said Justice Pastre, for Giljigose had been arrested, despite his uniform of blue and buttons of brass.

"Poor Prinkki," sobbed Giljigose. "He was hanged in Greensburg yesterday and I was his death watch. Prinkki was my friend and when he was taken from me I just could not stay in the jail any longer, so I came to Glassport."

But Giljigose did not add that he had dallied too frequently with the winecup, and that his grief was largely the result ow his too frequent sorties on the bar. He was fined $5 and costs.

BARNEY OLDFIELD GOES A RECORD MILE AT BRUNOTS

WORLD'S RECORD ON BRUNOT TRACK

Barney Oldfield Sent His 24-Horse Power Auto a Mile in 1:02 2-5, Which Is New Mark.

GREAT CROWD AT THE RACES

Automobile racing was formally introduced to the sport-loving people of Greater Pittsburgh at the Brunots island track yesterday, and that it will prove popular was the sentiment of the vast majority of the 5,000 spectators who spent the afternoon at the track and cheered to the echo when Barney Oldfield turned out a new world's record just to make himself solid with Pittsburghers.

This happened in the second heat of the five-mile handicap race, which was the seventh event on the program. The first heat had been won by W. C. Temple's touring auto, and in the second heat there were four starters, among them being Oldfield. The first mile of the second heat was a fast one, so that the experts looked for some great speed before the heat was ended, and in this they were not mistaken. In the second heat Oldfield cut loose in order to get the lead, and he not only succeeded in pushing his machine to the front, but he also created the world's record of a mile in 1:02 2-5 in a 24-horsepower touring car. The former record was 1:03 2-5. Oldfield also sent his machine twice at a mile-a-minute clip.

When the time of this heat was announced the big crowd let out a great cheer, and at the completion of the heat, which was won by Oldfield, the daring driver was given quite an ovation. The crowd that gathered at the track was made up of the very best people, and included a large number of ladies, who seemed as deeply interested in the racing as the male spectators. The afternoon was not one well suited for the sport, as there was a high wind, which made rapid work on the machines almost an impossibility. The arrangements for the comfort and convenience of the spectators was all that could be desired. The only drawback was in the boats which carried passengers from the city to the track, and which lost so much time that the majority of the spectators were kept from witnessing the opening events.

The star of the afternoon was, of course, Barney Oldfield, "the daredevil driver," whose skill and daring was noticed in all the events in which he took part, and for whom there were cheers at the conclusion of almost every race in which he took part. His first appearance of the afternoon was in a five-mile exhibition to establish a track record, which he made in 5:09 1-5. This mark was not satisfactory to Oldfield because his speed was checked by the high wind, and he will make another try this afternoon, when he expects to hang up a much lower mark.

While the drivers were getting their machines in shape for the handicap race Oldfield gave a second exhibition on his "green devil" machine, and this time he reeled off three miles in 3:05. Outside the event in which the world's record was made the most exciting race was the sixth event, which was a five-mile open race, and in which Oldfield and Webb Jay, the latter on a White machine, opposed each other. This race was very exciting, and was won by Oldfield by the small margin of 50 yards. The race was a close one all the way, and had the spectators on their feet cheering every minute of the racing time.

The display of speed put up by the local autos was very creditable, indeed. The leading local winner of the afternoon was Mr. G. E. Turner, who captured two events, and George H. Flinn, who won the two-mile race for automobiles up to 9 horsepower. Mr. W. C. Temple's touring car also made a good showing in the five-mile handicap, winning the first heat, but was beaten in the final by Oldfield. The races had some funny as well as exciting features, and some of the machines entered and driven by their owners were made to look like the famous one-horse shay in comparison with the speedy racing machines of Oldfield. The spectators would single out these machines and urge the drivers of them on, and the advice handed out furnished the amusing side to the afternoon's sport.

The work of the officials, under the capable leadership of Mr. W. C. Temple, who was the referee, was all that could be desired, and the manner in which the handicap event was arranged, so as to place the machines as nearly equal as possible and thus make an interesting race, was the work of experts. At the conclusion of the afternoon's racing Barney Oldfield said he had been handicapped a little by the turns of the track, but he had finally succeeded in mastering them, and if the conditions are at all favorable today he expects to turn out some new records. The summaries of the afternoon's events follow:

Event No. 1—Five mile for 24 H. P. autos, with road equipment; no passenger: First, Peerless, 24 H. P., George E. Turner. Second, Pope, Toledo 24 H. P. (W. H. Murray), W. The Turtle Creek Athletics defeated McKeesport yesterday 3 to 1. "Red" Smith was at his best and but for an excusable error by Montgomery in the second inning would have shut the home team out. Score:

BOSTON WINS TWO FROM PITTSBURGH

Pirates Show Signs of Staleness and Bean Eaters Again Are Victorious.

LEEVER MAKES A HOME RUN

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—Capt. Tenney's outfit kept up their winning streak this afternoon and by winning the games on the double-header made a clean sweep of the final series from Pittsburgh. In these two games it cannot be denied that the Boston players fairly outplayed their ancient rivals, and in each case victory was fairly won. The evident "staleness" of the whole Pittsburgh team was painfully evident. The old fighting spirit seemed to have evaporated. The players did not care.

Willis the tail and debonaire and Sam Leever were chosen to pitch in the first game, and they showed up at the finish with individual honors fairly even. Miserable fielding cost the Pittsburghs something, and the batting, which was spasmodic, did not class with Boston's.

Leever's home run in the third inning gave the Pittsburghs a boost that inspired some hitting in the next two innings, but after that Willis proved to be an insoluble enigma.

Bransfield, getting a pass, was caught off second. Then Kruger walked on four bad ones. Phelps could not connect with Willis' shoots, but Leever swung his club with the accuracy and velocity of a birch rod in his schoolmaster days.

The ball sailed over the left field fence and two runs came home. After that there was "nothing doing."

Wilhelm and Flaherty were the opposing pitchers in the second game, and Boston began operations on Clarke's new young recruit with a vengeance at the very start. Phelps' catch of Barclay's high foul in the first inning, with one hand, after a hard run to the grandstand, was one of the star fielding performances of the game, and Gilbert's running catch of Moran's fly to left field belonged in the same class.

Geier opened the festivities with a screaming two-bagger, which eventually resulted in four runs in the first inning. Flaherty, a bit rattled at seeing the first ball pitched up to the plate treated with such scant ceremony, served out four bad ones to Tenney, after he had caught Barclay's pop fly.

Then Abbattichio cut loose with the willow, and by the time the panting Gilbert recovered the ball the big Boston shortstop was on second and the two base runners were in. Cooley shot a short one to McCormick, who fumbled wretchedly. Delehanty kept up the agony by cracking a single to center and Batty scored.

Pittsburgh was so thoroughly demoralized that when Cooley stole all the way home while the ball lay on the grass with five or six men looking at it the crowd laughed derisively. The four runs won the game then and there, for the visitors were never able to overcome the lead. Phelps relieved Archer in the third, and gave Flaherty sadly-needed support behind the bat. After the change had been made he let himself out.

The locals had their batting habits on, however, and nothing short of marvelous fielding could have stopped the cannonball hits that they were making. The scores:

A FASHIONABLE WEDDING.

Mrs. James Brown Courtney Minutely Describes What Is Really Good Form.

If there's any time in a girl's life when more than at any other time she wishes to know what is absolutely the correct thing to do it's on the occasion of her wedding.

There are so many things to be thought of in connection with a wedding and so many variations in form to suit varying conditions and circumstances that the problem becomes exceedingly intricate and difficult.

Fortunately, Mrs. James Brown Courtney, who is an undisputed authority on matters social, has contributed to The Gazette an article explaining in minute detail just how everything should be done, from the reception of the engaged girl by the family of her future husband to the cards that shall be left after the wedding.

This article, which will be of great interest and real value to everybody who cares about "good form," will appear next Sunday in the Home Journal Section of The Sunday Gazette.

Cure for Asthma and Hay Fever

A Hay Fever sufferer writes: "I have had Hay Fever for 14 years. I bought a package of your remedy (Schiffmann's Asthma Cure), of our druggist and due to its use this is the first summer that I have not been troubled." Mrs. Frank Guilfogle, 6337 Ridge avenue, Roxboro, Philadelphia.

Mr. W. Sererus, Cavalier, N. D., says: "I was troubled with asthma for 20 years, about 8 years ago I started to use your Asthma Cure, and have not had an attack for six years."

Are You Out of Sorts

Many People, Not Really Sick, Are Out of Sorts—The Old-Time Energy and Spirits Are Lacking.

Something is needed to restore that animation that characterized the days before the system had been overtaxed or weakened by care, work, folly, excess or worry. Good, rich blood and strong, steady nerves are essential to perfect health and enjoyment of life. When vitality is lacking, pleasures cease and work becomes a drudge and drag. Blood is the well-spring and nerves the main-spring of the body. With either of them impaired life loses much of its charm. Nothing puts animation and satisfaction into living as quickly, safely and surely as Dr. Chase's Blood and Nerve Food. It soon brings you out of all unnatural mental or physical conditions due to either blood poverty or to nervous enfeeblement. Weigh yourself before taking it. This is the food that made the name "Chase" famous. The genuine is made only by The Dr. Chase Co., Philadelphia, Pa. Price 50 cents a box, five boxes, enough to give it a fair trial, $2.00. AMONG THE CLUBS

Preparing for the Benefit.

The principal business transacted at the meeting of the Pittsburgh and Allegheny Free Kindergarten association yesterday morning was the preparation for the annual benefit which this year will be a matinee at the Nixon on December 14, with Miss Viola Allen in "A Winter's Tale" as the attraction. Mrs. S. Jarvis Adams, second vice president, presided at the meeting, which was well attended. Mrs. James I. Buchanan read the treasurer's report and Mrs. M. E. Van Wagoner that of the kindergartener. Mrs. William McCracken, Jr., chairman of the educational committee, spoke of the excellence of the class of 22 young women entering the kindergarten college this year, among the women's colleges represented in the class being Wells, Wilson, Bryn Mawr and Baltimore. Four new members, Mrs. John Semple, Mrs. Samuel G. Cooper, Mrs. William C. Hamilton and Mrs. H. M. Corwin, were elected to the association, and the managers spoke of the course of 15 lectures to be delivered by Miss Susan E. Blow early in November. Miss Georgia Allison in the superintendent's report stated that there were now 63 kindergartens under the management of the association. One in the Twelfth ward school in East street, Allegheny; another in Rankin and a third in Munhall have been opened this fall, and on Monday of the coming week that in the Twelfth ward school in Mead street, Allegheny, will be ready for pupils. A report from the Eighth ward school, Allegheny, was presented by Miss Anne Doubt. Social settlement work is being done by Miss Doubt and her assistant, Miss Isabel Leggate, in the Eighth ward school. Miss Bessie McFarland of the Franklin school No. 2 of Pittsburgh told of the good accomplished by the bath established in the kindergarter. There are only three kindergartens in the city having the baths, the Trinity church, the Ralston and the Franklin schools.

Object Now Is to Raise Funds.

The main object of the meeting of the Soho public baths committee yesterday morning was to discuss ways and means of raising funds for the erection of the new bath house. No decision was arrived at, but the committee will probably give a benefit during the winter. Several generous donations have been promised. Plans were submitted by a London and a Pittsburgh architect, and although both were exceptionally attractive and embodied the principal features of similar institutions both in this country and abroad, neither plan was accepted. The meeting yesterday was one of the largest and most enthusiastic in months and nearly every woman's club in the city was represented. Formal action will be taken shortly to have each club appoint a public baths committee. The next meeting of the committee will be held on October 14 in the Methodist Book rooms in Penn avenue, the future meeting of the permanent civic committee and the Civic club of Allegheny.

Special Meeting of Sorosis.

A special meeting of the board of directors of Pittsburgh Sorosis was held yesterday morning at 10 o'clock in Horne's parlors. In order not to conflict with the New Era club's plans on October 12, Sorosis di-

PERSONALS

George Gardner, general superintendent of the Gulf & Ship Island railroad, was in Pittsburgh yesterday on his way to his home in Mississippi with his family. Mr. Gardner until six months ago was superintendent of the middle division of the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh railroad, with headquarters in Dubois. His mission here was to remove his household effects south. Mr. Gardner said that the south throughout the cotton-growing region was experiencing great prosperity and the cotton crop was so great that difficulty was experienced in finding hands to pick the cotton. The negroes, he said, were so lazy that they refused to work more than two or three days a week, and after receiving their scant pay spend the remainder of their time in idleness. The experiment of introducing foreign labor proved a failure because the foreigners refused to work for the wages which the planters could afford to pay.

Carlos Monez, a Cuban planter from Matanzas on his way to St. Louis, at the Union station last night told a story of similar difficulties which beset the sugar growers of his country. "The blessings of the soil threatens to arouse bitter political feeling," said Mr. Monez. "The crop is so great that much of it will be left standing until January, because it is impossible to find workmen to harvest it. The question of importing foreign labor is encouraged, but a strong element on the island discountenances immigration and declares it unpatriotic to encourage an alien working class. It has been suggested to import negroes from the southern states, but they are not wanted. 'Cuba for Cubans' is a cry which was heard there in the days of the Spanish rule, and independence has increased its volume. The unexampled prosperity of the new country will doubtless bring its own solution."

W. T. Powell, former president of the Pittsburgh Builders' exchange, went to Philadelphia last night.

"An American never knows how many pumpkins he is until he visits Europe on one of Uncle Sam's battleships," said Anson G. Reynolds, a sailor on the United States battleship Kearsarge, while he went through Pittsburgh last night to his home near Detroit to spend his furlough. "I used to cross the Atlantic on a merchant vessel and have traveled in all the large cities on the other side. On those excursions I felt just like the average American who goes to Europe. They bored me and there was nothing to take a fellow's mind off his liver except the landscape and the ruins. But last summer, when I went on the old Kearsarge (she's not so old, either, but that's what we call the good ship), it was funny to see the way the people over there bowed and scraped before us. Among all the ships of the world's fleets in those waters we were it. Nothing was too good for us. They see Uncle Sam in his Sunday best when he parades a few ships like the Kearsarge over there and they make you feel just how they think."

MORGUE RECORDS RELATE GHASTLY TALE OF DEATH

Coroner Dealt With 133 Cases During September, 15 of Which Were of Those Who Ended Their Own Lives.

Fifteen persons committed suicide in Allegheny county last month. During September 133 cases were reported to the coroner. Of that number two were murdered and four were accidentally shot. Of the persons who ended their lives 10 took carbolic acid, three shot themselves, one cut his throat with a razor and another with a piece of glass. Of the other deaths 25 were killed on railroads, 16 died from heart disease, seven were drowned, eight were killed in mills, five in mines, five died from burns, seven by street cars, five by falls, four infants were strangled to death, two died in the penitentiary, one man died from a dog bite, one man choked to death on a chicken bone, and one was killed in an explosion of dynamite.

Coroner McGeary is making a special investigation of the infants who were strangled to death. Never in the history of the coroner's office has there been so many infants deliberately killed as of late. This year 22 of these cases have been reported to the coroner. The suicide zone seems to have changed from Allegheny to this city. Of the persons who took their lives last month, 11 of them lived in Pittsburgh. During August nine persons committed suicide, and of that number six lived in this city.

Farms.

"FAYETTE FARMS."

We are now ready to offer our friends a choice five-acre farm in our new plan of "Fayette Farms," located near Bridgeville, Allegheny county, Pa., at a price less than they will have to pay for an ordinary lot in any of the nearby suburban towns.

This section has the best future of any adjacent to Pittsburgh; while it lies in the heart of the celebrated Chartiers valley, yet it is beautiful upland, with level surface and magnificent views.

The railway service is unsurpassed. Thirteen trains each way via the Panhandle make the trip between Bridgeville and Pittsburgh in 25 to 35 minutes; and the Wabash proposes to run plenty of trains each way in less than 15 minutes.

After a thorough search, this property has been selected by us as the most available for country homes for people engaged in business in the city, and we guarantee all freedom from the annoyance of crowded street cars by giving our patrons the choice between the two finest railways in the world. We want you to go and see these farms.

TRINITY,

MARKET BOUNDED UPWARD, LED BY STEEL PREFERRED

Boom in Northern Securities Started Another Bull Movement in High-Class Railroads—Local Securities Also Firmer.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

The New York stock market yesterday was the strongest for any day this week and prices reached the highest level for any day this year. The recovery in prices was much more easily accomplished than the reaction on Thursday afternoon, and it did much to confirm the eleventh-hour bulls in their position.

United States Steel preferred was the leader of the market, although this honor was shared later in the day by Northern Securities. The street was prepared to see the reaction go a little farther, and therefore at the opening there was some selling with the idea of taking the stock back at a profit later in the day. That opportunity never came. The only hesitation in the upward movement occurred during th opening half hour, when there were fractional recessions from initial prices. Early in the day rumor was rife that a very prominent speculative house was still short a large line of Steel stocks, and that Mr. Keene was entrusted with the work of making its position uncomfortable. Representatives of the house in question were purchasers of the preferred stock at the opening, and then the advance began. It never stopped until the gong sounded the close of the market, the final sale being at 74¼. This is the highest price for more than a year, and represents a net gain for the day of 2½ per cent. The common stock rose a dollar a share to 18½, and the sinking fund bonds advanced to and closed at 83, the highest price of the year. The impression is taking deeper root that while covering of shorts has had much to do with the advance in Steel preferred, it is likely that the corporation is exercising its privilege of exchanging its 5 per cent sinking fund bonds for the 7 per cent preferred stock, thereby saving 2 per cent in dividend requirements.

The minor iron and steel stocks were all stronger. Republic Iron and Steed preferred advanced 1⅝ per cent to 46¾. Cast Iron Pipe preferred advanced from 58½ to 56⅞. Tennessee Coal and Iron advanced to 48⅝, and American Locomotive advanced to 27¼. Strength also appeared in other parts of the industrial list, Consolidated Gas being conspicuous for an advance from 208 to 211. Peoples Gas rose to 108⅝. Amalgamated Copper to 68⅝, and Sugar to 132.

The advance of Northern Securities on the curb market, where it closed at 110¾ bid, the highest of the year, and the open buying of the stock by a prominent commission house which is always credited with representing Mr. J. J. Hill, revived stories of the probable settlement of the litigation out of court, and all of the Harriman stocks advanced. Union Pacific crossed 103, the highest of the year, and closed at 102⅝ bid. St. Paul was taken in hand late in the afternoon and on large buying by professionals and considerable manipulation the price was carried up to 160½, the highest of the year. The coal stocks and eastern trunk line issues were all strong and higher, but dealings in them were overshadowed by the excitement in the leaders. Baltimore & Ohio made a new high mark at 90¼ and closed at the top. Pennsylvania closed fractionally higher at 132⅛. Reading was the only prominent stock to close at a net decline. As a rule final prices were at or near the highest of the day and the market closed strong.

In the commodity markets there was a slight recovery in wheat, but corn sold off and cotton declined to the lowest of the week, closing at the bottom.

There was no change in call loan rates. The estimated net loss of cash to the banks this week foots up about $8,000,000. Predictions are that there will be an expansion in loans in today's statement, but the decline in sterling exchange and the freedom with which cotton bills are offering, serve to allay any fears of money stringency. The country would soon import gold if rates for call loans should advance very much.

United States Steel also led the local stock market yesterday, nearly half the total sales being in this stock. The common advanced to 18½ and the preferred to 74 and both closed at the top. There is probably a small short interest in both issues on the local board, but large transactions for local account on the short side are handled through houses with New York connections. The local market, however, is very sensitive to the movement in the east and responds readily to any fluctuations. Crucible Steel common advanced to 6⅝, the highest of the week, and the preferred rallied to 40⅝, closing at a net gain of ⅝ per cent. Westinghouse Electric was strong, selling at 82¾ ex-dividend, which was equivalent to 84 dividend on. Manufacturers Light and Heat sold at 37 ex-dividend and closed at 37½ bid. Philadelphia Company was not affected by the decision in its favor in the linear tax case. Pittsburgh Coal preferred rallied a fraction to 61⅞ and River Coal preferred was firm at 22 sales and bid. On call Federal National Bank sold at 188, a decline of 7 points from the last previous sale. Pittsburgh Junction first mortgage 6s sold at 122, an advance of 1½ per cent. The market closed moderately active and firm.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

The violent rise in United States Steel preferred yesterday caused some apprehension to be expressed in Wall street as to the supposed position of large and stubborn short interest. It was feared that this interest would be forced to sell some of its railroad stocks in order to take care of its short Steel preferred. Some of the traders who are alleged to be short are said to be Iron and steel men, who have grudgingly admitted that any improvement has taken place in the trade, and who do not hesitate to say that the advance in the stock has more than discounted any improvement likely to take place during the next three months at least. The strength of the general railroad market late in the day, however, did not indicate that there was any stress in the quarter referred to.

The opinion handed down yesterday declaring the linear tax ordinance void will not add anything to the revenues of the Philadelphia Company, but it does remove the threat of an important increase in the item of expenditures, and was a legitimate bull argument on the stock, but it had no effect upon the market here. Only 10 shares Philadelphia Company changed hands all day, the stock being neglected, while some of the other natural gas shares were fairly active.

Among unlisted securities, Pittsburgh Oil and Gas sold at 65 and closed at 65½ bid. Fayette Gas was quoted at 87 bid, and Union Natural Gas at 95 bid, 96 asked.

Sales of Tonopah Extension were reported at $1.50 in New York and at $1.51 in Pittsburgh.

The Monongahela Water directors have declared the usual quarterly dividend of 2 per cent, payable October 10.

Doty & Sutton bought 80 shares Federal National bank at 188. Whitney & Stephenson & Co. were sellers.

Philadelphia Company consolidated 5s advanced to and closed at 104¼ bid in the Philadelphia market.

On the local board 104 was bid for West Side Belt first 5s, and 102 and interest was bid for Meadville, Conneaut & Linesville 5s.

An acute Wall street observer sent this message after the close of the market: "No one believes that this market could be as strong as it is unless important interests were buying. Doubtless an agreement be arrived at as seems possible between the Hill and Harriman interests, it would mean many points advance from present figures."

The fact that Clark, Dodge & Co. were heavy buyers of Northern Securities yesterday is looked upon as very significant, as they represent the Hill interest more than any house in the street.

The Washington National bank has declared a quarterly dividend of 2 per cent, payable today.

The Third National bank has declared a quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent, payable today.

The Diamond Savings bank has declared a quarterly dividend of 2 per cent, payable today.

The German Savings and Deposit bank of the South Side has declared a quarterly dividend of 5 per cent, payable forthwith.

The First National bank of Oakdale has declared a quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent, payable today.

A director of the Metropolitan Securities Company says: "There has been no suggestion in the board as yet of a further assessment on the stock and I do not expect one in the early future. The company has in its treasury at least $10,000,000 in marketable securities which would be available for raising funds were they needed, but neither has this plan been brought before the directors. I have no reason to think that the company at this time has any need for more funds than are available in the ordinary course of its business."

Official disclaimers of the reported settlement of the Northern Securities suit did not seem to alter the effect of the report.

There were rumors in circulation again that the United States Steel Corporation was availing itself of its privilege to convert preferred stock into the second mortgage bonds, but there was no official sanction for this report. The strength of the stock was not affected by assertions that prices of steel billets were being shaded below the price agreed upon nor by reported large orders placed with outside tin plate makers at prices below the corporation's schedule.

The Seligman syndicate, which in July purchased $16,000,000 5½ per cent bonds of the city of Philadelphia, maturing 1924, has been closed, the remainder of the syndicate's holdings, about $3,000,000 bonds, having been purchased by Fisk & Robinson and Farson, Leach & Co. jointly. The two latter firms also secured $1,000,000 of bonds outside of the above amount.

The tranquility of the money market lessened the influence of a forecast of the currency movement, which gave a promise of a decidedly unfavorable bank statement, although there was some hesitation in the stock market when the estimates of the cash movement first made their appearance. The subtreasury had taken from the banks up to Thursday $6,790,000, and something more than $1,000,000 additional is estimated to have gone out on the direct movement. An expansion in the loan item would not be a surprise, although the extent to which the trust companies have been taking over loans from the banks will affect the showing.

FEATURES OF THE DAY

IN PITTSBURGH.

Bank exchanges for September decreased $26,860,000 compared with last year.

Stock market more active and prices closed steady to firm.

Half the business was in the Steel stocks and they led the advance.

Westinghouse Electric advanced to 82¾ ex-dividend and closed at the top.

Pittsburgh Coal preferred rallied to 61⅞ and River Coal preferred was firm at 22.

Natural Gas stocks were fairly active at slight declines.

IN WALL STREET.

Stock market strong and higher under the lead of United States Steel.

The common advanced to 18½, the preferred to 74½ and the bonds to 83.

In the railroads Northern Securities closed at 110½ bid, the highest this year.

Union Pacific at 103½ and St. Paul at 160½ were also new high marks.

The whole market closed buoyant at top prices.

Sales included $29,300 shares stock and $6,350,000 bonds.

THE MONEY MARKET.

Local money market conditions remain easy and unchanged. Bankers quote 5@6 per cent on call and time loans, and the supply of funds is equal to the demand. As will be seen in the subjoined clearing house comparisons, the clearings for September were with one exception the smallest for any month this year, and were $26,000,000 below the total for the corresponding month last year. The figures in detail are as follows:

FIRST AVENUE LOT PURCHASED

Hartje Brothers Complete Site for a Warehouse to Cost $100,000.

SEPTEMBER'S LOW RECORD

Richard and Augustus Hartje yesterday purchased 21 feet more of First avenue frontage for a price approximating $28,000. The property is directly in the rear of the John P. Schafer lot, which they secured last week for $50,000, and belonged to S. R. Patterson & Co. A two-story brick building now tenanted by James Kirby, dealer in grindstones, stands on the lot. This purchase gives Hartje Bros. five lots at the southeast corner of Wood street and First avenue, having a frontage of 76.8 feet on the former and 81 feet on the latter thoroughfare. The leases on all the buildings have been so arranged that the site will be cleared this fall for a 10-story warehouse. As soon as Architect Charles Bickel has completed plans for this building bids will be taken and the contract awarded that work may start not later than January 1. The building will have white terra cotta fronts and will cost $100,000. It will be so planned that there will be three separate warehouses facing in Wood street, which can be rented singly or thrown together as desired. This is the fifth warehouse which Hartje Bros. have built within three years near this corner, and the fact that all of those completed are rented at prices that assure a net revenue of at least 8 or 10 per cent is abundant evidence that their projects pay from a financial standpoint, as well as greatly improving that section of the city.

September Made Poor Showing.

The September total of real estate dealings furnishes the poorest record for that month since 1900, as shown by the following table:

Year.	No. of Transfers.	Amount
1904	482	$2,325,800
1903	552	4,247,500
1902	558	3,584,700
1901	371	3,378,700
1900	390	2,282,800

August of this year had a total of 456 transfers amounting to $1,975,300, so that September made a considerable gain over that month. The record will not be a disappointing one to most men who have watched the trend of the market closely, for few expected that there would be an boom in real estate this fall. The absence of a large number of brokers the early part of the month and the stubbornness of dealers in closing transactions which had been pending for a long time combined to bring the month's business down to a comparatively low mark. It must be said also that the realty market has suffered from the slump which, in common with the stock market, received last year. Although values have not suffered materially, buying has been at a low ebb nearly all summer, and it is only within the past two weeks that the appearance of well-known and aggressive investors in the field has added something of the old-time activity. September of 1903 was a good month in the total sales, for the real estate boom at that time was in the wane. On the contrary it is freely predicted that this year the gain made in September over August will be continued throughout the fall.

Bought in Choice Location.

One of the finest residence sites in the East End belonging to Henrietta Fahnestock has been sold to Carl C. Baldridge of Braddock for $22,500. The property is 150x165 feet at the northwest corner of Penn and Lexington avenues, Twenty-first ward. It is directly across the avenue from the D. R. Carr property and the "Clayton" residence of H. C. Frick. The holdings of Lucy C. Carnegie, J. E. Schwartz and I. M. Peacock are also in the immediate neighborhood. It is reported that the buyer will erect a fine residence on the site.

The fine weather of the past month has encouraged builders and the number of small projects being started is increasing instead of decreasing, as is often the case at this season. September promises to make an excellent record in building statistics. Yesterday permits amounting to over $36,000 were taken out in Pittsburgh as follows: D. J. Kennedy & Company, frame warehouse, Frankstown avenue, Twenty-first ward, to cost $15,000; W. G. and H. C. McEldowney, 10 brick dwellings, Bedford avenue and Morgan street, Thirteenth ward, to cost $15,000; also brick store and dwelling at the same place to cost $3,000; W. A. Roberts, three brick veneered dwellings, Clearview street, Nineteenth ward, to cost $15,000; A. L. Richmond, brick veneered dwelling, Maple terrace, Thirty-second ward, to cost $4,500; Miss D. Bonsall, brick addition to dwelling, Second avenue, First ward, to cost $3,000; Walter Evens, brick dwelling, Ophelia street, Fourteenth ward, to cost $2,800; James R. Gansnt, brick veneered dwelling, Moore street, Thirteenth ward, to cost $2,500; Charles Reinke, brick dwelling, Harmer street, Thirteenth ward, to cost $1,800, and W. S. Worcester, frame dwelling, Sylvan avenue, Twenty-third ward, to cost $1,400.

FLOUR PROMISES SOME STILL HIGHER MOVEMENT

Well Informed Millers Think Price Will Go Up, Though No Change Was Made Yesterday.

The last day of the month is always a slow one in the market, and yesterday was no exception to the rule. There were no changes of note in any articles, although sales were lively and a better business was done for the last day of September than for the corresponding day in August. Flour is the interesting staple just now, and householders as well as dealers are watching the conduct of the market in that necessary article. Although no change took place yesterday, well-informed millers are looking for a decided upward tendency in price.

"Don't look for any lower prices," was the advice sent out yesterday, and there is every indication that flour is going to soar within a very short time, and there will be no drop in price for months to come.

The cheese market took a decided upward trend in the interior markets last week, an advance of 5@6 to 9@c per pound being noted. The butter market is strong. The demand is heavy and there is a considerable shrinkage in the supply. This is due to the failure of pasture and the neglect of farmers and dairy men to feed their cattle as the grass goes. There is no apparent change in eggs. Scarcely any newly laid stock is appearing. It is mostly all storage and held-fresh that is on the market today. A remarkable thing about the egg market is that this year the figures never got down to their accustomed level. There was not a time during the summer when the farmer could not get 18 and 19 cents for his eggs, and many got even a higher price in the warm weather season, when eggs are generally driven on the market, by selling them strictly fresh.

Navy beans, which are much more of an important article of diet than the vaudeville artist and the funny man would lead one to believe, are a scarce crop this year, and the price has jumped to $1.90 and $2 a bushel. Callers for a clean state and rains before this year have rusted the vines and spoiled the crop. The price will probably be higher before long.

Receipts yesterday were as follows: Apples, 4 cars, making 21 in stock; cantaloupes 3, making 13; grapes, 2, making 27; pineapples, 1, making 2; pears, 3, making 19; sweet potatoes, 1, making 25; grapes, 2, making 27; peaches, 7, making 30; potatoes, 8, making 39; California fruits, 3, making 8; miscellaneous, 8, making 15.

Bananas are still rolling in, 13 cars being added to those already in stock, making a total of 25 cars of the tropical fruit on hand for Pittsburgh banana lovers.

HAY AND GRAIN.

Receipts of hay and grain yesterday were as follows: Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, 4 cars hay, 1 car oats, 1 car husks; Baltimore & Ohio, 4 cars hay, 1 car feed; Pennsylvania lines, 27 cars bar, 1 cars oats, 4 cars corn, 4 cars feed, 2 cars straw and 1 car potatoes. The market prices did not cahnge and the demand remains about the same as has characterized the whole week.

SLIGHT ADVANCE IN PRICE OF WHEAT

Is Due to Secret Purchases of Prominent Bull Leader. Corn Is Off.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—Stimulated by reports of covert purchases by a prominent trader, who was ostensibly an open seller, the wheat market today turned from weakness to strength. At the close December wheat was up ¾@7⁄8c. May showed a gain of 1@1⅛c. Corn is down a shade. Oats and provisions are about unchanged.

At the opening, sentiment in the wheat pit was rather bearish. The cause of the easier feeling was heavy shipments from Argentina, liberal receipts in the northwest and weakness in foreign grain markets. Initial quotations on December were a shade higher to ⅛@¼c lower, at $1 11⅝ to $1 11⅞. May was ⅛c higher to ¼c lower at $1 12½ to $1 12⅝. After touching $1 12, December steadily declined to $1 11⅛, while May sold off to $1 11⅜. The main feature of trading was a series of operations by a leader of the bull crowd. The belief was quite general that although this operator was an open seller, his purchases through brokers more than offset the sales. The pit crowd was influenced by reports of the alleged purchases. The result was a rally in prices. A report by a St. Louis trade journal, construed as bullish, increased the strength. According to the St. Louis paper, many complaints have been received regarding delayed plowing and seeding in the southwest. In this connection the claim was made that many flour mills south of the Ohio river are already drawing on active points for supplies. Under a fair demand December advanced to $1 12⅞@1 13, and May to $1 13⅝. The market held firm the latter part of the day, although the advance was not maintained. Final quotations on December were at $1 12⅝, May closed at $1 13⅜@1 13½. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 112,000 bushels. Primary receipts were 1,251,000 bushels, compared with 1,113,200 bushels a year ago. Exports of wheat and flour for the week, as shown by Bradstreet's, were equal to 1,182,000 bushels. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 986 cars against 997 cars last week and 746 cars a year ago.

An easier tone prevailed in the corn market early in the day, the causes being liberal receipts and an alleged bearish Missouri crop report. According to the figures of the Missouri crop official, the total yield of corn in that state would be 17,000,000 bushels in excess of the government estimate. Later in the day an announcement was made that the official Missouri report had not yet been published. This denial resulted in considerable rally in prices. The market weakened again, however, on realizing, the close being easy. December opened unchanged to ⅛c lower, at 50⅜c to 50¾c, sold between 50½c and 51¼c and closed at 50⅝@50⅞c. Local receipts were 152 cars, with 11 of contract grade.

As a result of the liberal new crop, sentiment in the oats pit was bearish. A feature of the trading was the fair purchase of May by the pit crowd. December opened ⅛c lower at 30½c, ranged between 30¼c and 30⅝c, and closed at 30⅝c. Local receipts were 128 cars.

Provisions were firm. Higher prices for hogs and decreasing stocks of provisions were the bull factors. There was continued liquidation of October pork and ribs, while shorts covered quite freely in lard. At the close January pork was 5 cents higher at $13 20@25. Lard was up 2½@5c at $7 40@7 42½. Ribs were up 2½c at $6 85.

Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, 68 cars; corn, 153 cars; oats, 146 cars; hogs, 8,000 head.

YEAR'S LAST QUARTER OPENS PROMIS

NO INTERFERENCE UP IN WISCONSIN

Roosevelt Will Keep Hands Off the Factional Fight in That State.

PRESIDENCY NOT AFFECTED

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU.
Room 10, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 30.

President Roosevelt again made the emphatic statement today that he would not interfere with the Wisconsin factional fight. He told Representative Cooper of that state that under no circumstances would the administration take any part in the contest.

"The president told me," Mr. Cooper said, "that the administration desires the support of every loyal Republican, and has no intention of directly or indirectly espousing the cause of either side in Wisconsin. There is no occasion to do so, and no desire to do so.

"There is absolutely no question in my mind that the state is safely for the Republican nominee by a liberal majority. The only trouble now is with the supreme court of the state, which has its decision as to the two electoral tickets in process of incubation. The tickets are identical, and it is merely a question of whether the stalwarts or the followers of Gov. Lafollette shall be recognized as entitled to the use of the party name and emblem. That point decided, there will be a single Republican electoral ticket in the field and Wisconsin's solid Republican vote will be cast for it."

HAS SENT 2,000 TRAINS TO THE FAIR AT ST. LOUIS

Pennsylvania Lines Make a Great Record Since the Fair Was Opened.

With the departure last night from Union station of three world's fair trains in succession a record of 2,000 passenger trains was established in the traffic between Pittsburgh and St. Louis over the Pennsylvania lines from the opening of the St. Louis exposition up to the close of September. From all indications the travel to the fair in the ensuing two months before the gates close December 1 will exceed that of the five months past, and probably surpass all exposition transportation records held by the Pennsylvania system, which carried millions of passengers to and from the Chicago world's fair and the Philadelphia centennial.

Early in the season the world's fair passenger service between Pittsburgh and St. Louis was increased to six trains daily both ways to accommodate world's fair travel over the Pennsylvania lines. Besides the regular through train service there have been many special trains. The afternoon train leaving Union station at 2 o'clock, known as the world's fair special, has conveyed a large proportion of Pittsburghers to St. Louis. The need for additional cars to accommodate world's fair travel from this city led to the establishment of the solid Pullman section of the St. Louis limited, especially for the use of Pittsburghers, and the railroad officials state that more cars are ready to be put into service as fast as needed.

The marked increase in travel to St. Louis, which has become most pronounced in the last few days, is attributed to several causes—the approaching end of the world's fair, the greatly reduced excursion fares, the full awakening of people to the marvelous character and extent of the St. Louis exposition, and last, but not least, the exceptionally favorable weather in St. Louis at this season of the year.

MAIL THIEVES' WORK.

Rob American Mail on Train from Paris to Havre.

PARIS, Sept. 30.—(By Associated Press.)—Thieves rifled many sacks of mail on the train from Paris to Havre last night. Most of it was bound for the United States. Everything of value was taken and thousands of dollars secured.

Besides French correspondence, the sacks included those from Egypt, Italy and other countries. The official mail of the American embassy and consulate was not included, as it was not forwarded until today. The French postal authorities state that a similar robbery was attempted a week ago on the same mail train.

HE MADE HIS WILL ON A STORMY SEA

Panic-Stricken Passenger Failed to Consider It Would Be Lost, Too.

WILD WAVES DAMAGED SHIP

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU.
Herald Building, Herald Square.
NEW YORK, Sept. 30.

While the Hamburg-American liner Moltke was rolling and plunging in a hurricane blowing 75 miles an hour last Saturday, the 400 steerage passengers became so frightened as to compel the officers on the ship to go below to the steerage quarters in an effort to calm them.

According to one of the officers, a cabin passenger, a German bound for Milwaukee, was so frightened by the storm he asked several other fellow voyagers to go to the purser's office to act as witnesses while he made his will. The officers say the document was duly drawn up and signed, but they declined to furnish the name of the man who made it.

The storm lasted 24 hours, and Saturday night is described by passengers as one of terror. Great combers broke over the ship, damaging the deck fixtures and making it extremely dangerous for even the officers on the bridge, many feet above where the seas broke. At no time was there any panic, but the officers were constantly among the saloon and steerage passengers trying to quiet them.

One of the officers, who stood near the passenger who made his will, said the ship plunged so wildly that the ink bottle, used in drawing up the document, lurched to all sides of the table, spilling part of the contents over the will. The officers explained the reason for not giving the name of the man as being due to the fact that he was thoroughly ashamed of himself when the sea went down and the ship became steady.

One of the passengers asked the will maker at Sandy Hook today if he were aware of the fact the document would have gone down with the vessel had anything serious occurred. He replied he had not thought of that. The Moltke arrived at Hoboken today.

Edwards Is a Bolter.

CHARLESTON, W. VA., Sept. 30.—(Special.)—W. S. Edwards, who was the opponent of Congressman J. H. Gaines for the nomination from the Third congressional district and who was nominated by a separate convention at Hinton the same day Gaines was nominated, has announced he will be an independent Republican candidate. The congressional muddle in the Lucy district was decided several days ago by the Republican national congressional committee in favor of Gaines, the committee holding the latter to be the regular nominee.

Thief Used Acid and Gun.

BUTLER, Sept. 30.—(Special.)—A chicken thief shot at and threw a bottle of carbolic acid at Miss Minnie Armstrong in West street. Miss Armstrong heard a noise in the yard and investigated with a revolver. She saw a man and fired at him. He returned the fire and threw the bottle which struck the side of a shed. None of the shots took effect.

THE THREE RIVERS

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 30.—The stage of the river at 8 o'clock this evening marked 3.6 feet and falling. Clear and warm. Business very dull on the levees. The packets were in and out on good time. The stage of the river is the lowest since 1887, when the gauge stood at the 3.3 feet stage. There is a prospect that the water will even go lower than the mark of 1887, because the records show that October is the driest month of the year. Capt. W. H. Hint of Pittsburgh was a visitor on the floor of the chamber of commerce today. The government snagboat E. A. Woodruff has finished the cleaning and will lay up for a time.

LOUISVILLE—River stationary; in canal, 2.5; on falls, 0.3; below locks, 3.4. Clear and warm.

STEUBENVILLE—River 3 feet and rising. WHEELING—River 2 feet 10 inches and rising. Cloudy and warm.

GALLIPOLIS—River 1 foot 11 inches and falling. Clear and warm.

MORGANTOWN—River 5 feet 10 inches and stationary. Clear.

PARKERSBURG—River 1 foot 7-10 inches and stationary. Clear and hot. No boats.

POINT PLEASANT—River 10 inches and stationary. Cloudy and cool.

GREENSBORO—River 5 feet and stationary. Clear and warm. Columbia down Saturday and Woodward up.

OIL CITY—River 1 foot 5 inches. Clear and cool.

WARREN—River 1 foot 8 inches. Fair and cool.

The stage of water at Davis island dam at 9 o'clock last night was 3.6 and the river was stationary.

Old Wells in Fairview District Pay for Being Drilled Down

While none of the wells are of the gusher kind, operators are having fairly good success in drilling down old wells in the Fairview district, in Marion county, W. Va. The South Penn Oil Company has just drilled its No. 7 on the P. E. Amos farm from the Big Injun to the fifth sand and will have a producer good for 100 barrels a day. In the same district, the same company has drilled its No. 7 on old W. R. Chapman farm into the fifth sand and has a 15-barrel pumper.

In the Salem district, Harrison county, the Invincible Oil Company has drilled its test on the Isaac N. Wilcox farm through the Gordon and the hole has filled up 2,300 feet with fluid. It will make a 15 or 20-barrel pumper. In the same district, the South Penn has completed its No. 5 on the Samuel Gain farm and will not have better than a 10-barrel pumper in the Gordon.

On the east side of the Folsom district, Harrison county, the South Penn has drilled its No. 2 on the Jesse Taddington farm eight feet into the stray and has developed no oil. The No. 2 on the F. W. Mason farm is through the Gordon and has filled up 1,300 feet with fluid. It will make a 10 or 15-barrel pumper.

In the Smithfield district, Wetzel county, the South Penn has drilled its No. 14 on the B. W. Peterson farm into the top of the Gordon and has developed no oil. The same company's No. 5 on the Isaac Hogue farm is through the Gordon and dry.

On Middle Island creek, Union district, Tyler county, Bartlett & Riddle have completed their test on the Angeline Williamson farm and have a show for a 15-barrel producer in the Keener sand. On the same stream and in the same district, Trees & Miskimins have drilled their test on the D. M. Danser farm through the Big Injun and have a 10-barrel pumper.

North of Ritchie mines, Ritchie county, the South Penn company has made a deep test of its No. 12 on the Frederick Miller farm. After drilling through all formations, including the Berea grit and finding nothing, it drilled 100 feet deeper and had no better results.

In the Yellow creek district, Calhoun county, the Lowther Oil Company has drilled its No. 5 on the Thomas K. Ferrell farm through the Berea grit and has a natural production of about 40 barrels a day. Within 350 feet northwest of Mallory Brothers & Company's No. 1 on the James Rodgers farm, The Lowther company has given its test on the S. B. Sanders farm a shot and it is producing 15 barrels a day. The South Penn's No. 3 on the H. I. Jackson farm has increased its production to 222 barrels a day.

On the east branch of McFarlan creek, Murphy district, Ritchie county, the South Penn has drilled its second test on the J. F. Lamp farm through all sands and has a duster.

In the Burning Springs district, Wirt county, Emma A. Mapes has completed No. 2 on the Rathbone oil tract and has a five-barrel pumper in the first Cow Run sand at a depth of 950 feet.

Near Weston, Lewis county, the Reserve Gas Company has drilled its test on the Caroline Oldnere farm into the fifth sand and has a fair gasser. In the same district, the same company has completed its test on the John Murray farm and has a Gordon gasser. In Webster district, Doddridge county, the Hope Gas Company has drilled its test on the P. E. Britton farm into the Big Injun and has a fair gasser. On Elk Lick run, Clay district, Harrison county, near Shinnston, the Hope company has a fair gasser at its test on the C. B. Bice farm, in the Big Injun. South of Downs station, Marion county, the South Penn has drilled its test on the Mary Mowbrill farm into the Big Injun and has developed a gas pressure.

In the Smiths Ferry district, in Beaver county, Pa., the Japanese Oil Company has completed a test on the D. C. Colbert farm and has a duster. In the same district, Raymond Cranmill & Company have completed a test well on the Ben Lawrence farm and had the same kind of luck. Both wells have been drilled through the Berea grit.

Near Fredericktown, Columbiana county, the Freehold Oil and Gas Company has completed a test well on the George Hamilton farm and has a duster in the Berea sand. On Georgetown island, McHaffie & Company have completed their test on the David Troupe farm and have a show for a small pumper.

In the Wolf creek district, Morgan county, the Hastings Oil Company and the South Petroleum Company's No. 16 on the George E. Morris farm is holding up at 100 barrels a day. In the same district, the Ohio and Indiana Oil Company has completed No. 16 on the Joseph Yarnell farm and has a five-barrel pumper in the shallow sand.

On the Ohio side in the Marietta district, Washington county, Henry Suher has completed his No. 5 on the Margaret Porter farm and has a three-barrel pumper in the first Cow Run sand.

South of Burgettstown, Washington county, R. J. G. Gillespie has completed his No. 10 on the John Scott farm and has a show for a small pumper.

PLANS FOR CELEBRATION NEARING COMPLETION

All River Towns Working for Merrill Dam Opening—Budget of River News and Notes.

Arrangements for the celebration of the opening of the new dam at Merrill, in the Ohio river, are approaching completion. Meetings are being held in some towns along the river nightly to arrange a portion of the program. The following committees have charge of the affair:

Executive—Capt. John F. Drayo, president; James W. Doncaster and Garrett T. Bentel, secretaries; Hon. I. F. Mansfield, treasurer; J. P. Leaf, Hon. T. L. Kennedy, John S. Duss, J. L. S. Dawson, O. C. Vedrey, George Linnenbrink, Capt. Calvin Blazier, John McKee, David Mitchell, Frank M. Bickerstaff, W. J. Patterson, Archie Stewart, Ross Wilson, Socrates A. Dickey, Robert Fairman, J. H. Wagner, Capt. M. S. Marquis, A. A. Atterholt, Hon. C. C. Townsend.

Transportation—Capt. Calvin Blazier, chairman; Capt. William Batchelor, Capt. C. C. Noss, Archie Stewart, William Mohler, Col. Samuel Moody, Jesse Dean, W. L. Smith, Wallace L. Fogo, Julius F. Kurtz, Joseph F. Mitchell.

Reception and arrangements—J. P. Leaf, chairman; W. B. McGrew, Frank C. O'Rourke, Fred Davidson, Hon. John T. Taylor, Hon. W. B. Dunlap, Capt. M. S. Marquis, W. H. Surles, Hon. T. W. Phillips, Capt. John H. Dippold.

Finance—Hon. T. L. Kennedy, chairman; H. H. Newkirk; Hon. I. F. Mansfield, J. S. Boots, J. D. Perrott, Gilbert Trumpeter, J. C. Cato, William Roessler, Perry Smith, Daniel Snead.

A rumor that the rise in the rivers had caused great damage at the new dam in the Allegheny at Springdale is denied by J. W. Arris, the engineer in charge. He says everything is working smoothly there and the only effect of the rise has been to delay the contractor a little, but nothing more serious resulted.

Secretary W. J. Wood of the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke Company, who resigned his position some time ago, served his last day in that capacity yesterday. He leaves for California Monday and will probably make his future home in the land of sunshine.

A committee of masters and pilots called on Maj. W. L. Sibert, United States engineer in charge of the Ohio river, and requested that a fence be built at White's riffle towhead. Maj. Sibert informed the visitors that he would proceed with the improvement immediately. This will do much to make navigation at that point safer.

The Ohio Valley Improvement association has fixed November 16, 17 and 18 as the dates for its convention this year. It will meet at Morgantown, W. Va., on those dates.

For the first time in the history of the local rivers Pittsburgh had an automobile ferry yesterday. The Sunflower and Beauty were busy carrying excursionists to the auto races at Brunots Island. A large number of autos were transported on the two boats, the Pittsburgh & Cincinnati wharf boat being used for loading.

Work on the new dams is progressing finely this summer, owing to the long spell of dry weather and the extreme low water. It is believed that everything will be in such condition by winter that ice and high water will do little damage.

The Columbia was the Morgantown boat yesterday. She had a good cargo of freight, but the end of the season has come in the passenger business and there is little doing in that line.

SOME ELECTION BETS WILL BRING TORTURE

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(Special.)—Some funny bets are being made on the presidential result. One man has wagered if Parker is not elected he will stand on a cake of ice, weighing 300 pounds, in his bare feet, until the ice melts. According to another bet, if Parker is defeated, the Parker man is to roll a peanut across the Brooklyn bridge. If Roosevelt is beaten his man will have to get shaved on one side of his face only for one month.
